

FRESHMAN CLASS WILL HEAR TALK BY LUCY MASON

Secretary of Consumers League
To Speak on "Effect of Code
On Labor Standards."

UPPERCLASSMEN INVITED

Miss Lucy Mason, general secretary of the National Consumers league, will speak to the freshman class this morning at a special assembly session, it was announced yesterday from the office of the dean of students.

The tentative subject announced for Miss Mason's talk is "The Effect of Codes on Labor Standards."

Sent by League

Representing the National Consumers league, which has been set up in the interest of consumers and labor standards, Miss Mason has traveled over the United States making speeches. She has been sent to the University through the consumers league.

The association's general secretary has been active in setting up various industrial codes in Washington.

Miss Mason addressed the economics seminar last night and her address to the freshmen will be her second talk here.

Upperclassmen Invited

Upperclassmen have been invited to attend the convocation but are asked to take seats in the rear of the hall. The assembly program today will take the place of the one tomorrow.

The recent assembly programs are a result of the work of a special committee recently appointed by President Nate Lipscomb to work out more interesting and instructive programs. The committee, composed of John W. Kendrick, chairman, Aileen M. Smith, J. W. Gilliam, and Billy Parker, is advised by the dean of students.

SCHOOL PROPOSED FOR POLITICIANS

Commerce Secretary Suggests
Training for Statesmanship.

Asking for the establishment of "a laboratory for leadership in public affairs" in Washington to train selected college youths for leadership, Chester H. McCall, assistant to the United States secretary of commerce, presented plans recently to the ninth annual congress of the National Student Federation which met in Washington.

McCall proposed a three month forum at the national capital bringing from 150 to 200 students interested in participating in governmental affairs from the colleges throughout the country.

The conference would be held every year during the months of January, February, and March. Delegates would be given the chance to study at first hand the principles, methods, and mechanisms of the Federal government.

Student President Approves

John Lang, who graduated from the University in 1931 and who was recently elected president of the National Federation of Students, has appointed a committee to work out details of the proposal and is placing his influence behind the plan.

The faculty of the institution would be composed of the actual executives and administrators

Takes Principal Lead in Comic Opera

Miss Cortese, professional singer, is taking the role of Princess Ida in the Gilbert-Sullivan comic opera of the same title which will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers February 2 and 3 in Memorial hall.

Radio And Concert Favorite To Appear In Playmaker Operetta

Elise Cortese Has Had Excellent
Scholastic and Professional Training.

"Magnificent voice—poise—power and volume—deep understanding of her songs and arias." Elise Cortese, young, beautiful, and ambitious is well on the way to her goal as a great singer. Rosa Ponselle is her ideal, and many of her listeners have compared her voice with that of the great diva.

Miss Cortese is a North Carolinian by birth and attended the Greenslow College for Women, where she did solo work with the glee club. After her graduation, she went to the Combs Conservatory in Philadelphia. Here she concentrated on music and graduated an accomplished pianist and well-trained singer.

Radio Singer

After her Philadelphia performance in the "Mikado," in which she played the leading role of Yum-Yum, she received a great ovation from the audience. Soon after this triumph, she signed a contract to sing over the radio on a half-hour program of her own. Later she sang over the Florida University station, and by popular demand her appearances were increased to three half-hour broadcasts a week.

As a non-professional, she has sung from the radio stations in Raleigh and Charlotte, where she is a prime favorite because of her lack of microphone fright and her knowledge of radio technique.

Oratorio audiences have heard her in the "Creation," "Elijah," "Messiah," and "The Holy City." She has sung the soprano leads in all of these great oratorios by the old masters.

Miss Cortese's attractiveness made the interviewer slightly incoherent, for it was rather difficult for said interviewer to keep his mind on his story while in

REVIVES BUREAU OF APPOINTMENTS

Graduate Club Will Charge Fee
Of $1.50 for Aid in Locating Positions.

The Edwin Greenlaw graduate club will have its annual dinner dance in the lounge of the Mary Ann Smith building Saturday evening, February 10.

Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock. Between courses the orchestra will furnish music for dancing. At 9:00 o'clock informal dancing will begin.

