

TWO SOLOISTS TO PLAY ON SALON'S PROGRAM SUNDAY

Dan Field, Cellist, and David Bennett, Flutist, Will Augment Ensemble Concert.

According to an announcement by Thor Johnson, conductor of the Carolina Salon Ensemble, the program to be presented by the ensemble Sunday afternoon, January 15, in Graham Memorial will have in addition to its scheduled orchestral selections several instrumental solos by two student musicians.

Dan Field, cellist, will offer the solo La Cinquinte by Gabriel-Marie, and David Bennett, flutist, will interpret the Idylle (opus 116) of Benjamin Godard.

Field, a freshman in the school of engineering, received his musical training in the Greensboro schools, from which he was graduated last spring. He has made numerous appearances in instrumental combinations in contests and in concerts and played in the symphony orchestra of Columbia University in New York City. He also appeared as soloist with the salon ensemble in its presentation at the Grainger high school, Kinston, last quarter.

Trained Musician

Bennett, a student in the music school, received his early training under Emil Medicus, of Asheville, and in the Asheville high school orchestra. He is now studying flute under Lamar Stringfield. Bennett was winner of the contest for flute solo held in connection with the annual state music contest for high schools at Greensboro several years ago.

The remainder of Sunday's program will consist of numbers by the entire ensemble taken from the literature of modern French, Russian, and American music.

DATE IS CHANGED FOR PITT DEBATE

Other Contests Scheduled; Six Trips Planned for Carolina Debating Team.

It was announced yesterday by Professor W. A. Olsen of the English department that the debate with the University of Pittsburgh on "The Cancellation of War Debts" had been changed from February 9 to January 31.

Professor Olsen received a communication from the University of Pittsburgh requesting that the date be changed; this necessitated the tryouts being changed from January 30 to January 23.

At the debate group meeting Monday night, Professor Olsen announced that there would be a debate with Tulane here, February 27, on "American versus Russian Civilization," that there would be a radio debate with the University of Virginia at Richmond in February, and that there would probably be a debating trip to Winthrop College.

In addition to these short trips, there will be three long trips: one ending in New Orleans at Tulane, one western trip, and one trip to New York and Boston. On the northern trip there will also be a debate with George Washington University on "The British System of Radio Control."

Med Association Will Entertain With Dance

At a meeting of the Medical Association of the University yesterday, plans were laid for a dance to be given February 11. It has not yet been decided where the dance will take place. A committee has been appointed to select an orchestra. A limited number of bids will be given to students who are not members of the association. The members of the committee are C. Carr, C. Powell, Glen Dixon, Paul Rhodes, and Jack Shufford.

TICKET SALE FOR FORUM SERIES TO STOP TOMORROW

Dr. Broadus Mitchell, First Speaker, to Lecture on "The American Scene—1932."

Sale of tickets for the Open Forum Discussion series will be concluded tomorrow afternoon as members of the forum executive committee make a final drive for contributions prior to the opening of the series tomorrow night. Dr. Broadus Mitchell, professor of political economy at Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Justin Miller, dean of the Duke University Law School will appear on the platform in the first discussion, speaking on the subject "The American Scene—1932."

Dr. Mitchell is scheduled to speak on the same subject in Greensboro tonight on a straight L. I. D. program sponsored by the Greensboro Civic Forum. Since it is the purpose of presenting both sides of the eight questions planned for the series, the forum group here will balance the program with able speakers representing the contrary side of each discussion.

Dr. Mitchell replaces Powers Haggood of Columbia Conserve, Inc., who was seriously wounded during a shooting match recently. After graduating from the University of South Carolina Mitchell entered newspaper work. Later he became interested in politics and obtained his doctorate from Johns Hopkins. His writings include The Rise of Cotton Mills in the South, Frederick Law Olmstead, A Critic of the Old South; The Industrial Revolution in the South, A Preface to Economics and William Gregg, Factory Master of the Old South.

