

Twenty-Six Appointments To Fellowships Announced

Other Scholarships, Assistantships, and Fellowships Will Be Made Later.

CARRY STIPEND OF $500
Nominations Have Been Sent to Members of Association of American Universities.

Dean W. W. Pierson of the graduate school announced yesterday the appointments to twenty-six University teaching fellowships for the year 1933-34. Announcement of the selection for the twenty University scholarships, the graduate assistantships in the Institute for Research in Social Science, the Graham Kenan fellowships in philosophy, and the Ledoux fellowship in chemistry will be made at a later date.

The teaching fellowships carry a stipend of $500. Each fellow is expected to render part time service to the department to which he is assigned.

The following list of nominations for the fellowships was sent to the members of the Association of American Universities by Dean Pierson:

Botany

Budd Elmon Smith, A.B., and candidate for A.M., University of North Carolina. Alternate: Andrew Clark Mathews, A.B., and A. M., University of North Carolina.

Chemistry

Thomas Douglas, B.S., S.M., University of North Carolina; Robert Herschel Belcher, B.S., Georgia State College for Men, S.M., University of North Carolina. Simpson Douglas Sumerford, B.S., Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, candidate for S.M., University of North Carolina. Alternates: Granvil Charles Kyker, B.S., Carson-Newman College, candi-

(Continued on last page)

EASTERLING WILL ADDRESS N.C. CLUB TOMORROW NIGHT

Director of Local Government Commission Will Speak on Current Problems.

W. E. Easterling, director of the North Carolina local government commission will speak on current problems of local government at the North Carolina club meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the rural social economics library.

Easterling will discuss activities of the commission and specifically the debt situation and steps being taken to secure a refunding of local debts. He will also discuss the new legislation in respect to tax delinquency.

Speaker Held County Job

Easterling was chosen as assistant under C. M. Johnson when the county government advisory commission was created in 1927. The commission was instituted to assist county officials in their administrative duties, particularly in meeting their bookkeeping and financial problems.

Two years ago the commission's supervision was extended to all local unities of government. Its powers were enlarged and it was known as the local government commission. Easterling became acting director of the agency upon the appointment to state treasurership a few months ago.

DEBATE TRY-OUTS WILL TAKE PLACE

Vermont, Boston, and Agnes Scott Scheduled to Meet Debaters Here During Coming Month.

Try-outs will again take place at the debate council Monday at 9:00 o'clock in Graham Memorial on the question, "Resolved: That Japan's foreign policy be condemned." This is the subject of the debate with Georgia Tech April 13.

A short debate on the cancellation of war debts will follow the try-outs as practice for the debate with Vermont Tuesday night and one with Boston University April 14. Don Seawell, Red Rankin, Edwin Lanier, and Ben Proctor will be in this short debate assisted by Alvin Kaplan and Bill Eddleman.

Agnes Scott College of Atlanta, Georgia will debate here April 24 on the question of socialism; they will take the affirmative side of the subject.

COUNCILMAN FOR ENGINEERS STILL UNDER DISCUSSION

Weeks Gives Reasons That No Definite Action Has Been Taken by Student Representatives.

Haywood Weeks, president of the student council, last night gave the reasons that no arrangements have been worked out to seat a representative of the engineering school on the council.

This question has been under consideration of the council since the new administration went into office, and Weeks has conferred with Dean H. G. Baity of the engineering school, Dean of Students F. F. Bradshaw, and Dean J. C. Beard of the pharmacy school on the question several times.

The continued movement to put the honor system on a different basis last spring, and a new program submitted by the council this year, both of which would have solved the need for an engineering school councilman, were given by Weeks as the reasons that no definite action has been taken.

The new program, which would have to make a change in pharmacy school representation now that that school is operated on a four-year basis, is slated for the next meeting of the student activities committee to take place immediately after campus elections.

Buccaneer Staff Will Pick Nominee Tonight

The Carolina Buccaneer will fall into line with the staffs of the other student publications and nominate an official candidate for next year's editorship at a called meeting of the editorial division in Graham Memorial at 7:00 o'clock tonight.

The official nominee of the staff, together with those of the other publications, will be presented at the general student nominating convocation in Memorial hall tomorrow morning. Other candidates for the position may be nominated then.

Editor Bobbie Mason has urged that all members of the staff attend this meeting tonight. The meeting was originally set for tomorrow but has been moved up to tonight.

WOMEN'S CHORUS, TRIO AND SOLOISTS WILL ENTERTAIN

Joint Program Will Offer Varied Selections for Music Lovers Tomorrow Night.

