

FAMOUS SINGER WILL APPEAR AT RALEIGH TONIGHT

Lawrence Tibbett, Operatic and Concert Baritone, to Sing in New Auditorium.

Lawrence Tibbett, American operatic and concert baritone, will appear tonight at the Memorial auditorium in Raleigh at 8:30 o'clock.

Tibbett is one of the only opera stars who has risen to a high position in musical circles through his own efforts and without European training. He was born in California, where he first appeared on the stage with a Shakespearean troupe.

Studied in New York

He began study in New York to be a professional singer and five years later was offered a contract with the Metropolitan Opera company. Since then he has appeared in talking pictures, concert and radio in addition to his operatic roles. His most recent triumph on the stage was in the title role of Louis Gruenberg's Emperor Jones, the opera version of Eugene O'Neill's play of the same name.

One of Tibbett's early concert appearances was made in 1928 in Newark, New Jersey, at the Newark festival of music. On this occasion the Newark Philharmonic symphony orchestra accompanied Tibbett and was conducted by Lamar Stringfield, local flutist-composer.

FRESHMAN COACH NEEDS SIX FOOT FROSH FOR JUMP

Ranson Threatens to Advertise in Papers for Tall Yearling High Jumper.

Another big problem is looming before the Carolina track coaching staff. Coaches Fetzer and Ranson are now looking for a promising freshman high jumper who must stand in his stockings over six feet.

The varsity and freshman track squads worked out last night in the Tin Can. This was the first of a series of indoor workouts which are carded for the Carolina teams in order to prime the men for the coming Southern conference indoor games, March 4.

Here is a partial list of the events that the Tar Baby tracksters will enter: 60-yard run; 70-yard high hurdles; 1/4-mile run; mile relay; and the high jump. The high jump is the big problem confronting the Tar Heels' track mentors. They need a six-foot yearling high jumper. Dale Ranson stated that he is so anxious to get his man that he is tempted to do like Wisconsin's basketball coach—advertise in the school paper for his material. The only thing that hinders him, he says, is his financial status.

Odum Will Speak

NEW VERSION OF KERR PLAY TO BE PRESENTED HERE

Playmakers to Stage "Sad Words to Gay Music," Comedy Written by Former Student Here.

Sad Words to Gay Music, a comedy by Alvin Kerr, will be produced for the first time in the new version for Broadway production by the Carolina Playmakers.

The comedy was presented in the original version last July in summer theatres throughout New York state, with Patricia Barclay of Broadway fame playing Sheila Patterson and Walter Kingsford, who has appeared in London and on Broadway, as Bart Beresford. The play was rewritten pending production in New York. At present Kerr is writing the music for a song in the production, "Downtrodden, Doleful Me."

Before his graduation from Carolina in 1928, Kerr was the author and director of the Playmaker satire, The Queen Has Her Face Lifted, and also wrote musical comedies for Wigwe and Masque.

While winning recognition as a playwright, Kerr is acting and doing work in stage management on Broadway.

STETSON D GIVES TO STUDENT FUND

Chapel Hill Branch Donates Five Per Cent of Total Sales to Emergency Loan Fund.

A check amounting to $40.00 was received recently by the University as the second donation to the University loan fund by Stetson "D" Tailors, Inc., of Baltimore. The first check sent by Maurice Robinson, president of the firm, was for $125.28 and was received January 25.

The additions to the fund came as a result of an announcement in the DAILY TAR HEEL that was brought to Robinson's attention by L. V. Huggins, graduate of the class of 1925, who has returned here as district manager of the Stetson "D" stores in North Carolina and Virginia. The announcement stated that the University short-term loan fund was exhausted and interested Robinson to the extent that he authorized Huggins to give five per cent of all sales of the Chapel Hill branch from January 16. The first check followed a sale by the local store that determined the relatively large amount of that donation.

The funds received are handled by the regular loan fund committee composed of President Frank P. Graham, R. B. House, F. F. Bradshaw, C. T. Woollen, and Harry F. Comer, and are put into immediate use.

FINAL ENTRANCE DATE EXTENDED

Albright Changes Date for Final Registration in Indoor Sports Carnival

The time limit for registration in the indoor sports carnival to be conducted in the game room of Graham Memorial has been extended to 6:00 o'clock Thursday night, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mayne Albright, manager of the union building. The extension of time was granted to allow several organizations more time to enter the competition.

The carnival will include tournaments in ping-pong, bowling and pool, with intramural points being given the winner of the bowling tourney. A number of entrants from campus organizations have been recorded and keen competition between them and the dormitories is expected. No charge is being made for either entrance in the meet or for playing.

Winners of the dormitory contests will compete with the winners in the fraternity group for the campus title. Any team entering as many as three men will receive twenty-five points. Individual play will take place in the pool and ping-pong competition, with points toward the individual intramural cup which is awarded the highest scorer in all intramural contests.

THE CAN OPENER

(Continued from page three) son 2; second round, Napoleon 3, Levinson 2; third round, Levinson 3, Napoleon 2. This gave the bout to the Penn State boxer with a margin of one point. It was a close fight, and Napoleon won on his speed.

Platt Landis won his fifth straight fight Saturday against a man who outweighed him by about thirty pounds. Popeye had to go more than one round for the first time in his last three bouts and he had to win on boxing and not fighting. Platt said he clipped his man with two terrific blows in the first round which didn't even phase him so he decided he'd better try to box and keep from falling himself. He said that guy could certainly take'em. Sam Giddins and Tom Parsons both looked good and the majority of the Carolina squad felt that Sam deserved a win and Parsons a draw at least. This is not printed in the form of a protest but merely to point out that the fights were not one-sided. The Tar Heels made a good enough showing to be extended an invitation to the National Intercollegiate boxing tournament in March.

He listed two other effects. The new rules make possession of the ball more valuable and strengthen the defense. The out-of-bounds rule improves punting and virtually eliminates the danger of slicing kicks outside with no gain.

MOST SOUTHERN COACHES PLEASED WITH NEW RULES

Reduce Injury. Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt, president of the national football association, says the main duty of the sideline rule was to reduce hazards of injury. The new rule will reduce lots of tackling out of bounds.

Clipper Smith of State didn't think the old clipping penalty of twenty-five yards was enforced as it should have been and that the new penalty of fifteen will be better. Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech hopes the new sideline penalty will bring more strategy and thrills. Alexander says a quarterback would be able to run back into the end zones without danger of being caught close to the sidelines. The rule will speed up the game since the useless sideline buck is out.

Biff Jones of Louisiana, on the other hand, isn't so sure the sideline rule will help the game any. He fears it lowers the value of both strategy and kicking ability.

Comprehensive Exams

Senior comprehensives will be given Saturday morning at 9:00 o'clock in rooms assigned by respective departmental heads. Comprehensive examinations are in order once every quarter and must be passed by seniors before graduation.

Commerce Freshmen

Dean D. D. Carroll of the school of commerce will meet with the commerce freshmen this morning at assembly period in room 113 Bingham hall.
