

NOTED LECTURER TO LINK PACIFIC CRISIS WITH NRA

Upton Close, Famous Globe Trotter, Will Lecture Tomorrow Night in Hill Music Hall.

TOURS ASIA EVERY YEAR

Upton Close, "Interpreter of Asia," will speak tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in Hill music hall under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A. His topic will be "What the Pacific Crisis Will Mean to the New Deal."

Born Josef Washington Hall, "Upton Close" went to China after being graduated in Washington, D. C., to do editorial work on a vernacular mission magazine. Called upon during the World War to aid the American government in an investigation into Japanese penetration of China, he once signed a telegram "Up Close" to signify his position. American newspapers picked this up as a by-line, and it evolved into "Upton Close."

Edits Peking Daily

From counsellor to the student revolution (1919), Close became editor of the Peking Daily, descended from the world's oldest newspaper (875 A. D.). He did relief work in the famine of 1920, and went to Kansu at the news of the earthquake which buried 200,000 persons.

Close's American career began with the courses on Pacific Asian life, literature, and politics at the University of Washington. His experiences caused him to be much desired as a lecturer, and by 1925 he had done four transcontinental tours, meanwhile publishing

ANNUAL FESTIVAL PLANS UNDER WAY

Program Proper Will Last But One Day; Arts and Crafts Exhibits to Be Three Days.

Elaborate plans are in the making for Chapel Hill's second annual Dogwood Festival. Since the fine response to last year's event, the sponsors are going to enlarge the program this year.

The purpose of the festival is to give expression to the life of the people of the state by means of music, drama dancing, games, arts and crafts exhibits, garden and floral displays, and other activities considered germane to a people's festival, and to create widespread sentiment for the preservation and culture of native dogwood.

Will Last One Day

The festival proper will occupy only one day, April 14, but the arts and crafts exhibits, which will be one of the principal features, will be open in Graham Memorial April 13, 14, and 15.

Cooperating with the Festival committee, the North Carolina club, state association of garden clubs, will hold its annual meeting here April 14, the day of the Dogwood events.

Awards will be made for the best exhibits in all classifications and for the various contest winners. The contests will include a dogwood photograph contest and a dogwood poem contest.

SHOP TO REWARD FEMALE ARTISTRY

Little Shop to Present Passes to Women in Unique Contest.

The Little Shop is offering a contest, open to any female reader of the DAILY TAR HEEL. The rules are as follows:

Elsewhere in today's issue of the paper, there will be found the advertisement of the Little Shop. In this advertisement, there is a picture of Janet Gaynor, who appears in the Fox film "Carolina," to be shown at the Carolina theatre Thursday and Friday of this week. The contest is to color Miss Gaynor's dress in the most effective and neatest manner, and submit it to the Little Shop by Wednesday, January 31.

The first prize winner will receive a week's pass to the Carolina theatre, and the second prize is a three day pass.

In the window decoration of the Little Shop is exhibited a wedding gown, which is authentic of the period of which "Carolina" was filmed. The dress is the property of Miss Bessie Thompson of Leesburg, and was the wedding dress of her mother.

DI SENATE WILL HAVE IMPORTANT DEBATE TUESDAY

Bills Include Discussion of Entertainment Program.

The Di senate has three timely campus problems on its calendar for discussion at the meeting to be held Tuesday night.

The first bill that will receive consideration is: Resolved: That the student entertainment programs should have more emphasis placed upon pure entertainment than upon cultural advancement. This bill is one that was held over from the last meeting because of a shortage of time.

Entertainment Discontent

As there seemed to be a great deal of discontent among the student body at large concerning the entertainment series last quarter, the freshman executive committee decided to attempt to see what could be done toward making these programs more popular in the future. It is at the request of this group that this question is being discussed in the senate. Every member is urged to come prepared to express an opinion on the matter.

Another bill to be discussed is: Resolved: That the Publications Union board has the authority to create scholarship funds for use only by members of the publications' staffs from money which has been contributed by the student body at large.

The last bill on the calendar is: Resolved: That it is desirable that females should be allowed to continue to occupy Graham dormitory.