A joint concert will be presented by the women's chorus of the local Community club, Harry Lee Knox, pianist, and the Stringfield trio tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in Hill Music hall. Professor Harold S. Dyer will conduct the chorus.

The women's group numbering twenty-five voices will participate in the choral festival sponsored by the state federation of music clubs in Raleigh the latter part of this week. Professor Dyer will be in charge of the festival as national chairman of choral festivals for the federation.

Stringfield Trio to Play

Mrs. F. B. McCall, pianist, Ralph Weatherford, a cellist, and Lamar Stringfield, flutist, will play the Mountain Sketches by Stringfield. This is a set of two pieces In a Log Cabin and Morning which since their completion in 1924 have become widely popular as chamber music compositions. This work has been performed by many outstanding groups in this country. It was featured by the original Stringfield trio in a series of concerts in the eastern cities.

Harry Lee Knox, student pianist, will offer a group of compositions by Debussy. Mrs. L. C. MacKinney, Mrs. R. H. Wetlack, and Miss Virginia Hufty will appear as soloists with the chorus.

R. B. HOUSE GIVES PRIZES IN DRAMA FESTIVAL CLIMAX

Merit in Dramatic, Costume, and Make-up Ability Are Bases For Prize Winning.

Climaxing the tenth annual state-wide Dramatic Festival, R. B. House, executive secretary of the University, representing President Frank P. Graham, presented awards to winners of the various dramatic, costume, and make-up contests, after the victors were announced last night by Professor F. H. Koch.

Duke University Players presenting George Kelly's Finders-Keepers, were winners in the senior college group and the Seaboard Players, presenting Bernice Kelly Harris' Judgment Comes to Daniel, won in the community original play contest, both of which were offered last night.

Winners in the college original plays were the Duke University Players, with Oasis by Harry Willis; and in the individual original plays were the Biltmore College Players of Asheville, with Unto Us a Child Is Born by Kneale Morgan.

Winning in their divisions were the following: Lenoir high school, presenting Kelly's Poor Aubrey; Biltmore Junior College of Asheville, presenting The Sister's Tragedy by Richard Hughes; R. J. Reynolds high school of Winston-Salem, presenting an original play by Laura Bland, The Island; Biltmore Junior College of Asheville.

(Continued on last page)

Closing Of Tenth Drama Festival Recalls History Of These Events

Carolina Dramatic Association, Begun by Professor Koch, Aims to Preserve Interest in the Natural Folk Poetry and Drama Extant in North Carolina Rural Communities.

With the closing of the tenth annual festival of the Carolina Dramatic Association yesterday, another chapter was completed in the North Carolina section of a national volume of customs, manners, and colorful vernacular known as American folk drama.

To Professor Frederick H. Koch there was something—something fine—in "them thar hills" of North Carolina and on "them thar sandy stretches" of the coast, not to mention the towns and cities, the native poetry and drama of which, he thought, should be preserved for posterity. So he labored with the Playmakers to bring this about.

State Sought Aid in Dramatics

Out of the interest in a folk-theatre, awakened by the activities of these itinerant Playmakers who swaggered in piratical hip-boots and who, as tenant-farm women, sniffed snuff and spat tobacco juice, there arose a state-wide demand for guidance in dramatic expression. To meet this need the Bureau of Community Drama was organized by the director of the Playmakers, Professor Koch, in 1918. A play-book service was inaugurated, practical instruction in play production and in construction of stage scenery was sent out.

The Carolina Dramatic Association, whose members have been entertaining audiences at the Playmakers theatre these past three days with plays of all varieties of finish and interest-value, grew out of the Bureau of Community Drama. The Dramatic Association was organized in the autumn of 1923 under the direction of Professor Koch, who has continued in an advisory position since.

Off-Stage Drama

The players from the high schools, little theatre associations, junior colleges, and colleges dramatize Life. Their trials and tribulations before reaching Chapel Hill, where they are to "strut and fret" their hour upon the stage for the benefit of an audience that, critical though it is at many times, is yet sympathetic, would fill volumes. It is known that last year one group sold handkerchiefs on the streets of Asheville in order to finance their transportation here. Another group staged a minstrel show, allowing youngsters to enter free so that their parents would perform have to come along. Whether or not this group staged a Euripidean tragedy when they came here is not known.

