

LECTURE BEGINS PROMISING YEAR FOR PLAYMAKERS

Professor Koch Will Speak Next Week and Illustrate Talk on Plays of Green and Wolfe.

An illustrated lecture by Professor F. H. Koch on "Playmaking," Saturday, October 7, in the Playmakers theatre will begin the season's activities of the Carolina Playmakers. The lecture will be featured by screen slides of scenes from the early plays of Paul Green and Tom Wolfe, both former Playmakers.

The series of Sunday play-readings, which are sponsored once a month by the Playmakers, will be begun this year by Paul Green, who has been called to Hollywood and who will present a reading upon his return in the latter part of October. The reading will be from one of the dramatists movie scripts, either "David Harum" which he is now writing for Will Rogers or "Voltaire" which he wrote for George Arliss.

Tryouts for the opening production of the Playmakers, Paul Green's "House of Connelly," will be conducted Monday, October 9, in the Playmakers theatre. The play, to be presented here November 2 through 4, will be produced for the first time in the South. Another play to be offered during the season by the Playmakers is Shakespeare's "Hamlet," in which Professor Koch is being urged to play the title role. The production of "Hamlet" may be offered as the Forest theatre production in the spring.

SALON ENSEMBLE TO OPEN SEASON

Concert in Graham Memorial Next Month Will Inaugurate Campus Appearances.

The Carolina Salon ensemble, an organization of student musicians conducted by Thor Johnson, will begin its third season of campus concerts with an appearance in the lounge of Graham Memorial Sunday afternoon, October 22. This will be the first in a series of four afternoon concerts in the student union by the group.

These concerts were inaugurated by the director of Graham Memorial last January in an effort to provide a regular entertainment feature for the students and visitors. They have proved so popular that it was decided to continue them throughout this school year.

As usual the ensemble will also make appearances in connection with the Playmaker productions and will schedule a series of out of town concerts each quarter. Last year the group successfully completed three such tours in addition to its campus appearances.

Buccaneer Wants New Men

New men who failed to attend the Buccaneer meeting because of previous engagements may consult with the editor in his offices from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock today. It is imperative to see him at this time as work is to start for the first issue immediately.

Di And Phi Members To Assemble Tonight

Old members of the Dialectic and Philanthropic literary societies are asked to meet tonight at 7:15 o'clock in New West and New East, respectively, for arrangement of business. First year men will be invited to the following Tuesday night meetings.

Bill Eddleman, president, will preside over the Di gathering and Lawrence Fountain, over the Phi. Officers for this quarter were elected at the last regular meeting of last spring.

Membership drives will be discussed at both meetings as well as plans for the quarter.

NINETEEN BOOKS TO BE RELEASED BY PRESS HERE

Several Volumes by Members of University Faculty Included On Fall Schedule.

Nineteen books, ranging in subject matter from "Lynching and the Law" to "A History of the Church in Venezuela" are included in the fall schedule of books to be released by the North Carolina Press. Several books by members of the faculty at the University, and one by Addison Hibbard are contained in this group. Hibbard was formerly dean of the school of liberal arts here and is now at Northwestern University. A few of the books for the fall release are already off the press, and the remaining ones will be issued by the last of November.

"The Story of North Carolina," by A. M. Arnett and W. C. Jackson, is designed primarily for sixth grade school work; but it tells the complete story of the state from Raleigh to Roosevelt. The emphasis is placed, as far as possible in a child's text book, upon social forces and upon developing ideas of government, rather than upon wars and the glory of war.

"Stories of the South," edited by Addison Hibbard, contains 27 famous stories of plantation life and of the new Negro. The book deals with traditional Charleston, colorful New Orleans, and progressive Birmingham. This book was first published in 1931, but is now being reissued at a lower price for the regular edition.

Legal Fraternity To Have Supper Meeting

Phi Delta Phi, international legal fraternity, will meet for the first time this year at a supper gathering in Graham Memorial Thursday night at 6:00 o'clock. A yearly program will be outlined.

One of the features will be a report by the local chapter's delegates to the national convention in Michigan earlier this month. Announcements will follow regarding several newly-elected pledges.

Several mock trials are planned for the year with senior members officiating as officers of the court. A faculty member will preside at each trial as judge.

University Adopts Plans To Aid Unemployed Seeking Education

Plan Should Organize Unemployed Teachers in Order to Use Enforced Leisure Time for Furthering Their Education; Instruction at Minimum Cost Provided For.

By Robert W. Madry

Plans just announced by the extension division reveal that the Greater University is making a notable contribution toward helping the unemployed, especially high school and college graduates who are unable to pursue residence study.

Under one plan high school and college graduates without employment and without funds sufficient for the regular college course may attend the University as institute students.

The institute plan of admission includes room in a dormitory, board in the University dining hall, the use of the library, and visiting privileges on University courses. College credit is not offered those who register under this plan. The cost is only $75 for each quarter (three months term) at Chapel Hill.

Students may register for the institute at any time. The first to enroll was Charles H. S. Honk, of Knoxville, Tenn., a graduate of the University of Tennessee and of the Union Theological Seminary. He is planning to enter the ministry, and is here to make a study of the religious drama under the direction of Professor Frederick Koch.

Unemployed Teachers Included
Another plan calls for the organization of a study group for unemployed teachers, to enable them to use their enforced leisure for further education at minimum cost. A number have joined this group already, and they will have the advantage of common interests and group discussions of common problems.

Those enrolling under this plan, if they desire credit for the fall term, must register by September 28. Unemployed teachers registering under this plan may take such courses in the University as their interests and educational preparation may indicate except undergraduate courses in elementary education which are not included, as these courses were transferred to the Woman's College in Greensboro by the trustees' action in consolidation. Women may register for these courses.

