

LOCAL SYMPHONY GROUP WILL GIVE CONCERT SUNDAY

Vesper Program in Music Hall Will Be First Appearance of Year.

Making its first appearance this year, the University Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Harold S. Dyer, will present a vesper concert Sunday afternoon, December 18, at 4:00 o'clock in the Hill Music hall.

More than fifty musicians representing students, faculty, and townspeople have for the past several years united to compose this organization. The program for this concert contains the following numbers:

Egmont Overture by Beethoven; selections from the Nutcracker Suite of Tchaikowsky, commemorative of the Christmas season; Minuetto by Bolzoni; the Siegfried Idylle of Wagner; and the complete Capriccio Espanol of Rimsky-Korsakoff.

The orchestra is to be augmented by the services of Miss Alice Hundley of Durham, harpist. The Rimsky-Korsakoff number is scored heavily for harp, and the Nutcracker Suite of Tchaikowsky utilizes the harp in the cadenza in the last of this suite, the Valse de Fleur. As is customary with all concerts given in the Hill Music auditorium, there is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

PROJECT GROUPS APPOINTED FOR LIBRARY ROUTINE

Announcement Made of Three Committees to Work on Various Problems.

A trio of committees has been appointed to work on projects and routine of the University library, it was announced yesterday from the president's office.

Professor Robert B. Downs, of the library department, will head all three committees. The three committees are the library book committee, the library budget committee, and the bibliographical aids committee.

Other members of the book committee are as follows: Professors Bernard Dey, Murchison, H. V. Wilson, Mackenney, and MacMillan.

Other members of the library budget committee are: Professors A. W. Hobbs, Bell, Carroll, Baity, Walker, Pierson, Van Hecke, Manning, Jackson, and Beard.

Members of the bibliographical aids committee are: Professors Pierson, MacNider, Harrer, Coffman, Knight, Vance, Zimmerman, Van Hecke, and W. C. Coker.

T. J. Wilson Returns

Dr. Thomas J. Wilson, Jr., registrar of the University, will return today from New Orleans where he has attended a meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States. Dr. Wilson represented the University during his ten-day attendance of the various sessions.

E. A. Abernethy Visits

Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Abernethy and Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Comed returned last night from a short visit to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nelson, parents of Joseph Nelson, Jr., University freshman who died in the infirmary last week.

Dormitory Club to Meet

The dormitory club will meet tonight at 7:00 o'clock in 210 Graham Memorial.

World News Bulletins

Hoover Proposes Sales Levy A blanketing manufacturers' sales tax covering virtually everything but food, and an additional eleven per cent pay cut for federal employees was recommended to congress yesterday by President Hoover.

Einstein Will Sail for U. S. Dr. Albert Einstein and Frau Einstein were advised yesterday morning that the state department had granted them permission to come to the United States. They said they would leave December 10 as scheduled.

Marchers Parade Under Guard Under heavy police guard, delegates from 3,000 demonstrators who marched to the Capitol in orderly ranks yesterday presented Vice-President Curtis and Speaker Garner with petitions for cash relief to the jobless and for unemployment insurance.

104 Die in Monsoon The trim Japanese destroyer Sawarabi drifted upside down in the East China sea yesterday, with 104 of her crew probably dead, victims of the treacherous Monsoon that blows off the coast of Asia.

Y MAKES CANVASS OF STUDENT BODY

Cabinets Make Plans for Sending Delegate to Student-Faculty Federation in Atlanta.

Dormitories are being covered by members of the freshman friendship council in the annual Christmas seal campaign conducted by them under the auspices of the local Red Cross. Members, assigned beats, will turn in all receipts and give reports at the Y. M. C. A. by 5:00 o'clock this afternoon. The Red Cross chapter has covered fraternities and campus boarding houses.

At the council meeting Monday night, plans for sending a delegate to the student-faculty convention in Atlanta were made. A nominal charge will be levied on all members to sustain the expenses of the delegates trip. James Craighill was appointed chairman of a committee to raise the necessary funds.

It was decided that the next meeting would be a social affair and would take place at the regular time in Graham Memorial. A program planned by Edwin Lanier, self-help secretary, will be presented at that time.

The Dope Bucket

(Continued from page three) as a great offensive back; instead, it was his defensive play that caught the fans' eyes. . . . The National Junior Indoor tennis play has been changed from Atlantic City to New York. More profit in New York. . . . Temple University has been making remarkable strides in an effort to make "big time" football, and the signing of "Pop" Warner is just about the climax to their efforts. . . . North Carolina will open up Penn State's boxing season February 11. . . . While on boxing, rumors persist in saying that Carolina will meet Yale's mittmen in the very near future.

Infirmary List

The following were confined to the infirmary yesterday: S. A. Cardwell, Jr., Paul F. Mickey, Peter M. Hairston, F. M. Hargraves, Ben Brothers, J. M. Queen, James S. Love, Ralph Weatherford, W. S. White, and Miss Elizabeth Kinney.

