

FORTY DIRECTORS WILL MEET HERE TO CONFER TODAY

Varied Discussions on Playwriting, Acting, Stagecraft, and Costuming Are Features.

TO BE PRESENT AT REVELS

Forty directors have already signified their intention to attend the meeting of the board of directors of the Carolina Dramatic association to be held here today at the Playmakers theatre.

Addresses by the state's foremost dramatic directors, discussions on playwriting, acting, stagecraft and costuming, and presentations of plays, folk ballads, and country dances will be featured.

The meeting will open at 10:00 o'clock and the chief address of the morning will be given by Dr. C. R. Hill of High Point College.

Luncheon will be served by the women of the Episcopal church in the parish house.

Play Will Be Given

The afternoon session will be opened when a cast from Shaw University presents Wilbur Stout's "In Dixon's Kitchen," a comedy of the interrupted love affairs of a country lad and lassie. Following that, the Little Theatre workshop of Charlotte will present "Little Prison."

The climaxing number of the meeting will be an extemporaneous melodrama, "Lips that Touch Liquor Shall Never Touch Mine," spontaneously presented by directors who have been furnished with only a brief outline of the plot.

At 8:30 o'clock the Playmakers will have their Twelfth Night revels, to which entertainment the directors are invited.

ODUM RELEASES SOCIAL MAGAZINE

Large Number of University Contributors to January Issue of Publication.

The January issue of Social Forces, sociological periodical compiled by the sociology department of the University, made its appearance during the Christmas holidays. This issue is especially interesting because of the number of articles bearing directly on national and international problems of today.

Probably of most interest to the student body and faculty of the University is an article by Dr. G. T. Schwenning of the school of commerce on "European Dismissal Wage Plan." Schwenning has spent considerable time in Europe carrying on research on this topic, and the information contained in his article forms an excellent discourse on the subject.

Dr. Howard W. Odum, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science and head of the department of sociology, is the editor of the magazine, now in its twelfth volume. Odum started the publication in 1922. Miss Katherine Jocher, also of the Institute for Research in Social Science, is managing editor.

Other articles in this number include "Social Science and History Teaching in Hitler's Germany" by Oron James Hale of the University of Virginia; "Decline of Jewish Population Density in Europe" by U. Z. Engel

ALUMNI CONVENE DURING HOLIDAYS

Graduate Groups Hold Meetings in Five Cities in State.

Carolina alumni meetings were held in Asheville, Shelby, Lenoir, Lexington, and Lincoln during the holidays, it was reported from the office of the secretary of the alumni association yesterday.

Robert B. House, University executive secretary, and J. Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary, featured in the programs of the meetings in Asheville, Shelby, and Lenoir. Dean W. C. Jackson spoke at the Lexington meeting.

Organizing the first local Greater University alumni association, alumni in Davidson county from Carolina, State, and the Woman's College, met at Lexington and elected officers. The president was a Carolina alumnus; first vice-president, from State; second vice-president, from Carolina; and two other officers, from the Woman's College.

University alumni from Lincoln county met December 23 at Lincolnton. High school seniors were entertained by the group, and the program was made up of talks by local men.

OVER 150 ENROLL IN HOSPITAL PLAN

University Staff Members Still Can Enter Association; Project Is Working Well.

Members of the University staff still have the opportunity to enlist in the Hospital Care association by making application in the president's office, it was announced yesterday by R. B. House, executive secretary.

The hospital plan is now successfully operating with over 150 University members enrolled.

Under Direction of Snyder

The plan is operating under the direction of Dwight Snyder, secretary of the association. Members in the group are assured hospital services for themselves and members of their families upon payment of a regular fee.

The dues for the organization range from $12 a year for a single man or woman to $36 a year for a man with a wife and five or more children. Although this plan does not cover physicians' and surgeons' fees, it covers the usual hospital costs for a maximum of 30 days a year for each member of the family.

Several local cases have already been tended under the association plan. The first maternity case was tended when Edna Ann Woodard, daughter of Marvin E. Woodard at the alumni office, was born.

BARNETT LEAVES FOR RHODES COMPETITION

Robert W. Barnett, one of the contestants from North Carolina for the Rhodes scholarships, left Chapel Hill yesterday for Atlanta, where he will meet 11 other contestants for the scholarships.

From these 12 men, four will be chosen from this district to be sent to study at Oxford on funds supplied by the Rhodes scholarship committee. Bob Lassiter, captain of last year's Yale football team and a resident of Charlotte, is the other representative from the state.

FRESHMEN URGED TO RENEW STUDY

Dean Bradshaw Recommends Serious Application to Studies During Winter Quarter.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw, in an address to the freshman class during the regular chapel period yesterday morning, made a plea to the members of the class to begin the new quarter's work immediately.

After extending New Year's greetings to the class, Dean Bradshaw told of the experiences of the board of faculty members which decide whether a student who has not passed the required amount of work is eligible to return to the University for the next quarter.

Pitiful Alibis

When a student is summoned before the board, Dean Bradshaw stated, some of the alibis offered are rather pitiful, such as: sinus trouble, girl-sick, under unusual mental stress, financial worries; sick, but did not go to the infirmary, and many others of a trivial nature.

Dean Bradshaw urged all members of the class not to be summoned before the board on account of the mutual agony that would be spared both the student and the board.

"Do not shoot for one 'D,' but for a real, self-satisfying quarter's work, and you will not have to worry. Take charge of yourself and start to go somewhere under your own steam for the sake of your life and career 20 years from now. Select a line of education, then go after it," he said.

