PRESIDENT GRAHAM SPEAKS ON AWARDS PROGRAM TONIGHT

PLAYMAKERS TO OFFER EXCLUSIVE PROGRAM TODAY

Only Members of Organization And Invited Guests to Attend Presentations.

Nine one-act plays are presented today in the Playmakers theatre at 3:30 and 8:00 o'clock, before an invited audience of authors and Playmakers. The experimental productions, staged under the supervision of Harry Davis, are written in Professor F. H. Koch's playwriting courses and are presented as supplementary work to the courses.

Elmer Oettinger's "The Moon Turns," directed by the author, is first this afternoon, with a cast of Ed Conrad, Elmer Oettinger, Jayne Smoot, Eva English. Two comedies follow: "Beer On Ice," by Harry Coble and directed by Phillip Milhous, with Mrs. Martha Wardlaw, Burdette Kindig, Wilbur Dorsett, Eugenia Rawls, Jo Orendorff, William Wang; and "Bull Session," written and directed by George Brown, offering a cast of Forney Rankin, Carl Thompson, and Harry Coble.

Ed Conrad's tragedy of the war, "For Poland," concludes. Eugenia Rawls, Betty Barnett, Marion Tatum, Ed Conrad, and Elmer Oettinger compose the cast.

"No Word From The Wise," a comedy by Wilbur Dorsett, begins the evening series. Jo Orendorff, Mary Davis, Harry Coble, Carl Thompson are the cast. A romance and a farce continue: "A Mocking Bird Singing" by Foster Fitz-Simons, with Phoebe Barr, Frank McIntosh, Marion Tatum, Foster

FORTY-SIX BOYS TO GET LETTERS

Carolina Athletic Teams Close Great Season, Winning Three Conference Crowns.

Forty-six athletes will be given awards tonight for work done this quarter in track, tennis, baseball, and golf. Twenty-six of the boys will be getting their first monograms and only five will receive awards for the third time.

Carolina athletic teams ended one of the most successful quarters in the history of sports. The tennis team completed another undefeated season winning the national, Southern conference, and state titles. The varsity track team also went through the season undefeated and untied, getting first places in both the state and Southern conference meets.

The Tar Heel nine, although not downing everything, won their last eight starts, took top honors in the Southern conference, and tied Davidson for the Big Five championship. Although the golf team did not win the state and conference meets, it was second in both and Erwin Laxton, sophomore, won the individual title in the conference tourney.

FRESHMAN CO-EDS SELECT OFFICERS

Polly Jacobson Is Chosen to Head Group Next Year.

Officers of the rising sophomore co-eds were elected at a luncheon meeting of the freshman co-eds yesterday afternoon. The gathering was the final meeting of the group for the year.

The new officers are as follows: Polly Jacobson, president; Suzanne Winstead, vice-president; Anna Cowles, secretary-treasurer; Gertrude Pridgen, athletic manager; and Frances Wood, publications manager.

A friendship committee for the purpose of helping the girls of next year's freshman class was appointed. The members are: Louise Helms, Nancy Pike, and Eleanor Lockhart.

Yesterday's meeting was the first of its kind ever held by freshman co-eds here.

ENGINEERS PLAN SURVEYING CAMP

Trimble to Be in Charge of Camp of 15 Men at Brevard.

The junior class in civil engineering will begin its summer surveying camp near Brevard, June 12. This camp is opened each summer for a period of eight weeks for prescribed courses of the civil engineering curriculum.

The preparatory course is given on the campus during the fall term, and the instruction in camp covers work in land, highway, railway, power, and other forms of engineering surveying, under conditions simulating those encountered in actual practice.

This is the 11th year the work has been conducted in the mountains. Professor R. M. Trimble of the engineering school is in charge of the camp this year. Fifteen men are eligible to attend.

STATE SYMPHONY TO ARRIVE HERE FOR REHEARSALS

Society Orchestra to Appear in Raleigh Monday Evening in Spring Presentation.

Members of the North Carolina State symphony will arrive here tomorrow to begin rehearsals for the spring presentation of the Symphony society in Raleigh Memorial auditorium Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Rehearsals scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday will be conducted by Lamar Stringfield, musical director of the symphony society.