Night Football At Last Comes To Long Suffering Carolina Students

It Seems, However, That Pine Trees in Lower Quadrangle Suffer Approximately as Many Injuries as Players in First Tilt Played Here Under Artificial Light.

Shades of Thomas Alva Edison! His great gift to mankind has recently made possible a new nocturnal sport on the athletic fields of the University. But not the Athletic Association nor any of the coaches of the various teams have introduced the revolutionary athletic innovation. It remained for the ingenuity of the members of the lower quadrangle dormitories to inaugurate their own special brand of night football.

Although the varsity has completed its schedule and the tag championship rests safely within the confines of the A. T. O. house, the boom of the soaring punt is still a familiar sound on the campus. The ever-lessening hours of daylight have in no way impaired the enthusiasm for the football that is still being played on the quadrangles between Effer and Grimes, and between Everett and Graham.

Close Score

A particularly hard-fought game was recently in progress on the green-sward between I. and G. dormitories. After hours of play the score was approximately 106 to 107. The sun had gone down, and shadows were creeping over the field. When neither side could see the ball, fumbles and mis-plays became annoyingly numerous.

To end the game with such a close score was clearly against the principles of both ball clubs. It has long been the policy of the participants in such games to fight to a bitter, if sometimes futile, finish. However, in this case it would not be long before inky darkness would settle down on the field and preclude absolutely any further playing. The captains came together and conferred on the problem which threatened the honor of the opposing teams. The somewhat stupefying result of their pow-wow was that time was taken out by both sides and the players left the field. Apparently the forces of darkness had triumphed.

Not so! The never-say-die spirit manifested itself in the solution of the mystery. Fiat Lux! Shortly after the dispersion, from every window on the west side of Everett two electric lights were trained on the battle ground. Chapel Hill was receiving its baptism of electrically illumined gridiron play.

Game Carried On

The struggle continued. The players were no longer butterfingered, and many long passes were completed. Then at 9:00 o'clock the contest came to an abrupt close when a 120-pound guard attempted to take out a tall pine tree he had mistaken for a charging linesman. The injured player was carried off the field, and by mutual consent the hostilities ceased. The lights had shown themselves efficient, but hardly any more safe-guard against injury than the rays of the sun.

As at the first performance a large crowd of spectators is expected to witness the second showing of the football-spot-light-hounds, which is due to be presented sometime during the latter part of the week. As yet, the originators have displayed a decided unwillingness to license other such groups with the privilege of using their invention. It is also held upon good authority that the captains of the teams have received no complaints from the inmates of the dormitories to the effect that the new enterprise has proven a distraction from their scholastic efforts.

INTRAMURAL MITT TOURNEY BEGINS IN TIN CAN TODAY

(Continued from page three) unlimited, with four pounds allowed for overweight in the first seven.

The popularity of the new division is proved by the fact that it has seven men entered for the tourney, ranking second to the 125 pounders which have eight, the greatest number entered.

Lewis dormitory will have six men fighting to bring titles back there, and Zeta Psi and Best House will have five each. A. T. O. comes next with four, and Aycock, Everett, and Beta Theta Pi each will have two. Nearly every other fraternity and dormitory will have at least one entrant.

Tourney Develops Talent

In addition to having a reputation for producing furious fighting and lots of thrills, the intramurals are also watched intently because of the frequent emergence of many fine varsity and freshman team prospects. John Warren, Noah Goodridge, Archie Allen, and numerous others have come through the tourney to gain future ring glory, Goodridge and Allen later winning Southern Conference championships.

The 125 pounders, who promise to furnish some of the hottest competition, will have a four-cornered riot when Max Frucht, J. A. Crawford, Alan Smith, one-time intramural champ, and Baxter Mowery, last year's winner, get together; but one of the remaining four boys in this division may pull a surprise and steal their thunder.

In the other divisions, things are so evenly matched that no one looks better than another.

PHILLIPS RUSSELL TO GIVE COURSE IN CREATIVE WRITING

(Continued from first page) five students, in order that each member of the class may receive individual attention, should he desire it. As in the case of English 53, the permission of the instructor is necessary before a student is allowed to register for the course.

English 53 is rich in historical precedent. The late President Edward Kidder Graham taught it for many years, as did Dr. Edwin Greenlaw, and Dr. Addison Hibbard, former dean of the school of liberal arts.

STUDENT DISCOVERS GEOLOGICAL CLAY BEDS

C. F. Rawls, a geology student of the University, recently discovered a new bed of bentonitic clay in the Roanoke, Virginia area while doing geological field work there.

This bentonitic clay is a weathered volcanic ash layer formed by the fall of volcanic ash in the Ordovician sea. Rawls brought with him samples that he found in a layer about two feet thick lying interbedded with sandy shales along the west foot of Catawba mountain. They had been preserved from erosion by marine sediments which were deposited over them.

Scout Club to Gather

There will be an important meeting of the Eagle Scout club in room 209 Graham Memorial tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

We keep a courageous front, anyhow. A fashion note says that pockets in pants are the same size this year.—Greenville Piedmont.

