Enthusiastic Campaign of Two Campus Political Parties Features Spring Affairs.

With but five short months past, the year 1933 looms as one of the most eventful in the history of the University. As the school year terminates, ten events of more than passing importance stand out in the files of the DAILY TAR HEEL. No less than four of these had a profound effect on the state, while two may be accounted as nationally significant.

In summary the ten major news events of 1933 are: the University appropriation and budget struggle, the strange case of Jiasu Fukusato, the postponement of the holidays, the suicide of Dr. Eric A. Abernethy, the campus and class elections, the achievement of its third national championship by the tennis team, the battle between the junior and senior classes over Bert Lown, the Golden Fleece tapping, the death of Bill Roberts, and the founding of the University club.

From the standpoint of universal campus interest, the recent election was far and away the most important event of the year. Not in years had two parties so evenly matched waged such a hectic campaign for the 29 campus and class offices. The culmination of this terrific outburst of political interest and energy came on April 6 when over 1,800 students set a new high water-mark for ballots cast in a University election.

The most dramatic occurrence of the period was the imprisonment of Jiasu Fukusato, Japanese student enrolled in the University. Removed from Chapel Hill February 18 by im-

DIRECTORY LISTS LOCAL PROFESSOR

Dr. J. F. Dashiell Awarded "Star" in Fifth Edition of "American Men of Science."

Dr. J. F. Dashiell, of the department of psychology, has been awarded a "star" in the recent fifth edition of "American Men of Science," edited by J. McKeen Cattell. This directory, first printed in 1906, contains biographical sketches of all workers in the natural and exact sciences, now totalling some 22,000.

In the first edition 1,000 men had been selected by vote of their fellow scientists in the respective fields to be "starred" as the most eminent scientists of the United States. In each succeeding edition names have been similarly voted upon to be added to the list, partly as replacements for names removed by death. The principal consideration in such selection has been the value of the man's research work. Dashiell's research has been in the field of psychology, and largely in human learning and in animal behavior.

Of the present faculty of the University the following have received stars: in the first edition, H. V. Wilson (in zoology), F. P. Venable, A. S. Wheeler, and F. K. Cameron (in chemistry), in the second edition, W. C. Coker (botany), in the third, Otto Stuhlman (physics), in the fourth, R. E. Coker (zoology). Several Carolina alumni have been included in the starred list.

FOUR HUNDRED TO RECEIVE DEGREES

Today Set as Alumni Day; Class Reunions Feature Program of Activities Planned.

Following a custom established last year, the graduation exercises of the 138th commencement of the University will be conducted in Kenan stadium tomorrow evening at 7:00 o'clock, when approximately 400 members of the class of 1933 will be awarded degrees.

Plans for commencement activities provide for a three-day program, which was opened yesterday morning with the Baccalaureate sermon, delivered in Memorial hall by Bishop Edwin A. Penick of the North Carolina Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Today has been set as Alumni day, and the program will be featured by reunions for classes from the 70's down to the "baby" class of last year. A special reunion for all alumni in classes of the late 70's and 80's will bring back many prominent alumni of that period.

FUND INCREASED BY SENIOR GIFT

Class of 1933 Donates over $500; Campaign Conducted to Sign Pledges for Additions.

The Class of 1933, in keeping with a precedent inaugurated by the Class of 1931, has made its class gift to the student loan funds of the University. More than $500 was involved.

The group is now conducting a campus-wide campaign to sign up pledges for future gifts to be added to this fund. The pledges are to be paid annually to the Alumni Loyalty Fund and will be credited to the loan fund already established by the class gift.

The campaign for pledges is being carried on by a committee of which J. Sparks Griffin is the chairman. In beginning the campaign Mr. Griffin issued the following statement:

"I wish very much that our Fund might grow into a really large figure. The Deems Fund started originally with only $600 and has grown until it now totals more than $66,000. The Class of 1933 Fund can also grow if we will add to it from year to year accordingly as we are able."

Felix A. Grisette, director of the Alumni Loyalty Fund, pointed out that the action of the class is in keeping with the practice of seniors in a majority of the leading universities of the country.