Sons Of Persian Baron Decorate Dormitory Room In Native Manner

Brothers from Tabriz, Enrolled as Freshmen, Plan to Study Engineering and Medicine; Received Preliminary Training in Persian Schools and in American Junior College in Tabriz.

The janitor of Lewis dormitory gaped when he opened the door to a third-floor room. Instead of the barren atmosphere or be-bannered surroundings generally found in students' rooms, he beheld a chamber unlike any he had ever seen. A rich silk drape extended over the doorway; each of the closets were covered with similar material; the radiator was completely concealed by a beautifully colored runner; and the walls were adorned with equally handsome tapestries and hangings.

This exotic habitat is that of two Persian brothers who have recently enrolled as freshmen at the University. The decorations and adornments of their room they brought with them from their native city of Tabriz which they left many months ago to continue their studies in this country. Abul Hassan Khan Fetoohy is planning to study medicine, while his brother Abul Foyl Khan Fetoohy is taking up electrical engineering.

Thoroughly Trained

They received their previous training at elementary Persian schools and at an American junior college in Tabriz. Here they met P. L. Irwin, who graduated from this University in 1926. Teaching mathematics and English at the American school, he became interested in the brothers and when they began to think of foreign study he naturally suggested his alma mater. An older brother of theirs is now studying at Purdue. Their

THREE LECTURES ANNOUNCED HERE

Homer Saint-Gaudens to Deliver Lecture January 23.

Announcement was made yesterday by Dr. J. P. Harland of three lectures to be given during this month. One of the lectures will be on the student entertainment program.

Grant LaFarge will lecture January 11 in Hill Music hall on "Modern Architecture." His lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides.

Julien Bryan will speak in Memorial hall at 8:30 o'clock January 18. His lecture, "Russia As It Is Today," is sponsored by the student entertainment committee, of which Dr. Harland is chairman.

Homer Saint-Gaudens will speak in Hill Music hall January 23 at 8:30 o'clock on his father, the celebrated sculptor.

CAMPUS PLAYERS TO HOLD REVELS

Farnworth Will Officiate over Presentations; Twelfth Night Scene Will Be Played.

The Twelfth Night revels, annual capers of the Playmakers, will be presented tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Playmaker theatre. Nat Farnworth will officiate as master of ceremonies, and the Playmaker Imp will aid the impresario in making the occasion enjoyable.

The capers will open as usual with a scene from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" with an all-faculty cast headed by Urban Holmes.

Sword Dance

The production of "St. George and the Dragon" will be replaced by an adaption of a "Sword Dance and Mummer's Play" by Richard Chase and Charles Lloyd. The cast will be composed of residents of Carrboro.

Another high-light of the program will be the burlesques of important campus presentations of the fall including those of Madame Hammer and her troupe and of Ted Shawn's dancers.

Dancing will be enjoyed on the stage after the program. All old and new Playmakers are invited to attend the revels.

Bill Allsbrook and his Carolina Club orchestra will furnish music for the occasion.

FIRST BUCCANEER TO BE DEDICATED TO CO-EDS

The first issue of the Buccaneer for the winter quarter will be distributed about January 22, Editor Ivey stated yesterday. The number will be dedicated to the co-eds.

Members of the staff and other students wishing to contribute material for the issue are urged to hand in copy immediately. Monday has been set as deadline.

Long List Listless

The following students were confined to the University infirmary yesterday: M. O. Blount, Clayton Brantly, J. H. Eddleman, W. E. London, R. G. McPherson, D. L. McMichael, H. S. McKay, A. C. Mathews, Melvin Nelson, Max Novich, Paul Rockwell, F. W. Smith, George Vick.

E. Carrington Smith Says Pressing Club Is Complying with Blue Eagle Requirements.

THREE MORE EMPLOYED

Point of Controversy Involves Violation of Cleaners and Dyers Competition Code.

Employing an extra presser and two more self-help students, the newly-formed student cooperative cleaners association is making fine progress with steady membership coming in from the University students and officials, it was announced yesterday by officers in the organization.

According to heads of the group more business is coming in than was predicted at first.

No Violation of NRA

The student cleaners business is not violating NRA codes, it was announced by officials again yesterday, after consulting with E. Carrington Smith, head of the local NRA. The only point of controversy about the subject of violation is with the cleaners and dyers codes for fair competition.

The rumor arose Thursday that the student group was violating rules when C. B. Roberts, chairman of the administrative board of the sixth North Carolina trade area, stated that the association was operating contrary to cleaners' codes. Roberts is also of Scott and Roberts Dry Cleaners of Durham.

The student cleaners group is a non-profit organization operating for the good of the University students. Its finances are audited by the Student Audit

GRADUATES HEAR TWO ADDRESSES

Motion Is Passed to Require Graduates to Pay Fee for Appointments.

The Edwin Greenlaw Graduate club held a meeting last night in the Smith building at which Dr. Edgar Knight and Dean W. W. Pierson gave the addresses.

Both speakers discussed changes in curriculum. Dr. Knight, who has spent some time in investigating curricula of colleges and universities in various parts of the country, discussed the changes in regard to undergraduate institutions.

Dean Pierson analyzed graduate curricula and evaluated proposals for change in his discussion of the subject in regard to graduate schools.

A special committee appointed by President Cameron made a report on the Appointments bureau of the Graduate office and made a recommendation that students registering with the bureau be required to pay a fee of one dollar and 50 cents. The recommendation was passed in the form of a motion.

After the business meeting, a social hour was held in the lounge.

LAW PROFESSORS CONVENE

M. T. Van Hecke, M. S. Breckenridge, and F. B. McCall represented the University at the meeting of the Association of American Law schools which was held in Chicago during the holidays.

Dean Van Hecke presided over the round table on library problems.
