

MARY F. PARKER IS NOMINATED AS MAGAZINE EDITOR

Given Official Nomination by Staff Over E. C. Daniel by
Vote of 17 to 10.

Miss Mary Frances Parker, poetry editor of the Carolina Magazine, yesterday was made the official nominee of the publication's staff for the editorship next year. E. C. Daniel, associate editor of the publication, was also named at the meeting and received ten votes to Miss Parker's seventeen.

This is the first time that a co-ed at the University has received the nomination for an elective campus office. Miss Parker's name will be turned over to the president of the student body to be read as the staff choice at the meeting for campus nominations, April 3.

Other Names to Be Proposed

The staff nomination does not prevent other nominations from being made from the floor at the general session scheduled for next Monday. It is, however, considered the official nomination.

Following the nominations of Miss Parker and Daniel, several proxy votes were presented to Robert W. Barnett, editor of the Magazine, who presided over the meeting. After some discussion as to the advisability of accepting such ballots, the staff voted to include these votes with those of staff members in attendance at the meeting.

Yesterday afternoon's meeting was the result of a formal protest filed after the original nomination meeting Wednesday evening. It was held that since no public announcement of such a meeting had been made, the results were invalid and unjust.

ANDREWS CHOSEN AS NOMINEE BY YEARBOOK STAFF

Nominated for Next Year's Editorship Over Morrie H. Long At Meeting of Group.

Alex B. Andrews, Jr., managing editor of the Yackety Yack, yesterday gained the official staff nomination for editor over Morrie H. Long by a 15-11 vote.

After the floor was thrown open for nominations for the editor's chair, Morrie H. Long was nominated; this nomination was followed by Andrews' name being presented. By an unanimous vote all discussion concerning the candidates was tabled.

Each candidate appointed one man to represent his cause in counting the secret ballots. The votes were counted before the entire staff in the same room in which the group had assembled.

Editor H. N. Parsley urged that the staff adopt plans for having an annual banquet following the distribution of the annuals. This plan met with hearty approval, but no date was named for the social function, which will come off during the late spring.

Although the staff election does not bar others from being made on the date set for the regular campus nominations which are set for Monday, April 3, the staff selection is generally considered the official nomination.

SENIOR WEEK WILL START MONDAY, MAY 8

Contrary to an announcement appearing in yesterday's DAILY TAR HEEL, senior week will begin Monday, May 8, and not April 8. The week's program will begin on this date with a smoker in Swain hall that evening at 9:00 o'clock. Vesper meetings will be conducted several times during the week under Davie poplar, and the program for the week will be concluded with the annual Junior-Senior dance set in the Tin Can, with Bert Lown and his band furnishing the music.

DRAMA FESTIVAL WILL END TODAY

Original Plays and College Production Finals Will Conclude Tenth Celebration.

Original plays and college production finals today and the announcement of winners tonight will feature the last day of the tenth Dramatic Festival.

High school finals were completed last night with Southern Pines, eastern North Carolina representative, presenting Kelly's Flattering Word and Lenoir, western winner, presenting Poor Aubrey. Junior college finals, with Biltmore College, Campbell College, and Mars Hill competing, were also played. The results will be announced tonight.

Program This Morning

Today's program begins with a business session and election of officers at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. George Coffman will talk on "The Story of Making a Pageant" at 11:30 o'clock, to be followed by a costume review and contest conducted by Mrs. Ormae Davis of the Playmakers, and "Dancing and the Actor with Demonstrations" by Phoebe Barr, former Denishawn dancer. There will be a director's luncheon in the Carolina Inn at 1:00 o'clock.

At 2:30 o'clock will be given senior college original plays: Oasis by Harry C. Willis of Duke, Judgment Delayed by Huffman of Lenoir-Rhyne. Individual original plays will follow at 3:30: Unto Us A Child Is Born by Kneale Morgan of Asheville Biltmore College Junior Players, and Vergil by Bernice Kelly Harris of Seaboard Players.

The final contest in original plays from community organizations comes at 7:30 o'clock: The Voice of the People by Walter Spearman of Charlotte, the Little Theatre of Charlotte; Judgment Comes to Daniel by Bernice Kelly Harris of Seaboard, the Seaboard Players.

The senior college finals will be given at 8:30 o'clock, when the eastern and western winners will meet. The grand finale takes place at 10:00 o'clock, with Professor F. H. Koch announcing all winners and President Frank Graham presenting awards.

BATTLE WILL ADDRESS LAW SCHOOL BANQUET

The law school will conduct a banquet Wednesday night, April 12. Speakers for the evening will be Kemp P. Battle, president of the North Carolina Bar Association, Hon. Walter Murphy, and W. C. Jackson, of the University. F. W. Hanft, professor of law, will act as toastmaster.