DEBATE TRY-OUTS SET FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

Try-outs for the University debate with Wake Forest College Saturday will take place tomorrow evening at 9:00 o'clock in 209 Graham Memorial.

The University team will take the affirmative side of the question: Resolved: That the powers of the executive be increased. At the try-outs, a statement of the issues will be required of each speaker. There will be a five-minute time limit on each speech.

GREEN TO SPEAK ON MOVIE DRAMA

Famous Playwright Will Appear On Playmakers Series of Readings Tonight.

The Carolina Playmakers will present Paul Green, famous playwright, this evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Playmaker theatre in the January number of their series of monthly play readings. Green will talk on "Drama and the Movies."

The playwright attended this University, and all of his early plays were presented on the Playmakers' first stage in the Chapel Hill high school. He also wrote the comedy, "Quare Medicine" for the opening of the present Playmaker theatre.

This comedy with "The Last of the Loweries" and "Fixin's" are published in the Carolina Playbook. His other plays appear in a separate book, "The Lord's Will and Five Other Carolina Plays."

Green won the Pulitzer drama prize in 1927 with his Negro play, "In Abraham's Bosom." Since then he has been declared one of America's most promising young playwrights.

For the past several months, Green has been writing scenarios for the moving pictures. His scripts include "Cabin in the Cotton," "Voltaire," "Doctor Bull," "State Fair," and "Carolina." He will illustrate his talk with readings from all of these scripts.

The Playmakers invite everyone to attend the lecture.

Individuality Is Keynote In Plan Of Education Used At Colgate

Under Preceptorial System Student Finds Himself Regarded as Individual, with His Abilities, Interests, Purposes And Potentialities Analyzed and Directed.

(Editor's Note: This is the second article on the Colgate Plan. It is submitted by the editor of the Colgate student publication. The Daily Tar Heel urges students to read the explanation carefully and respond with any suggestions which University officials might use in their contemplated curriculum changes. The Daily Tar Heel will gladly print any and all of the communications received on this important question.)

By Merrill C. Phillips
Editor, Colgate Maroon

Before presenting an individual impression of the Colgate Plan, it is only natural that the reader be given some inkling of its organization and functions.

Quite briefly, the plan has been in the process of development for the past seven or eight years, and embraces many of the best advances in modern educational experimentation. Its two principal features are the survey courses and the preceptorial system. Concerning the first, suffice it to say that the Colgate curriculum has been divided into six schools with a survey course in each one except that of languages. These schools are physical sciences, biological sciences, social sciences, philosophy and religion, fine arts, and languages. Each undergraduate is required to take the survey courses and, with the exception of the one in fine arts, all are taken in the freshman year. At the end of the first year the student is in a position to choose his field of concentration. In the sophomore year he takes six to nine hours throughout the year in his school of concentration, and in the junior and senior years he takes from six to

NEW P. U. BOARD TO MEET TONIGHT

Group Will Have First Meeting Since Appointment of New Faculty Representatives.

The first meeting of the Publications Union board with its new faculty representatives will take place tonight at 7:00 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

An election of a treasurer will be among the important items of business that will come before the board. J. M. Lear, former treasurer, is at present acting as non-voting adviser since the succession of his position and that of Professor Phillips Russell as members of the board by Professor Milton Heath and Harry Russell, the new faculty appointments.

To Act on Awards

The group will take action on the recently rejected publications scholarships which it created before Christmas and which were declared unjustified by the student activities committee. It is expected that the board will act in accordance with the committee's recommendation and withdraw the awards.

Another matter that will possibly be discussed is the advisability of the board entering the student audit system. A proposal to become full members of the system was voted down last quarter, but is expected that with the matter of the election of a new treasurer, the audit question will again present itself.

Y CABINETS WILL HEAR SCIENTISTS

Groves and Brooks to Talk on "Sex and Mental Hygiene."

Dr. E. R. Groves and Dr. L. M. Brooks of the department of sociology will address the freshman and sophomore cabinets of the Y. M. C. A. on "Sex and Mental Hygiene," tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock.