All graduate students are invited to be the guests of the Shirley Graves club on this occasion. Non-members may attend the dinner and dance for $2.50. The fee for the dance is $1.00. Any student desiring to make reservation should communicate with W. Turner Logan, William Harris, or Ralph M. Lyon.

Grads Take Action

The graduate club, seeing that more money was necessary to put the office in full activity, took action, expecting to restore it to its pre-depression vigor.

Prospective instructors and professors have found the Appointments bureau a great service in filling recommendations, copying and sending out sets of papers, discovering vacancies, and doing other tasks incident to getting jobs.

The bureau cannot guarantee a job to any one registering, but the office intends to discover a good many vacancies by circularizing schools and colleges over a considerable area.

Several students have already registered and more are expected as soon as the season gets underway. The extent of the activity will depend considerably on the number of registrants. Registration is not limited to those who already have completed their degrees; any student can register.

PLANS FOR RALLY TO BE DISCUSSED

University Club Has Support of Saunders in Plan to Interest
Prospective Student.

Plans for a pep demonstration preceding the Carolina-Duke basketball game Saturday night will be proposed and discussed at a meeting of the University club tonight at 7:00 o'clock in 214 Graham Memorial.

It has been suggested that the rally take place before a bon-fire, and the possibility of staging such a demonstration on the intramural athletic field will be discussed. According to tentative arrangements, students would attend the rally and then go to the Tin Can. Speakers for the occasion will be selected tonight.

Other Business

Other business to be taken up tonight includes a consideration of the three points of the report by the committee on the interesting of prospective students in the University. Action has already been taken on the two points which were passed by the club last week.

J. Maryon Saunders, general secretary of the Alumni association, has pledged his support to the movement and is making contact with important alumni groups throughout the state to pave the way for deputations to be sent by the University club.

Committee Report

Further discussion will take place on the report of the entertainment committee.

Members of the club are urged to attend the meeting, and are reminded that three consecutive unexcused absences result in the forfeit of membership.

PI BETA PHI PLEDGES

North Carolina Plan Contributes
Internal Study of Whole Consolidation Problem.

WILL APPOINT ASSISTANT

State College Will Have Assistant Administrator During Illness of Brooks.

The board of trustees of the University yesterday authorized President Frank Porter Graham to appoint a dean of administration at State College to assist Dr. E. C. Brooks, head of the school, while the latter is ill.

President Graham stated after the meeting of the board that he had not decided whom he would appoint.

Following a stroke of paralysis suffered in Washington several weeks ago, Dr. Brooks has been slowly recovering.

Making his first complete, comprehensive analysis and summary of the progress of consolidation since the act creating the Greater University of North Carolina was passed by the 1931 Legislature, President Frank Porter Graham told the Board of Trustees, assembled in Raleigh yesterday for their annual winter meeting, that there is now being worked out at the three institutions at Raleigh, Greensboro, and Chapel Hill, a type of consolidation that promises "to stand out in America as a distinctive and unique contribution in creative cooperation."

Devoting virtually all of his annual report to the progress of consolidation and indicating steps to be taken in furthering the plan, Dr. Graham emphasized the point that consolidation of the three institutions is proceeding smoothly and orderly through the hearty cooperation and participation of trustees, alumni, faculty, students and interested citizens.

N. C. Makes Contribution

In proceeding with consolidation "North Carolina has drawn upon the experiences of several states and shares many of these procedures with other states, but its distinctive contribution to the process is the enlistment of especially equipped men and women in three faculties for the further study of the inner life and needs of the three institutions as they united to serve the state," Dr. Graham asserted.

"Consolidation thus becomes not only an instrument of economics but fundamentally a process in education," he said. "We appreciate deeply the support of the board in its stand for an educational development as against any political manipulation of consolidation."

Presenting the consolidation movement in North Carolina and "the emergence of a new type of State University" against a historic background of a threefold development, Dr. Graham cited the experiences of other institutions in consolidations.

In many of the younger states and in a few of the older states, he said, the three types of institutions were from the beginning joined in one all-embracing state university on one campus. Western states furnish many examples of this procedure.

Seek Values of Both

"It is not our purpose to judge between these two developments but to search for the values of both so that we can more understand