United States Would Be Foolish To Go To War, Declares Dr. Beard

Noted Historian and Author Compares Hitlerism With Ku Klux Klan in This Country; Points to Russia as Admirable Example for Other Nations to Follow.

Before he left Chapel Hill yesterday, Dr. Charles A. Beard, who delivered the Weil lectures here last February, discussed "the whole universe" with a member of the feature board in his suite in the Carolina Inn. Touching on the possibility of another general war, Dr. Beard declared that "we should be fools if we went in another." He believes no nation really wants war at this time, but he pointed out that no nation wanted war in 1914 (with the possible exception of Russia), although it came. He sees possible danger in another "incident."

Beard believes that America's entry into the European melee in 1917 was for the best, because, had Germany won the war, he believes it would have been impossible to get along "with that Potsdam gang." If Germany had won the war, Dr. Beard believes they would have challenged the Monroe Doctrine. While "you can negotiate with England and France," Beard seems to think that the old German regime was particularly hard to get along with.

Wilson and Versailles

President Wilson, said Dr. Beard, saw the grave failings in the Treaty of Versailles, but hoped that the League of Nations would liquidate them. The great mistake on the part of the Allies was the fact that they made no concessions to the early and peaceful post-war German governments, and it was not until "Von Papen shook his fist in their faces at Lausanne" that Germany gained any relief.

Germany, Dr. Beard thought, would be unlikely to get her old colonies back, as neither France nor England would be willing to relinquish them.

Hitler and Ku Klux Klan

Comparing Hitlerism in Germany with the wave of Ku Klux Klan popularity that spread over parts of the United States after the War, Beard declared that it would be hard to tell where the United States would be if this country had been under the strain Germany has been under since the World War.

Dr. Beard agreed with Dr. Alley, who spoke recently in Gerard hall, in that Hitler is being supported in Germany by reactionary forces opposed to genuine socialism.

The "Next War"

Speculating on the possible course of events if another war should be precipitated, Dr. Beard guessed that Germany would have to rely on Italy to hold the fort until Germany could organize her civilian air forces for gas warfare. It is obvious to anyone with any imagination at all that the horrors of another great war would be infinitely greater than the last. Perhaps, Beard thought, Communism would have to come along after it "to liquidate the junk." He believes Russia's "tending to her own garden" is an admirable example for other nations to follow. He is of the opinion that the

Freshmen Tremble With Fright As "Hell Week" Arrives In Full Glory

Neophytes Forced by Fraternity Brothers to Go on Wild Goose Chases and to Serenade Co-eds; Treasure Hunting and Gandhi Imitations Favored by Tormentors.

"Hell Week" is here again. With all its battered anatomies, befuddled brains, and bruised reputations, the long-standing period of jollification for the initiated members of fraternities and torture for their yearlings is now giving the campus one of the best shows of the season.

Although it scarcely compares to the rip-roaring "Hell Weeks" of our forebears, the present product nevertheless has provided its share of quaking hearts, inextricable situations, and hopeless mix-ups.

Tabulation is apparently one of the favorite methods of occupying the initiate. One was required to count all the ties in the railroad from Carrboro to Durham; another had the doubtfully entertaining nocturnal experience of reckoning the number of tombstones in the local cemetery, aided only by a flashlight; counting the number of "dopes sold in Pritchard-Lloyd's for two hours and keeping track of the number of times the local traffic light changed were other variations of this entertainment.

Least the feminine interest be neglected, one lodge arranged to have a pledge garbed in Indian brave costume build a fire, and cook ham and eggs over it. He was joined by a fellow sufferer who then performed a violent war dance—all before the portals of Spencer hall. His limbs were not nimble, his voice was not cultured, and his mortification was tremendous. A kindred spirit found himself being wheeled past the same place attired in baby clothes, sucking a bottle—containing milk.

These were, however, minor attempts to permit the co-eds to share in the benefits of "Hell Week." The major event occurred last week when Mrs. Lee, guardian of Spencer, became alarmed at 2:00 o'clock in the morning at the spectacle of two girls leaning out of the windows and talking in excited tones. Two men were outside, loudly inviting the inmates to come down and join them.

Mrs. Lee turned on the powerful spot-lights that are attached to the building and the cause of the excitement beat a hasty retreat into the surrounding darkness. To her amusement, Mrs. Lee later discovered that the disturbers were merely filling the orders of their fraternity in order to become formal members of the lodge. Perhaps she guessed it on the spot.