CALENDAR

Co-ed Tea—4:30. Spencer Hall.

Dormitory Club—7:00. 210 Graham Memorial.

Chess Club Lecture—7:30. Graham Memorial.

Eagle Scout Club—7:15. 209 Graham Memorial.

Freshman Exec. Commit.—8:00. 215 Graham Memorial.

KOCH WILL READ CHRISTMAS CAROL

This Year Will Mark Twenty-Seventh Observance of Annual Custom.

Professor Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, will give his annual reading of A Christmas Carol, Dickens' immortal Christmas story, in Memorial hall Sunday evening, December 11, at 8:30 o'clock.

Professor Koch has presented his version of the Carol over one hundred times before all types of audiences in the north and south; including a presentation in New York City where Charles Dickens himself read it some sixty years ago. This year's reading will mark the twenty-seventh year during which Professor Koch has appeared with the Dickens story as an annual custom.

Contrary to precedent, this reading will not take place in the Playmakers' theatre, but is being moved to Memorial hall at the request of the faculty. During recent years increasing crowds have rendered the theatre inadequate for the Christmas Carol audiences.

First Reading

Appearing before a group of University of North Dakota people twenty-seven years ago as a young professor fresh from Harvard, Professor Koch affirmed that everybody ought to read Dickens' Christmas Carol every Christmas. At the request of the dean of women he read it to them, and has been reading it to appreciative audiences every year since.

The setting and lighting for this performance is being designed by Professor Samuel Selden. A large Christmas tree on each side of the stage will constitute the chief decoration.

In accordance with custom, a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Harrar will sing old English carols between the staves.

Professor Koch is reading the Carol in three other performances this season. Tuesday evening, December 13, he will read in the Burlington Little Theatre of Burlington, N. C.; Thursday, December 15, in Tarboro; and Friday, December 16, in Norfolk, Virginia.

Sax Rohmer Story At Carolina Today

"The Mask of Fu Manchu," picturized version of another of the Sax Rohmer mystery stories, is showing at the Carolina theatre, with Boris Karloff in the role of the sinister Dr. Fu Manchu.

The plot of the story deals with the quest of a group of English scientists for the hidden tomb of Ghengis Khan, the great Asiatic ruler who almost conquered Europe. Dr. Fu Manchu also seeks this tomb in order to seize a buried talisman, proclaim himself the reincarnation of the leader and starts an Asiatic uprising against Europe.

Included in the cast are Lewis Stone, Karen Morley, Charles Starrett, Myrna Loy, Jean Hersholt, Lawrence Grant, and David Torrence.

FIRST ISSUE LAW REVIEW OF YEAR COMES OFF PRESS

Magazine Contains Report of Constitution Commission and Legislation Proposals.

The December issue of the North Carolina Law Review, published quarterly by the law school of the University, was released yesterday. This number, with which the Review enters the eleventh year of publication, contains the report of the North Carolina constitution commission as well as articles by members of the Law Review board of editors. J. H. Chadbourne, a member of the faculty of the law school, is the editor-in-chief.

The members of the staff were entertained Monday night at the home of the editor and at this time the first issue of the current year, just released from the press, was distributed to the staff members.

The first article in this issue, The Report of the North Carolina Constitution Commission, is the report of that commission to the governor recommending the adoption of the new proposed constitution of North Carolina. The report is prefaced by the letter of transmittal from Governor Gardner to the members-elect of the General Assembly. Dean Van Hecke of the law school says of the proposed constitution: "It is characterized by a greater freedom of action for the general assembly, subject to a veto power of the governor. It provides an enlarged flexibility and autonomy for the courts and perpetuation of the present tendencies toward centralized control of education and local finance."

The next section gives a series of proposals for legislation in North Carolina, prepared by faculty members of the law school. The proposals discussed are: checks on failed banks, comparative negligence, evidence, home site statutes, uniform sales acts and wage assignments and small loans. The following law students contributed comments on recent cases of interest: Robert A. Hovis, A. E. Garrett, Jr., W. Carey Parker, Wilson Barber, Ivern E. Erb, Cecil L. Piltz, W. E. Anglin, William Medford, E. M. Perkins, Frank P. Spruill, Jr., and A. T. Allen, Jr.

Yackety Yack Request

All staff division heads of the Yackety Yack are requested to finish their present assignments before leaving for the holidays, announced Nutt Parsley yesterday.

Any other students having business to negotiate with the annual are also asked to see Parsley before Friday of this week.

Association Host at Tea

Another of the weekly teas given by the Woman's association of the University will take place this afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock in the reception rooms of Spencer hall. All students and faculty members are cordially invited.

See These VALUES IN GLOVES Nationally known makes such as Hansen, Adler, and Daniel Hays Genuine Washable Peccary Pigskin—$2.75 (our best seller) Grey Suede or Cape Skin $1.95 Black or Brown Plain Leather Dress Gloves—$1.00 and plenty of other leather gloves at $1.00 thru $2.95 a pair The YoungMen's Shop 126-128 E. Main Street DURHAM