Of special interest to high school graduates is a group study plan which will make it possible for students unable to attend college this year to receive college instruction by correspondence.

The plan calls for supervised group study under the cooperative direction of local high schools and the University extension division. Individual or group registration may be made subject to University regulations and standards governing academic credit.

For Advanced Students
"This plan," says Russell M. Grumman, director of the extension division, "enables high school graduates unable to attend college this year to begin their advanced studies for credit toward degrees. It also makes (Continued on last page)

CO-EDS WILL EAT AT SWAIN TABLES

Increased Enrollment of Women Causes Overflow at Spencer Hall Necessitating Move.

With the increased number of girls registering at the University this year, Swain hall, the University dining room under the management of J. O. Harmon is making an innovation in that the dining hall will be open for co-eds. Having girls sitting at tables next to them in Swain hall will be an entirely new experience to the majority of the students who eat there, for heretofore girls and women have eaten regularly in the dining room only during summer school sessions.

The management has engaged Mary Frances Parker to act as hostess for the commons, and has announced that special tables will be provided for co-ed guests. Miss Parker took up her duties at the noon meal Saturday. She was president of the University Woman's association last year and was a close contestant for the editorship of the Carolina Magazine. Miss Parker's home is in Goldsboro, and at present she is doing special work in sociology and public welfare.

Feature Board Meeting

All students who have signified their intention of trying out for the feature board will meet with the chairman in the TAR HEEL offices at 2:15 today. The meeting is also open to any upperclassmen interested.

PEP DRILL TO BE GIVEN IN CHAPEL

Prominent Members of Coaching Staff and Athletic Squads Will Address Meeting.

The program for freshman assembly this morning in Memorial hall will be in charge of the University club. President Agnew Bahnson and Secretary Jack Pool have arranged for cheering practice under Chief Cheerleader Ernest Hunt and speeches by prominent members of the coaching staff and football squad.

At present club leaders are concentrating on the encouragement of interest among the freshman class. Accordingly, a special pep meeting for first year men was conducted last Wednesday night and an assemblage last Saturday, given for the practice of yells at scrimmage. Also freshmen are supposed to form the nucleus for the organization of a uniformed cheering section.

Leaders of the movement seek also to encourage the revival of spirit among the rest of the classes. The club was organized last spring by campus leaders interested in better support for Carolina athletic teams and entertainment of visiting athletic teams. Six non-fraternity men and a representative from each fraternity of the rising junior class became members.

Grail Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Grail tonight in Graham Memorial at 9:30 o'clock.

Co-ed Rushing Season Will Start October 6

The afternoon of Friday, October 6, will begin the co-ed five-day rushing season and end the period of silence which began Friday, September 22, during which members of the Chi Omega and Pi Beta Phi sororities have not been allowed to wear their sorority pins or talk to new students.

This year, men's fraternity rules will be observed, except that parties will be given the last two nights—that of Chi Omega on Monday, October 9, and that of Pi Beta Phi on Tuesday, October 10. These will be followed by a day of silence.

RHODES AWARDS CANDIDATES MUST APPLY BY NOV. 18

Applications Should Be Filed With Dean A. W. Hobbs in South Building.

Candidates for the Cecil Rhodes scholarships are urged to file their applications immediately with Dean A. W. Hobbs, South building, as they cannot be entered later than November 18.

Every male citizen of the United States, and unmarried, is eligible for the scholarship. The candidate must have completed his sophomore year at college, and in order to qualify must be at least nineteen years old and not over twenty-five.

These candidates must apply either in the state in which he resides or in the one in which he has received his two years of academic work.

The qualities essential for selection are:

- (1) Literary and scholastic attainments.
- (2) Qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship.
- (3) Exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates.
- (4) Physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

For further technical details and reading matter, blanks may be obtained from this University at C. P. Spruill's office, 210 Bingham, or from the secretary of the committee of selection in the state, Dean W. C. Davison, Duke University. Still further information can be obtained from President Frank Aydelotte, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa. (Continued on last page)

Substitute Obtained For Engineering Dean

Gail P. Edwards of Chicago, Illinois, was recently appointed acting associate professor of hydraulic and sanitary engineering in the University engineering school. Professor Edwards will fill the position of Professor H. G. Baity, who is on leave of absence for a year.

Professor Edwards graduated from the University of Illinois where he studied sanitation. Later he received his M.S. and Ph.D. at the same school. For the past nine years, Professor Edwards served as principal chemist in the sanitary district of Chicago.

Harvard university, where Professor Edwards received his M.S. in engineering last June, highly recommended him.

RUSHING SEASON IS OPENED WITH VISITS BY CARD

Period Will Extend 11 Days From Today; Rules for Entertaining Rushees Cited.

The 1933 rushing season opened Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock with approximately 300 students visiting fraternities by invitation. The season will last until October 7, a period of 11 days from today.

During this period of rushing, visiting at lodges will be restricted to the hours between 2:00 p. m. and 9:00 p. m., except on Fridays and Saturdays when the time will be extended until midnight.

Beginning with the visiting Sunday, the first period of silence, which went into effect September 18, came to a close. The second period of silence will start on October 7, at midnight and will last until October 9 at 6:00 p. m.

Distribution of Bids

On the first day of the second period of silence, each fraternity will submit a list to the secretary of the Interfraternity council of those men to whom it will extend bids. On the second day of this period the faculty adviser of fraternities will summon every man who has received a bid. Each man will designate his first, second, and third choices of societies, and the adviser will direct him to the fraternity house of his highest choice.

During the rushing period no man who is expecting to join a fraternity may room with a member of that society. There will be no rushing at meal times, and no fraternity man will be allowed to accompany a prospective candidate for his lodge (Continued on page two)