Eighteen towns and cities of the state will be represented by 50 players in the orchestra. This group was the first all state professional musical organization in the country and has received attention in Time and the Literary Digest as an important movement in the development of civic musical groups. The symphony society, headed by Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt, numbers about 400 members.

Make Raleigh Debut

Previously concerts have been presented by the symphony in Durham and Chapel Hill. The North Carolina Little Symphony, also affiliated with the symphony society, has appeared in Southern Pines. Monday evening's concert will be the first appearance of the group in Raleigh.

The program will include Beethoven's "Symphony No. 1 in C major," the overture to Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," Stringfield's "The Legend of John Henry," "On the Steppes of Central Asia" by Borodin, and Tchaikowsky's "March Slav."

CARR WINS TITLE FROM SIGMA NU

Lawyers Take Second Campus Championship in Two Weeks As Netmen Get 3-0 Win.

Carr dormitory gained its second campus championship of the spring quarter yesterday as it defeated Sigma Nu, 3-0, to take the intramural tennis supremacy back to the dormitory league. The law outfit had previously won the campus-wide baseball championship by defeating Beta Theta Pi, 9-8.

In the opening singles match Jimmy Baley played a brilliantly steady game to turn back Lawrence Jones, 7-5, 6-3.

Billy Markham, No. 2, came from behind to turn back Bruce Old, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2. Markham's superior ability to keep the ball in play came to his rescue in the latter part of the match, and he won numerous points only after prolonged rallies.

The doubles match, which was not essential to decide the match, was won by Carr by default.

Special Edition Postponed

Due to the unexpected volume of advertising turned in by the business office for this issue of the DAILY TAR HEEL, the special Blue Ridge edition has been postponed until tomorrow.

Relation Of University To State Will Be Discussed

SUMMER SOCIAL PLANS ARE MADE

Archie Davis and His Orchestra Are Signed for Dances.

The summer school social committee has just completed contracts for the summer dances. Archie Davis and his 12-piece orchestra has been signed to play for the set.

Formerly a six-piece band has been used for the summer school dances, but this year the contract doubles the size. Davis and his orchestra have been playing for a local cafeteria during the past school year, and are noted in North Carolina for their dance music.

The marshals selected for the dances are: Haywood Weeks, chief marshal, Lindy Cate, Don Jackson, Jimmy Moore, Claude Rankin, Hamilton Hobgood, George Moore, and Cab Philpott. Pardner James has been appointed chief door-keeper.

Indications are that there will be a large enrollment in the summer school, and the dance set-up should prove an interesting feature of the summer school life.

SATURDAY ISSUE OF SUPPLEMENT IS LAST OF YEAR

Editor Daniel Reports Copy of Varying Content for Next Issue of Magazine.

Because of the suspension of the DAILY TAR HEEL for the examination period, the Carolina Magazine will appear Saturday rather than on Sunday as usual. An increase in the amount of fiction over that of last issue will be included in the last Magazine of the spring quarter.

Among the stories are "Doomsday," an account of the reaction of the people to a predicted second coming of Christ in the year 1000 A.D., by Virgil Lee; "Yellow Sheet," a newspaper story, by Don Shoemaker; "Broadway Stick Up" by Walter Rosenthal; "Almost Persuaded," a youthful religious experience, by Vernon Ward; "Song Without Words" by Vermont Royster; "Thick," a sketch, by Cecil Carmichael; "The Mind in Itself" by Carl Thompson; and "Sky-Hookers" by Karl Sprinkle.

Anonymous

There are two anonymous contributions in the forthcoming Magazine; one, a series of sketches of well-known co-eds; another, an article describing the working of the money motive among Carolina fraternities and extra-curricular leaders. Joe Sugarman contributes "Rockets' Red Glare" in which he heralds and accounts for the rise of the "center" in American politics.

An article on the relations of the University to the state and a suggested way out of the annual appropriations fight with the state legislature are given in "Fetters of Tradition," based on a review of the Harvard novel, "Not to Eat, Not for Awards Will Be Given to Students in Recognition for Work During Year.

In conjunction with the tenth annual awards night ceremony in Memorial hall at 8:00 o'clock tonight, President Frank P. Graham will deliver an address to the entire student body. President Graham is anxious for every student in the University to attend this final mass meeting of the year, since his address will be of tremendous importance to everyone.

