

NORMA SHEARER AND CLARK GABLE STAR TOMORROW

Filmization of "Strange Interlude" Opens Week's Bill At Carolina Theatre.

"Strange Interlude," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the Eugene O'Neill drama which ran on Broadway for a year and a half and won the Pulitzer prize award for the finest play of the season of 1928-29, opens the week's bill at the Carolina theatre Monday and Tuesday.

The principal roles in the talkie version of O'Neill's brilliant psychiatric study are played by Norma Shearer and Clark Gable, who are together again for the first time since their successful joint appearance in "A Free Soul." Miss Shearer enacts the role played in the stage version by Lynn Fontanne, while Gable has the part of the young doctor.

Hayes-Navarro Wednesday

"The Son-Daughter," colorful drama of San Francisco's Chinatown, with Helen Hayes and Ramon Navarro in the principal roles, is Wednesday's attraction.

Thursday, Spencer Tracy, Marian Nixon, and Stuart Erwin, have the major parts in "Face in the Sky." The plot concerns a travelling sign-painter, always dreaming of his glorious future. He meets a little country girl who is likewise a dreamer. With the aid of his clumsy helper, the painter assists her in escaping from her drab existence on a Vermont farm, only to fall in love with her. They are separated when the farmer overtakes them, but meet again under unique circumstances in New York City.

"Goldie Gets Along," starring Lili Damita, is Friday's feature. James Cagney makes his first appearance in months on the screen teamed up with Mary Brian as his leading lady in the Warner Bros. whimsical comedy, "Hard To Handle," showing Saturday.

The Tar Heel player was sent to Columbus at the close of the 1932 season by the Cardinals. He is slated to hold down the centerfield post on Columbus next season and will be right in line for the Cardinal team when an opening occurs.

All Good Students

All three of these boys stood well in their studies at Carolina. Burgess, although he left school after three years, had a good enough standing to make Phi Beta Kappa. Louis has been on the honor roll since entering the University and, although because of his baseball duties he can attend school only one or two quarters a year, he has a good chance of also making Phi Beta Kappa.

tion program would come under fire during the present session of the legislature.

Another recommendation regarding the University was made by the committee in that the per capita costs should be "materially reduced."

Another sidelight of the legislature Friday, regarding the University, was the postponement of the University's hearing before the joint appropriations committee until some date to be announced later.

Play By Wallace To Be Shown At Theatre

Edgar Wallace's "The Calendar," one of his best stage plays, is being shown today at the Carolina theatre, with Edna Best and Herbert Marshall in the starring roles.

Wallace's stories were—and still are—translated into many languages. His stories are among the most popular in Germany at the present time and his readers in the United States are many. In addition to writing plays and fiction, he has been a dramatic critic, racing reporter, and theatrical producer.

His interest in racing was in a and other departments, this fall she began a class for all those interested in dance training.

She feels that the modern German technique is the foundation for the most living form of contemporary dancing. It is this technique which she emphasizes in her classes, and includes only such parts of other systems (ballet, oriental, and Spanish) as she feels are necessary in the limbering, stretching, and development of the muscles for balance and control.

Classes Grow Larger

A small class of women and a special group of men and women were begun last quarter, meeting once a week. This quarter, the women's class has doubled and now meets twice a week in Graham Memorial, and a class of men convenes for two hours each week. For those who are interested in this new opportunity for training now available to University students, Mrs. Barr plans to present her group in a demonstration class in the Playmakers theatre some time this spring.

Dancing, according to Ruth St. Denis, founder of the Denishawn school of dancing, and teacher of Mrs. Barr, is the irradiation of the human personality in terms of geometric movement. Her methods of teaching are founded on this basic idea. She is of the opinion that dancing is an independent art and at present there is too much emphasis on music, external and audible rhythm and harmony, to give life and animation to the body. She believes in the cooperation of music, but also insists that emphasis be placed on the dancer's own ideas, volition, and expression and that the appeal should be primarily to the eye.

it his rock on the structure. On another occasion, the strains of Hark the Sound, emanating from his lusty vocal chords, filled the stage and surrounding district of the Forest Theatre. It was in the course of this same instruction that the sophomore, accompanied by another upperclassman, introduced the freshman to the woods surrounding the University.

This future perfect gentleman has submitted himself to the task of carrying with him constantly a leaf from the Davie Poplar as a reminder of the excellent qualities of the founder of the University. Besides thus honoring William Richardson Davie, he was required to put flowers on the grave of Kemp Plummer Battle and to memorize the names of the presidents of the University.

When questioned as to his reasons for these impressive tactics, the sophomore stated earnestly, "I believe in the tradition of a Carolina gentleman. I believe that a freshman could and should be initiated into the traditions of the University as to cause no injury to either his person or his pride."