Both members of the sociology department are recognized as authorities in their field, Dr. Brooks having written many books on the subject. At this lecture questions of both a general and personal nature will be welcomed by the lecturers.

For the freshmen and sophomores who are not able to take advantage of the course given by Dr. Groves on the family, these lectures offer an excellent opportunity to obtain some of his material on the sex question.

A continuation of these lectures will be given the following Monday night by the same speakers. Members of the cabinets are urged to bring any of their friends to these lectures who may care to attend.

MANAGER SYSTEM TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEETING HERE

Wager and Newsom Will Lead Program of N. C. Club.

The meeting of the North Carolina club tomorrow night at 7:30 in the library room of the rural social economics department, will be conducted jointly by Dr. P. W. Wager of the University faculty, and D. W. Newsom, county manager of Durham.

Dr. Wager will open the meeting by tracing the development of the county manager plan of government, and then D. W. Newsom is going to tell of the experiences of Durham county under the county manager plan.

Only County Manager

Newsom is the only county manager in this state, and one of the three county managers in the United States, the other two being in Arlington county, Virginia, and San Mateo county in California. Some counties in this state have made the chairman of the county board of commissioners a county manager in name, but he does not have the authority and power of a regular county manager; he is not recognized by the International Association of City Managers. There are seventeen city managers in this state, but only one county manager.

This is part of the general topic for the year of the North Carolina club. "What Next in Government in North Carolina."

Y CABINET WILL HEAR REPORT OF DELEGATE

The senior Y. M. C. A. cabinet meeting tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock will deal with the affairs concerning the Y. M. C. A. program. Sam Gentry, delegate to the convention of the Students of Politics in Washington during the Christmas holidays, will submit his report on the convention. The devotional program will be in charge of Lee Hauser.

EDITORIAL BOARD

There will be a meeting of the editorial board of the DAILY TAR HEEL tomorrow night at 7:00 o'clock. All members should be present.

GERMAN EXHIBIT OF GRAPHIC ART NOW ON DISPLAY

Students Invited to Vote on Favorite Picture, Later to Be Presented to University.

PICTURES IN MUSIC HALL

An exhibition of modern German graphic art is being held in the lobby and on the second floor of the Hill music hall beginning yesterday and ending Friday, February 2.

Students at the University are invited to vote on their favorite picture, which will later be presented to the University by the foundation presenting the exhibition.

There are approximately 125 original modern etchings, woodcuts, and lithographs by well-known artists, and the pictures are arranged to show the various developments in art during the past 50 years in Germany. Beginning the exhibition are several exponents of the school of "Impressionism," namely Max Lieberman, Corinth, Slevogt, and Hans Meid.

125 Original Etchings

From this the exhibition passes to the naturalistic or realistic school. In this group are studies of peasant life by Robert Sterl, a complete set of illustrations for Gerhart Hauptmann's "The Weavers" by Kaethe Kollwitz, and also her woodcuts for the series "Proletariat," and etchings for "The Peasants Revolt."

At the beginning of the 20th century, and to the present day, many different experiments along new paths were made. There developed impressionism, post-impressionism, cubism

RELATIONS CLUB TO DISCUSS WAR

"Causes of War" Will Be Chief Topic Tonight; Thompson Will Lead Discussion.

The causes of war will be the topic for discussion at the regular meeting of the International Relations club tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Graham Memorial. Carl Thompson will act as chairman.

Due to the fact that Upton Close is appearing at the University tomorrow, the subject may be shifted to center around problems in the Far East.

However, according to the president of the organization, there is one group of members which is determined to keep the discussion on war causes, and thus a war will probably arise in any case.

Other Business

The club will consider the plausibility of sending representatives to the International Relations Groups conference, sponsored by the Carnegie foundation, to be held February 21-22 at Hattisburg, Mississippi. If delegates from the local club are sent, the number will probably be five.

Other business scheduled for consideration includes a report by the correspondence secretary and a discussion of the report to be submitted by the committee on international peace.

Members of the club still extend an invitation to non-members of the group to attend the meeting as spectators or participants.