Since the drastic legislative steps taken recently in regard to the University, many students have been uncertain of their return next year. President Graham will explain in his address the meaning of the abolition of free tuition and scholarships, the effect of the appropriation slash will have, and the relationship of the University to the state next year. He will also discuss the means by which students will be enabled to return to school next year.

Awards to Be Made

Achievements in student activities during the past year will be recognized by the awarding of charms and monograms. Short specialty acts, featuring prominent students on the campus, have also been arranged by Ed "Pepper" Martin, chairman of the program committee. Harper Barnes, president of the student body, will preside over the meeting.

The meeting will open with the singing of "Hark the Sound" by the assembly, accompanied by the University band. Walter Patterson will play several selections on the organ. President Graham will

PROFESSORS TO TEACH IN WEST

Koch and Connor to Conduct Courses at Colorado During Conference of Writers.

Professor F. H. Koch and Dr. R. D. W. Connor will conduct courses at the University of Colorado summer school this summer, during the annual writers' conference which will convene there July 24 to August 12.

Professor Koch will conduct a course in playwriting and comparative drama, based on the Carolina Folk-Plays series. The best plays written during the course will be produced during the latter period of the conference by University of Colorado players.

Dr. Connor will conduct an undergraduate course in the history of the American colonies in the 18th century and a graduate course in preliminaries of the American revolution.

SHOP TO REMAIN OPEN IN SUMMER

Betty Barnett to Direct Bull's Head Book Store.

The Bull's Head will remain open during summer school session under the management of Betty Barnett, since Mary Dirnberger, present manager, has accepted a position as designer for the Repertory Playhouse associates of New York.

Miss Dirnberger, who has been staff designer for the Carolina Playmakers during the past year, will design sets for about six productions of the Playhouse associates during nine weeks of the summer, in addition to conducting a class in scene designing for apprentices to the repertory company. She is now working on sets for two of the plays: "Squaring the Circle," which is adapted from the Russian, and "It's A Strange House."

Aileen Ewart of the Playmakers will also be with the Playhouse associates during the summer.

Hours of the Bull's Head during the summer will be 11:00 to 1:00 o'clock, 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock, and 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock. Weekly readings in the Bull's Head, to which the public is invited, will be continued through the summer; and new books will be added to the rental library at the rate of about two a week.

Varsity Golf Picture

All members of the varsity golf team will meet at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon at Emerson field to have a squad picture taken.

An Explanation

The editor of the Tar Heel feels that an explanation is due the student body for the reduced volume of news in this issue. The reason for it is that the business department came in late with an unusually large layout of advertising, and so some news was crowded out.

Many Students Live in Rooms Occupied by Forbears; Frats Use Dorms as Annexes.

"Be it ever so humble there is no place like home" runs the theme song of the campus at this time—but for the past year the seventeen University dormitories have acted in that capacity for more than one-third of the student body.

A roll-call of the dormitory dwellers from the Confederate dormitories on Franklin street—so-called from their proximity to the statue—to marble-shooting Smith building, and including that seraglio, Spencer Hall, would show over 925 names.

Develop Attachments

Sometimes the feeling for a certain dormitory gets into the dweller's blood and he goes back home imbued with the idea that as a second paradise this-or-that dorm takes the prize. He reserves opinion as to what constitutes paradise number one, of course. So it is that Old East and Old West, the two oldest dormitories on the campus, often experience the feeling of having grandfather, and father and son take parts in scarifying its august walls.

Old East has been usually picked for this purpose—the tradition of its former occupants casting a halo around its ivy-covered walls—by new students. Rumor has it that a Kenan has occupied a certain room in the oldest college building in the country for the last quarter of a century. Nat Townsend reports that he has discovered the evidence of a bottle of ink his father spilled when the latter occupied his present room. Speculation has been rife in Old West as to the person occupying President Polk's former room.

Dorms Fraternity Annexes

These two dormitories—Old East and Old West—with Steele have the honor of being the most sought after, according to the business office. Due to the central location on the campus of these three, rooms there are rented quickly. It appears that the former two might also be termed annex chapter houses for the S. A. E.'s, the Sigma Nu's,
