UNIVERSITY MEN ATTEND MEETING OF ECONOMISTS

C. T. Murchison Delivers Address At Convention in Cincinnati During Holidays.

Drs. C. T. Murchison and W. F. Ferger of the University department of economics took part in the program of the meeting of the American Economics Association in Cincinnati during the holidays. Dr. Murchison delivering a paper which was one of the high lights of the convention.

The address delivered by Dr. Murchison detailed his views on the "Requisites of Stabilization in the Cotton Textile Industry."

Submits Plans

Two plans, "a radical re-organization of the industry itself, or vigorously directed co-operative action with a retention of the present structure," were advanced by Dr. Murchison as means of stabilizing the industry. He pointed to the beneficial reform measures such as the limitation of working hours and the voluntary abandonment of night employment of women and minors as great accomplishments of the Cotton Textile Institute.

"A diminished rate of speed in bringing about speculative over-production induced by the cotton market," stated Dr. Murchison, would be the chief economic gain of legislative prohibition of night work, leaving untouched the major causes of instability. Such legislation would in addition "precipitate a new orgy of mill construction which could probably not be checked until excessive plant capacity once more prevailed."

Dr. Murchison stated that what is most essential to the industry is...

SALES TAX QUERY WILL BE DEBATED

Di and Phi Societies With Extension Division Inaugurated Debate Organization.

Entries for competition in the twenty-first annual contest of the high school debating union of North Carolina are being received by E. R. Rankin, secretary of the central committee. The question to be discussed is: Resolved, That North Carolina should adopt the sales tax as a feature of its state system of revenue.

The finals will take place some time during the spring quarter at the University. Each school participating in the contest will be grouped with two others for a triangular debate, each school putting out two teams, one on the affirmative and one on the negative side of the question. The schools winning both debates will be entitled to send their teams to the University to compete for the state championship and Aycock Memorial cup.

The high school debating union was inaugurated twenty years ago by the Dialectic and Philanthropic literary societies and the University extension division with the cooperation of state high schools. Twenty questions of state-wide importance have been discussed. The queries are suggested by the two societies and the extension division, and adopted by the governing committee.

Calvin Coolidge Dies From Heart Trouble

Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth President of the United States, died suddenly at Northampton, Mass., yesterday. The doctors stated that death was due to heart disease. He was sixty years old last July 4.

Returning from a shopping tour, Mrs. Coolidge found the body of her husband on the bed in a room at "The Beeches," the estate to which he retired at the conclusion of his career at the national capital.

His death was wholly unexpected although for the past three weeks Mr. Coolidge had complained of indigestion.

The former President, who, up to the time of his death, was the only surviving former President of the United States, had gone to his law office as usual yesterday morning. After being there a short time he became distressed and returned to his home—five minutes after he arrived there he was dead.

FRITZ KREISLER WILL PLAY HERE DURING QUARTER

Band, Orchestra, and Glee Clubs Will Be Active; Grand Opera Will Be Given in Sound.

During the coming quarter the several musical organizations of the campus will engage in an enlarged program of activity. Not only will the University orchestra band and the glee club present several programs, but new musical events are to be added by the department of music to its series of campus presentations.

Fritz Kreisler, the Austrian violinist, will appear in Chapel Hill on February 27 in a return engagement to the University. In Durham the Duke entertainment series will present Walter Gieseking, the German pianist, February 13.

January 20 a concert of chamber music will be given at the Playmakers theatre under the auspices of the Institute of Folk Music and under the direction of Lamar Stringfield.

Professor Nelson O. Kennedy will continue his series of Vesper organ recitals, beginning Sunday, January 22. In addition, several organ concerts are to be given by visiting organists.

The University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor Harold S. Dyer, will present its winter quarter concert Wednesday night, February 22, in Hill music hall. This concert will feature solo appearances of several students of the school of music.

The University concert band, directed by Professor T. Smith McCorkle, will appear at South...

Organization Busily Engaged In Raising Funds For U. N. C. Library

Friends of Library Organized Last Spring to Spread Influence of Local Library; Rockefeller Contributions Have Proved To Be Immense Help in Carrying on Work.

