

SOPH SECRETARY WILL BE NAMED IN RUN-OFF VOTE

Phillips Russell Leads Vote with 96; Bill Yandell Receives 85 To Qualify for Run-off.

GROUP TO MEET TOMORROW

When the votes of the sophomore election for secretary were counted yesterday, the results indicated that no one man had a majority of the class' votes, and therefore the class was still without a secretary today.

A run-off election will take place at the discretion of Morty Ellisburg, president of the class, between Phillips Russell and Billy Yandell, the two leaders in the voting.

Vote Results

Russell received 96 votes, Yandell 85, Hugh Primrose 42, and Simpson Parker 25. Parker and Primrose are definitely out of the race. Two hundred and forty-eight members of the class, about half of the second year enrollment, cast ballots.

Invisible Man Admits Stealing Carolina's Ram

The Invisible Man paid his respects to Chapel Hill yesterday. Interviewed by a DAILY TAR HEEL staff member, the unique creature proved to be a perfect gentleman and a darn good guy. "I'm the sort of fellow," he explained, "who is always getting in wrong. For example, when I swiped Rameses III, the whole University club came within an ace of catching me. I only eluded them by dashing down to Charlotte and spending the evening with David Clark."

The unseen one meant no harm, but panic accompanied the spreading of the news of his arrival. Comptroller Woolen looked mighty blue and chewed on his cigar almost as viciously as he did during the budget-slashing activity of Bowie and Cherry last March.

Campus Gets Panicky

Benny Carr, Chuck Collins and Agnew Bahnon ordered an all-American guard to remain with George Barclay indefinitely. Professor Koch heard of the Invisible Man's entrance, smoothed his locks, assumed a dreamy pose, and cackled, "There, boys and girls, is a little of the stuff dreams are made of."

The Invisible Man continued to make startling revelations to the interviewer. "Oh, yes," he admitted, flicking the ash off his cigarette which remained suspended near Davie Poplar, apparently unsupported, "I was the one who made that Greensboro editorial writer throw that ball over the goal in the Yackety-Buc-Tar-Mag game. Cute little joke, wasn't it?"

"I could go on like this indefinitely," he remarked, "but what would be the use of it? The main thing that you're interested in is..." (Continued on last page)

GROUP WILL GIVE NATIVITY DRAMA

Fourteen in Old Play to Be Presented Under Auspices of German Department.

Under the auspices of the German department, students, townfolk, and faculty members will take part in a nativity play on the stage of the Playmaker theatre Sunday afternoon.

These nativity plays, according to Dr. Spann of the German department who is directing the play, are the earliest form of dramatic efforts to appear in Europe. The play which will be presented was first produced in the 15th century and consists of three scenes, first, Joseph Maria in Bethlehem searching for a lodging, second, angels announcing the birth of Christ, and last, shepherds, and angels worshipping before the newly born Christ in the manger.

The cast is holding daily practices at the home of Mrs. Murchison. Fourteen people will take parts in the performance including Mrs. Murchison, Mrs. MacKinney, Mrs. Mackie, W. M. Terry, E. B. Lyon, Herbert Hazelman, Miss Honeycutt, E. Clark, Dr. Urban T. Holmes, Dr. W. L. Wiley, Dr. Meno Spann, Beverly Thurman, and Andrew Mahler.

Since most of the play is of a musical nature it was necessary to get the best vocal talent in Chapel Hill for the performance. Another interesting feature concerning the nature of the play, is that it contains, in its adapted form, all the famous Christmas songs of the nations beginning with those of the 14th century.