It has been asserted that the festival and contest provides an excellent training ground for future playwrights. Loretta Carroll Bailey, whose productions, Job's Kinfolk and Strike Song, are quite familiar to Chapel Hill audiences, first received recognition of her talents in the 1925 festival, when, although only a senior in the Winston-Salem high school, her play

(Continued on page two)

Campus-Wide Nominations Will Be Made Tomorrow

GUEST SPEAKER TO ADDRESS Y GROUPS

Miss Elizabeth Manget Will Speak At Joint Meeting of Junior Senior And Sophomore Cabinets.

Miss Elizabeth Manget, traveling secretary of the South Atlantic region for the Student Volunteer Movement during the past year, will speak at a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. junior-senior and sophomore cabinets tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Miss Manget, a graduate of Duke University, was president of the North Carolina Student Volunteer Movement last year. She will be here all day Monday and probably Tuesday to conduct special conferences with anyone interested in mission work.

The freshman friendship council will also meet at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night in the senior room of the "Y" to nominate officers for next year.

TAU BETA PI WILL CONDUCT TAPPING THURSDAY NIGHT

Engineering Honorary Group Will Choose Men at Joint Meeting Of Four Societies.

At a meeting of the members of the Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, Friday night, it was decided to conduct the annual spring tapping at a joint meeting of the four engineering societies Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

An interesting program has been planned for the occasion with the tapping at the center attraction. A motion picture, "Blasting a Dam into Position," will be shown, and refreshments will be served.

Those tapped will come from the upper eighth of the Junior class, and must show qualities of leadership, integrity, breadth of interest, adaptability, unselfish activity, character, and social qualities.

Tau Beta Pi is a national honorary fraternity and tends to honor those who have conferred honor on their Alma Mater and to foster a liberal spirit of culture in the Engineering schools of America.

Playmakers To Have Try-outs Tomorrow

Try-outs for the next series of Playmakers experimental productions will be conducted in the theatre at 4:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Eight new plays, written in Professor F. H. Koch's playwriting classes, will be presented before an invited audience on April 12. About forty-five characters will have parts in the plays.

VERMONT WILL DEBATE DI AND PHI TUESDAY

Vermont University will debate Carolina at a joint meeting of the Di Senate and the Phi Assembly Tuesday night at 7:15 at the meeting place of the Phi Assembly in New East.

The subject of the debate will be: "Resolved: That the war debts be cancelled." Edwin Lanier and Ben Proctor will take the affirmative side of the question.

Student Council Will Conduct Meeting in Memorial Hall At Assembly Period.

CLASS MEETINGS AT NIGHT Senior, Junior, and Sophomore Nominees Will Be Selected At 7:15 O'clock.

For the third time during the past month, students of the University will gather in Memorial hall at assembly period tomorrow to participate in a student convocation. The purpose of the meeting is concerned with student affairs for next year, since tomorrow official nominations for thirteen campus-wide offices will be made.

More nominations will follow this meeting. Tomorrow night in various halls on the campus three classes will meet and go through the process of nominating candidates for class offices.

Election Date Set
Election of these officers, as well as for the already nominated candidates for the Woman's Association's roster of next year has been set for Wednesday.

Campaigning so far this year indicates that the election will be one of the hottest in recent years. Two, and in some cases three, candidates have thrown their hats into the ring for each office, quite a contrast with last year when only three positions of the twenty-eight were contested.

Haywood Weeks, head of the student body, will preside at the convocation. Following opening remarks the floor will be thrown open to nominations for the campus-wide positions. By a ruling of the student council, nominating speeches will be limited to two minutes. No seconding is necessary.

(Continued on last page)

SOUTHERN PINES WILL HEAR LOCAL SINGERS TONIGHT

University Glee Club Will Present First of Spring Concerts at 8:00 O'clock.

The University glee club, directed by Professor Harold S. Dyer, will present the first of its spring series of concerts tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the Church of the Wide Fellowship in Southern Pines.

The glee club will make several out of town appearances this quarter.

Tonight's program will feature three students as soloists. Harry Lee Knox, accompanist for the group, will play a group of piano compositions by Debussy. Earl Wolslagel, violinist, will offer works of Tartini and Albert Spalding. William G. Barnett, baritone, will sing a group of three selections.

Program Numbers
The entire program will include O Bone Jesu by Palestrina, Plorate, Fili Israel by Clarissimi, In Dulci Jubilo an old German carol, the two Negro songs Go Down Moses and Steal Away, a group of three American songs Ashes of Roses by Wolfe, Andrew's By the Sea, and A Plainsman's Song by Bliss, Scotch Border Ballad by Maunders, and the Bohemian folk tune The Reaper's Song. The program will conclude with the alma mater.