Although still in its infancy the organization for the increasing of funds for the support of the University library has already shown its influence through increasing the forms of contributions and utilizing them in an efficient manner. The Friends of the Library was organized last spring and is the result of a movement to aid the University library, already influential throughout the south, branch into larger fields of cultural interest.

For years the University has been forming an outstanding library. Its activities during the past generation have been numerous and varied. In addition to its primary purpose of providing a source of interesting and intensive reading to the students, professors, and townspeople of Chapel Hill, the library has carried its work to the people throughout the state by means of extension enterprises. Thousands of volumes are loaned annually to persons outside of Chapel Hill. Every effort has been made to render the contents of the library generally available.

In recent years the library has received active and enthusiastic support from an increasing number of friends. At the dedication of the present library building, gifts totaling $146,250 were announced. Since then a large number of significant and munificent donations have been received.

Rockefeller Gift

The Friends of the Library was formally formed last May when the General Education Board, one of the Rockefeller foundations, gave the University library $30,000 to provide bibliographical apparatus to make available to scholars of this section the catalogue of several of the leading libraries of the world. The announcement of this gift was made by President Frank Graham at the first meeting of the organization.

The purpose of the Friends is to bring together in an informal group a number of friends of the library who have given their time, money, and materials for the enrichment of the library.

Members may promote the interest of the library by giving or securing funds for building up special collections, books, newspaper files, pamphlets and manuscripts. The library often has unique opportunities to acquire valuable private libraries for which there is no provision in its appropriation. The Friends of the Library will perform a great service by creating general funds, with no limitations attached for such emergencies.

Membership

According to the constitution adopted by the organization, any person interested in the object of the association may become a member. There are three classes of members. First, contributing members who pay $5 annually; second, sustaining members who pay $25 or more annually; third, life members who give the library $1000 or more in money and materials of unusual and distinctive value.

Dr. E. R. Groves Pioneers In Social Science With Book On Marriage

Purpose of Book Is to Present Marriage as Human Experience To Give Student Insight and Familiarity With Discoveries of Science in Field.

For the fourth time Dr. Ernest R. Groves of the University sociology department has pioneered in the field of social science text books and has produced a text whose purpose is "to interpret marriage as a human experience in such a way as to bring to the student insight and a familiarity with the resources that science has given for dealing with marriage problems."

In 1927 Dr. Groves published Social Problems of the Family which was the first text book dealing with family relations. Since he opened the way to such texts many others have appeared. Again in 1930 Dr. Groves entered into a new field of sociology text books by the publishing of Introduction to Mental Hygiene. Then, realizing the need in high schools of a text which would illuminate to the younger student some of the problems of the family, Dr. Groves wrote for high school use the text, Family and Its Relationships.

Course in Marriage

Eight years ago Dr. Harry W. Chase, former president of the University, at the request of a number of senior students inaugurated a course in marriage at the University, the first of its kind in the United States. Last year two other colleges began courses in marriage and a third college is also preparing for one.

Since there is no text relating to the subject of marriage alone, Dr. Groves, a nationally recognized authority on family relations, sex, and marriage, prepared his text because, in the words of the Preface to Marriage "not only is there great need of renewing the one-time social practice of training young people for marriage but we have at present sufficient information emerging from the various fields of science that have to do with human behavior to justify the serious study of marriage by college men and women."

As recognition to two men who have been instrumental in introducing into the colleges courses to enlighten the college generation on the problems of family, Dr. Groves dedicates his book "To Arthur H. Wilde who as Dean of the School of Education authorized at Boston University the first college course in preparation for family life and Harry W. Chase during whose presidency at the University of North Carolina was offered the first college course in preparation for marriage."

Purpose of Book

Excerpts from the preface to Dr. Groves new book show the author's high purpose in giving to college students such a text. He says: "It is folly to attempt adequately to train young peo-

Here January 11

Uday Shan-kar, Hindu dancer, billed to appear here January 11 under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Committee, will bring with him a company of sixteen composed of eight male and female dancers, and eight musicians who play 120 instruments.

