

Kerr To Coach Maroons Again

Rumor That Kerr was Through At Colgate Ended When He Signed New Contract.

Rumors that this was his last year at Colgate University came to an end yesterday when it was discovered that Andrew Kerr, coach of the Maroon football contingents for the last five years, had signed a new three-year contract to direct football up at Hamilton, N. Y.

Dame rumor had it since the start of the season that Mr. Kerr would be at the coaching helm at N. Y. U., in 1934 but his signing ends all these premature rumors.

Under Andy Kerr, Colgate remained undefeated, untied, and unscored upon last year. This season, however, Tulane University downed the New Yorkers for their first defeat since 1931.

This year's particular gridiron season is characterized by the many rumors that lead fans to believe that they will see a host of new college coaches next season. It is fairly definite that "Hunk" Anderson is "through" at Notre Dame and will be succeeded by either Nobel Kizer of Purdue or "Fat" Spears of Wisconsin.

Eddie Casey, it is understood, will not be re-engaged as football coach up at Harvard for 1934.

Around the Field

Babe has it on him. The Charlotte boy is powerful and tough, and he is in there to win every minute.

EMMET JOYCE TURNED IN an excellent game at guard against the Deacons. Punchy cut through the Demon line like a scythe and tackled viciously. He has been improving fast this year and should come on further. Stumpy and rugged, Joyce is a tough man to handle. All opposition is alike to him and things are rough when he is in there.

PERHAPS GEORGE BARCLAY will come into his just share of state publicity this Saturday. All the sport scribes will be in the press box. It won't be long before every press agent up there will have his eyes on George. Last Saturday McFarland of the Associated Press, McKelvin of the News and Observer, Mitchell of the Greensboro Daily News, and Haney of the Durham Herald all sat in Bob Madry's sun porch. They wrote their stories, barely mentioning Barclay. This week it will be different. Barclay and Crawford will be on the same field. If George's leg is O.K. my bet is that he will steal the show.

Wright debate will also be discussed.

'Heel Football Team Is Given Lecture

tle the Tar Heel chances of winning Saturday. Carolina's main offensive threat is passing and of course a wet field will hurt the work of the passers and receivers. Nevertheless in the Carolina-State game, with the field in bad condition, the Heels completed half of the passes thrown for a gain of 60 yards.

The battle will probably be the most critical of the year for both teams. The contest will mean the difference between a good and a bad season for Carolina. So far the Tar Heels have only been able to take three out of seven starts but all the wins have been against Big Five clubs. A victory Saturday will mean a State championship and pretty nearly a Conference title.

The Blue Devils on the other hand have yet to be beaten. Duke considered Tennessee its toughest opponent at the first of the season but it seems that now Carolina has the honor of being the hardest club on its schedule. A win this week-end will put the Devils right on the road to a perfect season.

Duke Has Fine Attack

Duke has a fine all-around attack, nifty runners in Cornelius and Cox, a good blocker in Hendrickson, a fair passer in Laney, and in Rossiter one of the best kickers in the south.

Carolina's offense is still far from being perfect. The Tar Heels have a fine passing attack but the running is weak, mostly because of poor blocking. And as a result this will likely be stressed during the week's practice sessions.

ASSEMBLY TO DISCUSS THREE BILLS TONIGHT

The Phi assembly will meet tonight at 7:15 o'clock in New East to discuss the following bills: Resolved: That athletic pass books should be transferable; Resolved: That the Phi assembly deplores the vote of this state against prohibition repeal, and Resolved: That optional attendance should be permitted in all undergraduate schools in the University.

DEVILS PREPARE DEFENSE AGAINST 'HEEL AIR ATTACK

frankly worried about this Tar Heel passing. Many undefeated teams have bitten the dust late in the season because they slacked up a bit and allowed their foes to complete those long touchdown passes.

The game may turn into an aerial bombardment. Duke, too has used successfully the air game this season and has fine throwers and able receivers.