UNIVERSITY NEEDS VOLUNTARY AID FROM PEOPLE OF NORTH CAROLINA

Favorable Comment From Some of World's Greatest Thinkers and Statesmen Proves Worth of Institution, and Press Bewails Short-Sightedness of Legislature Towards Budget.

Whether the University, "the eldest child of the state," is to be allowed to sink slowly into the rank of mediocre institutions because of lack of sufficient state appropriations to keep in motion that "vibrant wave of light and healing" or whether the people of the state will voluntarily come to its aid by the realization that the University is the "central ganglia of educational system" and on it "hangs decent efficiency and progress" is a problem which has taken a front place among the important legislative questions confronting the citizens of the state today.

The intelligent, far-seeing leaders in the state's political and educational life agree that the University deserves support from the people of the state in this time of great need. At the alumni meeting which met in Chapel Hill the early part of December, support was pledged to President Graham in his attempt to convey to the people of the state the background of the budget request of the University. To the University alumni the most important factor to be discussed at their meeting was how to meet the financial requirements of the University during the coming year.

Alumni Heard Budget Plan
To this group President Graham presented in a speech the budget plan for the coming year and showed how the expenses of the University had been cut so that the appropriation requested of the legislature for the coming year was nearly one-fourth lower than that asked for in 1929. This request "represents a percentage reduction greater than that sustained by the general run of American colleges and universities . . . Since 1929 the University of North Carolina has suffered a total appropriation cut of 43.6 per cent."

In attempting to demonstrate to the people that the University is really deserving of their support, Dr. Graham shows the outstanding recognition that the institution has received throughout the world. Besides being the first state university to open its doors, it "stands among the first in the distinction of its faculty, standards of work, quality of scholarship, research, and productive output. Many outstanding men have paid tribute to the University as a leader in new fields of research and liberal education."

Favorable World Comment
Harold J. Laski, a graduate of Oxford, an eminent political scientist, a teacher at Harvard, Yale and University of London, "recently pronounced the University in its intellectual democracy and quality of life as one of the two or three most distinguished universities in America." Fletcher S. Brockman, a religious statesman in the two hemispheres and a leader of the

SATURDAY GRAIL DANCE SCHEDULED TO FOLLOW GAME

Laney's Blue Devils to Provide Music For Dance at Bynum After Wake Forest Game.

Immediately following the Wake Forest basketball game Saturday the Order of the Grail will sponsor the first of the series of three dances to be given during the winter quarter in the Bynum gymnasium. The dates of the two subsequent dances have been tentatively set for January 28 and February 18, and will be respectively the sixth and seventh of the group of nine dances which the Grail has scheduled for the academic year.

Saturday Nick Laney and his Blue Devils will furnish the music while Hamilton Hobgood will manage the committees arranging the decorations for the gymnasium. The price per person is set at $1.00, tax free. The affair will be closed to freshmen.

THEATRE TRY-OUTS FOR SHAW PLAY UNFINISHED

Try-outs for the final selection of characters for the Carolina Playmakers' next production, You Never Can Tell, were continued last night in the Playmaker theatre. Only very tentative selections of students for the cast were made at the try-outs Monday on account of a large number of people out for each part.

The presentation of this well known comedy by George Bernard Shaw will take place on February 2, 3, and 4. The play is a part of the Playmakers' Shaw-Henderson program. A feature of the presentation will be an address by Dr. Archibald Henderson.

Coffman Will Address Philology Club Tonight

The philological club will convene for its first meeting of the new year tonight in the lounge of the Graduate club, Smith building, at 7:30 o'clock.

The speaker of the evening will be Dr. George R. Coffman, head of the University department of English, who will address the club on the experience of a passage from Horace at the hands of the writers of the middle ages, including Geoffrey Chaucer.

DEAN C. R. SKINNER TO LEAD SEMINAR ON RELIGION HERE

Boston Professor Will Conduct Discussion of Modern Problems at Carolina Inn.

