Work Is to Recreate Theatre of The Past for Present-Day Theatre-Goers.

LIKES COLLEGE AUDIENCES

Mae West Approves of Miss Sands' Impersonation of Ill-Famed Diamond Lil.

"It just happened," laughed Dorothy Sands. "I had no intention of leaving the stage of plays. For several years I acted in the Grand Street follies. (They are rather like your Playmaker Revels.) I used to do impersonations for them, and it was at that time I first became interested in Styles in Acting. At one time Mr. Pond, who manages Draper and Skinner, saw me, and asked me if I would tour as an impersonator. I consented, and here I am.

"My work is to recreate the theatre of the past, and to diagnose the style of the old schools of acting. In revivals, "The School for Scandal" for instance, the actors seem to be ill at ease in their parts; they do not understand the period that they are depicting. I try to act a role in exactly the same manner that the original actress did in the original production of the play, or as a famous actress would do a well-known role."

To Return to Stage

Miss Sands said that she would certainly return to the stage of plays, but that for the present she would continue her present work. "I'd be an idiot if I didn't go on. I'm getting a great kick out of this sort of acting. And it has been well received everywhere. But still when I see a good play with a great role, I just itch to do it.

"Occasionally I am accused of making fun of the past. I never do. I never burlesque. Some of my characterizations seem funny, and they are, but its just because the role, the lines, and the style of acting are out-of-date.

"It's not so difficult to decide the character that I wish to portray. I pick those that I admire personally, and those that are known to the public. They have to appeal to me or I can't do them."

Miss Sands was asked why she picked Haidee Wright for one of her characters. "Because she is an actress of the old school, and although she is not widely known, I feel that by doing her way of playing Lady Macbeth, it creates a serious note, and contrasts well with the two following impersonations: Ethel Barrymore, and

WOMAN'S COLLEGE TO HAVE SHOWING OF 'PRINCESS IDA'

Successful Playmaker Production Of Gilbert-Sullivan Opera To Play in Greensboro.

VALENTINE DAY SURPRISE

The girls at the Woman's College in Greensboro will receive a magnificent, colorful Valentine this Valentine's day in the form of the Gilbert-Sullivan opera, "Princess Ida" which the Carolina Playmakers are scheduled to present.

Because of the success of the production here last week, the officials at the Woman's College have booked it to play in Aycock auditorium on the Woman's College campus Friday, February 14. The auditorium has been the setting for many of Gilbert-Sullivan's operas which have been presented there by Grady Miller, who was the musical and choral director of the Playmakers production.

Because of the large cast and tremendous amount of costumes and scenery, a bus has been chartered to convey the members to Greensboro that night.

Harry Davis, director of the opera, announced that it would be necessary to have a rehearsal before the trip is made and requests that every member in the cast get in touch with him as soon as possible.

Playmakers' Try-outs Scheduled for Today

Instead of the group of experimental plays originally scheduled for production by the Carolina Playmakers, it has been announced that they will do Augustus Thomas' three-act play, "The Witching Barn."

This play has been selected by the Playmakers because this year marks Thomas' 75th anniversary, and is one of the first seven plays to be written about the south.

Try-outs for parts in the play, which calls for a cast of 11 men and three women, will be at 4:00 o'clock this afternoon and 7:30 o'clock tonight.

P.U. BOARD PLANS EARLY SELECTION

Appointments for Publication Positions Will Be Made Before Spring Elections.

Applications for business managers of campus publications and the managing editor and circulation manager of the DAILY TAR HEEL must be filed with the secretary of the Publications Union board Wednesday, February 31, it was announced yesterday.

Appointments to these offices will be made by the board March 8. Selections have previously been made at a meeting shortly after the date of the general campus elections.

The new system of appointments was adopted at yesterday's meeting of the board following discussion regarding a change from the former system in order to separate the selections from campus politics at election time.

The appointees, however, will not go into office immediately but will take over their new positions with the incoming editor in April. Their terms of office will be for one year.

CLUB DISCUSSES CONFERENCE MEET

University Club Members Urged To Get Cooperation from Home Town High Schools.

The chief topic of discussion at the weekly meeting of the University club last night was its plans for cooperation with the Athletic association in its Conference indoor track meet to be held at the Hill March 10th.

The members of the club were asked to write a personal letter to the principal or coach of their high school or prep school urging him to see that a good representation of their athletes were entered in this meet. To supplement these letters the club will send out a form letter to all the most important high schools in the state explaining the importance of the meet and pledging their team a hospitable reception by the club. Early action will be taken on this project since the athletes will need time to get in good shape.

To Write Alumni

The club members were urged to get in touch with their local alumni association and request them to follow the example of the Winston-Salem alumni by drawing up definite plans for the entertainment of high school and prep school students.

Plans were made to get Carolina students to attend the Duke-Carolina game next Friday night at Duke in a body. Arrangements will be made for special busses if possible, and an attempt will be made to secure tickets for a pre-sale in order to interest students in attending the game.

To Urge Interest

All members were requested to return to their dormitories and fraternity houses and impress the students with the importance of beating State this Saturday night. Plans were made to make the State team feel at home and a committee was appointed to see that the Darlington prep school team was well entertained.

BIDS FOR ENGINEERS

The deadline for the sale of bids to the Engineers' ball has been set for Tuesday, February 13. These bids are available only to those students in the school of engineering. The dance is to be held next Friday evening.

Dean D. D. Carroll of the school of commerce was home sick yesterday with a bad cold. However, he will probably be able to return to his office today or tomorrow, it was announced.

Secretary of Student Aid Committee Sends Application to Relief Administration.

MAY SOON BE AVAILABLE

State College and Woman's College Will Probably Apply to Administrator Today.

Felix A. Grisette, director of the Alumni Loyalty fund and executive secretary of the Greater University student aid committee, yesterday filed with Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, emergency relief administrator for North Carolina, an application for a student aid grant of $3,615.00 a month from now until the end of the current school year.

The application for the grant was officially approved by President Frank P. Graham and by Dr. A. T. Allen, state superintendent of public instruction. Grisette said that applications from the State College and Woman's College of the University probably would be filed with Mrs. O'Berry today.

Sum Soon Available

It is expected that this sum will be made available to the University within a very short time as a result of a recent ruling by Federal relief authorities in Washington permitting relief funds to be used to aid needy college students.

The amount of aid extended each student varies from $10 to $20 per month, with $15 as the average. Not more than 10 per cent of the student body is entitled to such aid. On this basis, 241 University students would be eligible. At least 25 per cent of the number aided, however, must be new students, which means that at least 60 new students may enter next quarter, provided $20 per month will enable them to meet necessary expenses, aided by such funds as they may be able to obtain from other sources. No student who can possibly remain in school otherwise will be eligible for this aid.

Students to Work

The student is required to work for the money he receives, the work to be done being the same general type which is ordinarily done by a self-help student. It is specified, however, that this work must not be instruction and that present self-help students must not be displaced from their jobs.

Edwin S. Lanier, self-help secretary, will be placed in charge of selecting the students who can qualify for the help and he will also pass upon all the types of work which they are to perform. It is requested, however, that students not apply until notified thru the DAILY TAR HEEL the aid is available. All deans, department heads and other administrative officers are being requested to pass on to Lanier any requests for work in their respective departments which students could perform.
