OLSEN DISCUSSES ART OF DEBATING

Speaker at Freshman Assembly Declares Discussion Among Students Instructive.

"Unless there is plenty of discussion among the students at an institution there is something wrong with the method of education," stated William A. Olsen of the English department and faculty adviser of the University debate council, in freshman assembly yesterday.

Professor Olsen stated that it was necessary that students get more out of discussions. Illustrating his talk with humorous stories, Olsen spoke of the types of individuals who ruin discussions.

Base Argument on Reasons

"In backing up your reasons for your stand in an argument," continued Olsen, "don't find reasons for your position after taking your stand on an argument, but base your stand on your reasons."

"Another thing to look out for in discussing any question, is to define and know exactly what you are talking about, and if we need one thing in our discussions today, it's a scientific attitude in our speaking of the probable."

Various Undesirables

Olsen named the pugilists, individuals who center everything around themselves, "gushers," "flaw hawks," wind bags, people too precise, individuals who cite things from newspapers, persons without a sense of tact, lovers of dominating the conversation, individuals who get the subject off the track, and fellows who center the talk around themselves as people to be avoided when discussing problems. He gave humorous examples of what ought to be done to each of these types.

"Debating is just organized discussion," stated Olsen in conclusion. He finished up with a discussion of the organization of the University debate council, and invited all interested students to take part in the council's work.

Harry F. Comer presided at the session, and Phil Hammer, of the sophomore "Y" council, led the devotional exercises.

PHI FROSH LOSE TO DI DEBATERS

Literary Society Freshmen Contest in Debating Meet Which Di Wins Unanimously.

The Dialectic freshman debating team, composed of John Kendrick and Phillip Kind, won a unanimous decision over Frank McGlinn and R. D. Baxley, Philanthropic freshmen debaters, in the Di-Phi freshman debate contest held in Gerrard hall last night.

The subject of the contest was: Resolved: That the Negro should be allowed to enter state supported professional schools in North Carolina. The Di debated the negative, the Phi the affirmative.

The debate was delayed for about a half an hour because of the late arrival of one of the judges. These judges were Guy B. Johnson, C. B. Robson, and Colonel Campbell.

The talent shown in this debate gives promise of good material for the University debate squad in the future. The Di has already entered negotiations with several neighboring colleges for an intercollegiate contest for their freshman debaters.

STUDENT LOANS SHOW INCREASE

Four Hundred and Ninety-Nine Loans to 354 University Students Total $32,183.50.

Four hundred and ninety-nine loans, extended to 354 individuals, and totaling $32,183.50 have been granted to University students this quarter, according to a report given yesterday from the office of the dean of students.

These loans have been extended to students who would have had to leave school if financial aid from the University had not been available.

Higher Than Last Year

This amount is considerably higher than that which was loaned during the fall quarter last year. Last fall $25,568.22 was extended to 424 individual students, a difference of $6,615.28 from this year.

Additional burdens have been thrown on the student loan funds this year because of the discontinuation of extending the free tuition, known as "state scholarships."

Additional money is in sight for extending loans during the winter quarter. Students desiring to obtain financial aid from the University are asked to make application in the office of the dean of students as soon as possible.

Summons Served On Tar Heel Men

The DAILY TAR HEEL, Claiborn Carr and Jim Daniels have been named as defendants in suit for libel being brought by Frank Clark through his attorneys, Anglin and Marshall in an attempt to obtain $5,000 damages.

The cause of the action was an article in yesterday's issue of this paper, in which the plaintiff alleges, was printed "libelous and defamatory matter" accusing him of evading the serving of summons for the suit in which Frank Parker had named him as defendant.

The statements at which offense was taken were the following: "Intensive search by sheriff and deputies still fails to reveal hideout of felon, Clark." "It is even rumored that wretched childhood fled like Little Eva across the river, pursued by baying hounds."

(The plaintiff contends that the use of the word felon to describe an accused not yet proved guilty by law and the comparison with Little Eva are libelous and defamatory).

The complaint also avers that "by means of said publication of this false, malicious and defamatory matter the plaintiff was injured in his reputation and damaged in his good name and good character and did thereby suffer such great mental anguish and humiliation to the extent of $5,000. For which he respectfully demands judgment."

The summons in this suit was served yesterday in the office of the DAILY TAR HEEL by High Sheriff Markham assisted and supported by Deputy Haywood Weeks.

The law firm of Shepherd and Anderson will probably be retained as counsel for the defendants. This trial is sponsored by Phi Delta Phi.