Treasure hunting is a popular form of furnishing the greatest amount of discomfort possible to future Greek letter men. The neophytes are given notes that have to be deciphered in order to learn the location of some particular spot, usually in the woods around Chapel Hill. Another

SMOKER CONDUCTED BY CARR RESIDENTS

The residents of the Carr dormitory met Thursday night in Graham Memorial for a business meeting and a smoker. Bill Markham was elected president for next year. After this matter was disposed of a smoker was conducted. After an informal discussion, the residents were served refreshments and entertained at the Carolina theatre through the courtesy of E. Carrington Smith.

The next of the of smokers will be Thursday night, at which time Mangum will be feted.

OVER 900 LOANS MADE THIS YEAR

Students Have Received $59,878.28 in Loans Since Beginning of Scholastic Year.

Nine hundred and ninety loans amounting to $59,878.28 have been received by University students so far this scholastic year, it was announced yesterday by J. A. Williams, assistant dean of students. It is estimated that a large number of loans will be granted during the remainder of the term. This report included both long-term and short-term loans.

In arranging the statistics by quarters, 430 loans were made during the fall quarter, totaling $25,389.28. The loans averaged $59.04 apiece. Three hundred and sixty-five were granted during the winter quarter, and totalled $22,198, an average of $60.82 each. Thus far in the spring quarter, 195 loans have been made for $12,291, an average of $63.82.

It was estimated that five hundred different students received the pecuniary aid through the Student Loan Fund, which is slightly more than nineteen per cent of the entire student body. Williams expressed the probability that over twenty per cent will avail itself of the fund before the termination of the year.

A report issued yesterday on the Masonic Loan Fund showed that the original grant of $4,000 made in 1922 has increased to $4,855.29. The latter amount is represented by notes held by fifty-six students in the University.

Pierson Announces Fellowship Awards

Announcement of awards of twenty-six University fellowships, numerous assistantships, scholarships, and research appointments by Dean W. W. Pierson of the graduate school will be made today. Six hundred and twenty-one applications have been received.

Nearly every state in the country and several foreign nations were represented in the list of applications.

The stipend of the fellowships of the University is $500 and free tuition. The twenty University scholarships carry a stipend of free tuition alone. The Kenan fellowships provide a stipend of $700 in addition to free tuition, and the Ledoux chemistry fellowship $300 and tuition.

Club Meets Friday

The Playreaders club will meet at the Baptist church at 8:00 o'clock next Friday evening. Mrs. Sturgis Leavitt will direct a reading of Robertson's David Garrick.

BOARD WILL FILL SALARIED POSTS ON PUBLICATIONS

Applications to Be Filed With J. M. Lear by April 5, Day Before Selections Made.

Selection by the Publications Union board of men for salaried positions of the campus publications will be made Thursday afternoon, April 6, it was decided by the group at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

The positions to be filled are as follows: business managerships of the Yackety Yack, THE DAILY TAR HEEL, and the Buccaneer; and the managing editorship and circulation managership of THE DAILY TAR HEEL.

Applications Due April 5

It was announced yesterday that written applications for these positions must be filed with Professor J. M. Lear on or before Wednesday, April 5. The candidates will appear in person before the board at 2:30 o'clock the next day at the office of Professor Lear at 109 Bingham.

The new managing editor of THE DAILY TAR HEEL is the only one of the men to be selected who will assume office this spring. He will take office Saturday, April 8.

The board moved yesterday afternoon to postpone action on the question of acceptance of beer advertising by the campus publications until the administration takes some action on the matter.

Members of the Publications Union board are: Professors J. M. Lear and Phillips Russell, faculty members; Tom Walker, representative from the senior class; Bob Woerner from the junior class; and Lonnie Dill, member-at-large.

HEADS OF LOCAL Y. M. C. A. WILL BE CHOSEN TUESDAY

Only Active Members Will Be Allowed to Cast Ballot; Polls To Be in Lobby of "Y."

Election of the Young Men's Christian Association officers for next year will take place Tuesday, April 4. The polls will open at 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. and will close at 5:30 o'clock.

Only those students registered on the rolls of the association as active members are eligible to vote, including both those students holding membership cards and those who have attended at least three regular cabinet meetings each quarter.

At the meeting of the members and officers of the association Tuesday night, it was decided that candidates nominated for the presidency should also run for the vice-presidency. The man receiving the most votes will become president and the one receiving the second highest number will serve as vice-president.

Nominees

The committee nominated Ike Minor and Lawrence Fountain for president and John Acee was also named when nominations were thrown open to the floor. Nominees for the other offices as named by the committee are Simmons Patterson, Locke Sloop, and J. D. Winslow for secretary and Tom Nesbit and Jack Poole for treasurer.
