DUKE GAME GIVEN IN ALUMNI REVIEW

Saunders Says Courageous Play And Student Spirit Were Not Enough to Win.

"Courageous team play and a mighty outpouring of student spirit was not enough to match the powerful line performance of a superior Duke eleven," states J. Maryon Saunders in the regular weekly football issue of the Alumni Review which was distributed yesterday from the office of the secretary of the Alumni association in South building.

Editor Saunders comments on the splendid sportsmanship exhibited by the players and the two student bodies. Continuing in his general story of the game, he writes of the brilliant performances of individual players on each side.

Duke Has Strong Line

"I think Duke's strength lies chiefly in its line," states Coach Chuck Collins in his regular column. "They showed that they had a far better all-round football team." The head coach goes on to tell how Carolina was handicapped with her injured players.

Statistics of the match and play-by-play accounts of the game are given in this issue, and the Carolina-Virginia annual Thanksgiving clash is given notice on the last page.

Attention of alumni is called to the General Alumni assembly to be held here December 15. At this annual session officers will be nominated for next year. A supper in Graham Memorial will open the convocation.

The leaflet is illustrated with several pictures of the teams in action, showing clearly the interference and line play of both teams.

SHAWN TO SPEAK ON 'MEN DANCING'

Famous Dancer to Lecture at Playmaker Theatre Next Sunday Evening.

Ted Shawn, America's own dancer-artist, will speak at the Playmakers theatre Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock on "Men Dancing," and will repeat the same lecture in condensed form at freshman assembly Monday morning.

Shawn will tell of his work at Springfield College, the organization of his men's troupe, and the importance of the dance.

Entertaining Speaker

The ability of Shawn as a speaker has been proved by the number of successful lectures he has delivered both here and abroad. In New York especially, his costume lectures have been well received, and were often repeated by popular demand.

A sense of humor is apparent in both the talks and some of the dances of Shawn, and again prove the superb showmanship of this great artist.

The Playmakers, who are sponsoring Shawn's dance program Monday night, feel certain that these two lectures will aid the audience in appreciating and enjoying more fully the performance of the troupe.

JUNIORS TO MEET IN GERRARD TODAY

Reduction of Class Fees and Plans For Budget to Be Discussed.

Snooks Aitken, president of the junior class, has announced that there will be a meeting of the entire class this morning at 10:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall, for the discussion of important business.

This business was to have been brought up at the meeting Tuesday morning, but because there was not a sufficient number of juniors present, it was decided to adjourn and bring up the business at this meeting.

Reduction of class fees is one of the most important items which is billed for discussion this morning. Also plans for a class budget will be presented for the approval of the class. There will be many other matters of importance presented at the meeting and it is essential that every member of the third-year class be present.

LAW SCHOOL WILL HAVE MOCK TRIAL OF TWO STUDENTS

Frank Clark Alleged to Have Tossed Frank Parker's Notebook From Window.

Summons will be served tomorrow on Frank Clark, student in the University law school, to appear in mock court to answer charges growing out of his alleged tossing from a window a notebook belonging to Frank Parker, member of the second-year law class.

The defendant will be represented by Vass Shepherd and Henry Anderson, while William Anglin and Allan Marshall will appear in behalf of the plaintiff.

Dr. A. C. McIntosh will take the bench for the case, and other court officials have been chosen as follows: Peter Hairston, clerk; Bill Markham, sheriff; Haywood Weeks and Bill Jarrel, deputies; Louis Skinner, bailiff; and Herbert Taylor, recorder.

The facts in the case were pre-arranged in the class of Dr. R. H. Wettach. The happenings occurred thusly:

Clark asked Parker for a notebook in which there was a check for 15 dollars; Parker refused to lend Clark the book, and the latter seized the book. Parker resisted and threw it out the window.

In class, Dr. Wettach called on Parker to read from the book, and Parker stated that Clark had stolen it. Both the students returned to the scene of the skirmish, and the notebook had disappeared.

It is not known what specific charges will be preferred against Clark. The trial is sponsored by Phi Delta Phi, legal fraternity.

DR. E. E. ERICSON TALKS ON CROWDS

Says True Leadership Can Be Developed Only by Preservation of Personal Integrity.

Dr. E. E. Ericson spoke on the "Pressure of the Crowd" before an assembly of sophomores and guests yesterday at the regular weekly meeting of the class.

The first aspect of the situation handled by Dr. Ericson was the physical crowd such as the masses at the pep rallies last week. He said that if an individual could get 15 feet from the scene of the action, he would be astounded at what he was doing, and would certainly not do them as an individual.

Personal Integrity

"True leadership can be developed only by the preservation of personal integrity," said Dr. Ericson, "and at the age of 50 or 60 years a man first realizes that he has sold out—given all."

"If I could start again at 20 years of age, I should care less for ordinary reward and position. I would get a job through which I could make a living, such as that of a mechanic or salesman, where I would not be accountable for my opinions. Then I certainly could have preserved more of myself than I have been able to."

Dr. Ericson encouraged his listeners to look on President Roosevelt as an example. If Roosevelt had announced such ideas as the NRA in pre-election times, said Ericson, he probably would not have been elected, but since then he has challenged public opinion, and the public has followed, and he is successful.

UNIVERSITY CLUB TO MAKE PLANS FOR FROSH GAME

Demonstration to Take Place at Assembly Tomorrow in Preparation for Duke Game.

Members of the University club will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in 215 Graham Memorial to discuss plans for a pep meeting tomorrow.

The demonstration will take place tomorrow morning at freshman assembly, and will center around the Duke freshman game tomorrow afternoon.

To Discuss Virginia Game
In addition to discussing plans for tomorrow's rally, the club will also consider arrangements for a convocation Wednesday night in Memorial hall in preparation for the Carolina-Virginia game Thursday. It is hoped that members of the teams of 1922 and 1929 will be on hand at the demonstration.

The club has had under consideration a plan to supply those seated in the Carolina section at the game with colored cards to be used in connection with cheers, but the expense would be too great for one game and the plan was dropped.

There have been printed 5,000 copies of Kay Kyser's spirit songs, and these will be sold at the game Thursday by members of the club.

STEIN IMPROVING

Dr. Finklestein of Duke hospital reported to the DAILY TAR HEEL last night that Arthur Stein, who was accidentally hurt at the Duke-Carolina game Saturday, was improving steadily. He was able to move around yesterday, and although there was no infection or signs of danger, it was thought best to keep him at the hospital under supervision for two more days. He will be back in Chapel Hill about the last of the week.
