CANDIDATES SPEAK TODAY

Four freshmen were nominated for the presidency of the first-year class yesterday morning. Nate Lipscomb, Julian Warren, W. W. Boddie, and Norman Keller were the nominees.

For vice-president Ed Herring and Fred Anderson were presented. Wilburn Davis and Frank Shore were named for the secretaryship, and Jack Cay and Joe Grier nominated for the position of treasurer.

"New Deal" Ticket

On Lipscomb's "ticket" appeared Herring, Davis, and Grier. Supporting Warren were Anderson, Shore and Kay.

Warren is engaged in four campus activities. Lipscomb is a self-help student and a member of the freshman football team. Both Boddie and Keller participate in several activities.

The candidates will address the freshman class this morning in campaign speeches.

The nominations were marked by an unusual display of enthusiasm on the part of the freshmen, entering into their initial political campaign. Vociferous cheering and stomping greeted each nomination, and the general attitude forecast a lively campaign. The speeches placing the various men in nomination were singularly short and to the point.

LIBRARY FINISHES WORK ON CATALOG

Cards on Library of Congress Books Now Are Complete; Catalog Has Many Uses.

After seven years of work the University library has just completed filing a catalog recording the millions of books in the library of Congress. The catalog is in card form and at present is contained in six large cases completely filling the west end of the main reading room.

About seven years ago the University library was made a depository in this region for a catalog of the library of Congress. The filing of the catalog has just been finished and cards for new books acquired by the library of Congress are being regularly received and filed.

One of the primary uses of the catalog is for inter-library loans. If a book is to be borrowed from the library of Congress it is possible to check quickly to see whether or not a copy is in the library of Congress without the delay of writing first to find out.

If a student or professor plans to go to Washington to study he can find here a record of the books he may expect to be able to get in the library of Congress. The catalog has many other uses.

Beauty Winner Visits The Hill

"Miss North Carolina" of Washington Greeted by R. B. House And Harper Barnes.

A rather bashful group of Carolina students were assembled around Pritchard and Lloyd's drug store yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to greet Miss North Carolina, a short, dark, beautiful girl, with excellent proportions, who is known in her home town of Washington as Miss Edna Taylor.

Following the custom of all women, she drove up a few minutes later than 3:30 o'clock accompanied by her chaperons. Miss Taylor was dressed in a dark traveling suit which suited her dark complexion and which was set off by a bouquet of American beauty roses.

She was greeted by Colonel Robert House and Harper Barnes, who escorted her into the drug store for a refreshing coca-cola. After having her drink and starting out to her car again, Miss Taylor posed with several students for a picture.

Asked how she liked traveling around the state and meeting people, Miss Carolina smiled, revealing white even teeth, and replied "It's all right for one day, but I don't like crowds."

She was cordial to all whom she met but greeted them with the embarrassment expected of one who is not used to being exploited.

While she was surveying the group of students standing around her, she was asked what she thought of the Carolina student as she saw them represented in this group. Miss Taylor looked around rather doubtfully and said "You can never tell from the looks."

"Does that refer to all men?" she was asked.

With quite some seriousness, she said, "Yes, all men."

The only important issue which will be discussed at the meeting of the Di senate at its meeting tonight at 7:00 o'clock is Resolved: That the Di senate go on record as favoring the plan under consideration by the faculty for revision of the curriculum. All members of the senate are urged to come to the meeting prepared to voice an opinion on this subject, as any decision on the part of the students on the matter will help the faculty in their final disposal of the problem.

PASSING THE BUC

The editors of the Daily Tar Heel, the Yackety Yack, and the Carolina Magazine, feeling that the forthcoming November issue of the Carolina Buccaneer will be delivered before Christmas holidays (sic), though fearing that true to custom this is improbable, present above a picture of the front cover of the Publications Issue, little of which will be funny, and much more probably libelous. We observe that this is the first original issue of the Carolina Buccaneer since 1794 that has been published without the aid of the combined Tar Heel and Magazine staffs.

MEMORY OF TOY HONORED BY CLUB

Philological Group Adopts Resolution Honoring Memory of One of Its Founders.

Resolutions in memory of Dr. William Dallam Toy, late head of the University German department who died last month, have just been adopted by the Philological club of the University. Dr. Toy was one of the founders of the club more than 40 years ago and was its president during the last year of his life.

Pointing out that the resolutions of the general faculty have dealt as adequately as possible with the relations of Dr. Toy to the University and the village, these resolutions assert that "between Dr. Toy and the Philological club there was, however, a peculiar community of interests that requires a special recognition."

One of Founders

"He was one of the founders of the club over forty years ago. Over this gamut of years his spirit played like the comforting glow of a hearth fire, both soothing and stimulating. Inspiring in his constant attendance, he expressed his quick and steady interest in scholarly comment or in lively play of humor.

"When he rose to speak, he had the attention of all, for everyone knew from experience that what he had to say was good. In a very real sense he personified what we like to think of as the spirit of this club—the spirit of the harmony of life, the quality of 'more life and fuller,' of richness without turbulence, that is the very essence of culture."

The resolutions were presented by a committee composed of George McKie, chairman; E. C. Metzenthin, G. A. Harrer, S. E. Leavitt, and Richmond P. Bond, president of the club.

FACULTY STUDY OF CURRICULUM RESUMED TODAY

Group May Discuss Proposed Change in Handling Violators Of Honor System.

MAY MAKE DEFINITE MOVE

Faculty members will meet this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Bingham hall to continue the study of proposals of educational changes in the University.

According to Robert B. House, if part of the faculty meeting is given over to other business, the recommendation that all cases arising under the honor system Student council will be discussed.

Discussed Previously

This matter concerning the Student council was presented by the faculty executive committee to the president's office November 10, and was to be discussed last week at the regular faculty meeting. However, the session was postponed until today.

The executive committee suggested that in order to give unqualified support to the new undergraduate spirit for student self-government on the campus that all cases arising under the honor system be administered by the Student council. They suggested the plan as an experiment during the 1933-34 school year.

Whether or not action is taken on the proposal, University officials will continue the discussion of the plan to make a sharper distinction before the first two and last two years of University curricula.

BRITON ANALYZES GERMANY TODAY

Nation Supports Hitler Because Nazi Leader Has Brought New Hope, Says Ratcliffe.

Because Hitler has given new hope to a defeated Germany, Germany has risen to the support of Hitler and his policies, stated S. K. Ratcliffe, British journalist in the lecture he as it is today in the lecture he delivered Sunday in Gerrard hall.

Ratcliffe believes much of Hitler's support comes from his great personal appeal to the Germans. He is entirely unaffected in his actions, the journalist reports from his observations, and when he drives to a public reception he is not obviously protected by secret service guards.

Rebellion Unsuccessful

The speaker pointed out how under modern conditions it is possible to maintain a complete dictatorship over a country. In former times, he declared, there was always room for the rebel to work. Now, with the press, radio, and modern transportation, rebellion is unsuccessful.

Ratcliffe believes that Hitler up to the present has not fully appreciated or understood foreign opinion.

The speaker agreed with an observation made by Dr. Meno Spann, of this faculty, in the open forum following the address, that Germany is now undergoing another stage in her historical development. Germany is for the first time, under Hitler, firmly united into one nation, he believes.