ORIENTAL GROUP TO APPEAR HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Shan-Kar and Company Hailed by Critics as Leading Exponents Of Their Art.

Shan-Kar and his company of Oriental dancers and musicians will be presented by the Student Entertainment Committee as the fifth in the series of student entertainment at the University during the year. The Hindu group will appear in Memorial hall, January 11, at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets can be purchased for one dollar by those who do not hold the entertainment booklets.

Shan-Kar, an East Indian dancer who once collaborated with Anna Pavlova, heads a company of sixteen, eight male and female dancers and eight musicians who are heralded as masters in executing the intricate artistic movements of the East. John Martin, in a recent Sunday feature in the New York Times, says "for all the age and repose of spirit which characterizes the art itself, there is such youth and warmth in the performance that it becomes a singularly delightful experience."

Performance at Exposition

In the presentation of Shan-Kar are included many exotic interpretive dances and selections of Oriental music that will thrill the Western audiences. The company recently completed an European tour that was successfully climaxed with brilliant appearances with the Colonial Exposition in Paris.

The sixth presentation in the entertainment series will be the Boston Light Opera Company's production of "Robin Hood," March 2.

Playbook Completes Five Years' Service

The Carolina Playbook, which is edited in four issues a year by Prof. F. H. Koch, completed its fifth year with the current December issue.

Featured in the December issue of the Playbook are a play, "Sleep On Lemuel," by John Parker; "Folk Drama Defined," by Paul Green; and an editorial on Uncle Tom's Cabin.

During the time the magazine has been published, it has grown until it now has subscribers in twenty-eight states and in England, Germany, the British West Indies, and the Hawaiian Islands.

ANNUAL REVELS ANNOUNCED FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

Program of Stunts, Skits, and Take-offs on Drama Both Old And New Will Be Given.

The Carolina Playmakers will stage their annual Twelfth Night revels tomorrow night at 8:00 o'clock in the Playmakers theatre, with a program of stunts, skits, take-offs on drama both old and new. This is part of the program for the annual meeting of the Carolina Dramatic Association.

Twelfth Night is a traditional celebration and has become so with the Playmakers because of their revels staged each year following the Christmas holidays. Although the revels are not open to the public, no personal invitations will be extended. The performance is open to everyone who has been or is at present connected in any way with Playmaker activities.

Program Announced

The program begins with an introduction by "Proff" Koch. Then will follow the first part of the program which is devoted to Elizabethan drama. The revel scene from Shakespeare's Twelfth Night will be given by Professors Urban T. Holmes, W. T. Wiley, George McKie; and Mrs. Claudius Murchison and Milton Williams. Then the election of the lord of misrule and his queen, by faculty members, and introducing the mummies by Professor J. M. Booker will be followed by The Sheep Stealing of Mak, a scene from The Second Shepherd's Play. This cast is composed of Professors E. E. Ericson, A. C. Howell, J. O. Bailey, H. K. Russell, and R. P. Bond, and D. D. Carroll, Jr. The director is Professor P. C. Farrar.

HEADS ARRANGE UNION BUSINESS

Memorial Directors Rule to Install Radio and Settle Question of Barber Shops.

Action to reach a satisfactory agreement between the Graham Memorial barber shop and the independent shops in the town and the decision to purchase a radio were the principal points of business taken up by the board of directors of Graham Memorial at the last meeting Wednesday night.

The decision regarding the Graham Memorial barber shop was to raise the price of haircuts to thirty-five cents and to close the shop regularly except on special occasions when closing may be fixed by consent of all the shops.

The purpose of the action was to make a suitable agreement to avoid unfair competition. Y. Z. Cannon, representing the Carolina shop, J. E. Pullen for the University shop, and Mr. Greene representing the Graham Memorial shop appeared before the board.

According to the plan of the directors, a radio will be installed in the building with loud speakers in the lounge, the banquet hall, and possibly in the game room with controls in the manager's office.

A committee was appointed to make this purchase and the radio will probably be installed during this month.