A seminar in liberal religion is to be conducted in Chapel Hill January 16-20 at the Carolina Inn, with Professor Clarence R. Skinner, dean-elect of the Crane theological school of Tufts College, near Boston, Massachusetts delivering the lectures and leading the discussions. The seminar will be designed primarily for students and faculty members of the University, but townspeople are cordially invited to attend and to participate in the discussions. Meetings are scheduled for 8:00 o'clock each evening, except Saturday, and admission will be free.

Preceding the seminar, a special evening service will be held at the Carolina Inn Sunday evening, January 15, at 8:00 o'clock, Dean Skinner giving the address.

Part of State Project

The seminar is a part of a state-wide project for education in liberal religion planned by a newly organized Mission Brotherhood and the Unitarian Laymen's League, both of which have headquarters in Boston. Ten simultaneous series of meetings are to be conducted the week of January 15-22 by leading representatives of the Unitarian and Universalist fellowships. The meetings in the other nine communities will take the form of preaching missions, and will be held at Asheville, Raleigh, Winston-Salem, Wilmington, Greensboro, Goldsboro, Durham, High Point and Rocky Mount.

Professor Raymond Adams of the department of English is chairman of the committee making plans for the seminar. Other members are Professor L. M. Brooks of the department of sociology, A. C. Howell of the department of English, Dr. J. F. Dashiell, of the department of psychology and Harry Comer, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A.

Touches Modern Life

"This seminar will consider religion in terms of modern thought and life," Professor Adams said yesterday. "It is planned particularly for men and women who are interested in what religion means today in the light of the findings of the physical and social sciences and in relation to the actual needs of present-day individual and social life. Everyone, however, is cordially invited to attend Dr. Skinner's lectures and to remain for the discussion, regardless of whether he wishes to participate and regardless of what his own religious convictions may be."

SHANKAR DANCERS PRESENT UNUSUAL PROGRAM TONIGHT

Hindu Artists to Reveal Strange Oriental Dances in Entertainment in Memorial Hall.

"When the Westerner approaches the dance of the East, it is useless for him to attempt to 'understand' it; to do so is merely to raise a barrier that cannot be penetrated." Thus writes John Martin, in the New York Times, after reviewing the Hindu program presented by Shankar and his dancers, who will appear in Memorial hall tonight at 8:30 o'clock, as the fifth in the series of student entertainments at the University throughout the year.

Shankar, an East Indian dancer who once collaborated with Anna Pavlova, brings to Chapel Hill a company of sixteen Orientals, eight male and female dancers and eight musicians. Shankar himself is the featured artist, although the entire group are exceptionally outstanding in their respective positions. The dances deal with love and the gods, and the blending of their movements with the gorgeous Hindu music produces a sensational performance. Newspaper reports state that the dancers and musicians carry out their parts with an uncanny grace, something wholly different from anything which people of this world have ever seen.

Tickets for Shankar's program can be purchased for one dollar. Students holding entertainment booklets for the winter quarter will be admitted on presenting the first ticket.

The Student Entertainment Committee felt that a performance of such a distinctly eastern flavor would broaden the minds and concepts of the students and increase their understanding of foreign culture much more than any other program available.

DYER ELECTED TO NATIONAL OFFICE

Music Head Made Chairman of Choral Festivals for National Federation of Music Clubs.

Professor Harold S. Dyer, head of the department of music, has been elected national chairman of choral festivals for the National Federation of Music Clubs. His term of office officially began December first.

As national chairman Professor Dyer's duties include organizing state choral festivals over the entire country. Organization of these and other festivals of counties and districts is already under way. Approximately one hundred such events will be held between the present date and June. The organization of these festivals will be based upon a festival directory just published at the direction of Dr. Dyer.

At the national convention of the Federation of Music Clubs to take place in Minneapolis in May, Dyer will direct the presentation of a series of miniature festivals covering a five-day period. The demonstration will show the function of his department.

Professor Dyer directed the choral festival of the State Federation last spring in Charlotte, and will again act in the capacity of director at this year's Federation meet in Raleigh.
