To Be Used for Long-Term Secured Student Loans; Bradshaw Is Administrator.

MONEY PART OF SURPLUS
Action Part of Policy Advanced
By Eddleman and Endorsed
By Other Members.

A loan of $2,000 was granted the Student Loan Fund, administered by Dean F. F. Bradshaw, by the Publications Union board yesterday afternoon. The money will be used for long-term secured student loans.

The money granted was part of a cash surplus accumulated last year and in 1931-32 by the board. A similar offer of a loan to the fund was made last year, but at that time Dean Bradshaw announced that no financial aid was necessary. A heavy drain on the fund, however, has decreased the loan committee resources this year.

Board's Policy

The action of the board comes as part of the policy advanced this year by President William Eddleman and endorsed by the members to materially cut any surplus of the organization through profits of the publications. The board's program includes an increase of the publication budgets for improvement purposes and a reduction of student costs, as evidenced by the recent reduction by the board of junior and senior Yackety Yack fees.

The loan almost exhausted the cash reserve of the board. A surplus of over $14,000 in securities is held for emergencies such as financial losses of the publications. The budget for 1933-34 laid out by the board allows for a slight loss, as it is contrary to its policy to accumulate further surplus.

The program of the North Carolina Agency for the Advancement of the Colored Race provides for the renewal of the suit of Thomas R. Hocutt, Durham Negro, against the University, it was learned here yesterday.

Last March Hocutt filed application for entrance to the University and was refused admittance. Hocutt then filed a petition in the Durham county Superior court asking that a writ of mandamus be issued commanding the University to admit him to the pharmacy school or show cause to the contrary.

Barnhill Refuses Writ

The order was placed in the hands of Judge M. V. Barnhill, who refused a writ of mandamus on grounds that the applicant did not have proper qualification for admission to the University.
