BRADWAY TO TALK HERE TONIGHT ON LEGAL AID NEED

Leader of Duke Legal Aid Clinic Is Advocate of Help for Those Who Would Otherwise Be at Great Disadvantage Before Courts.

LEADS DISCUSSION AT 7:30

Dr. John S. Bradway of the Duke legal aid clinic will lead a discussion at 7:30 o'clock in the social room on the third floor of the Alumni building on the topic "The Public Defender."

Bradway is one of the group of Southern Californians who became associated with the Duke law school several years ago at the same time Dean Justin Miller was brought there. He is one of the leaders in the country in emphasizing the need for legal aid for those who would otherwise be at a great disadvantage before the courts.

Clinic Is A Check

The legal aid clinic, as it operates at Duke and elsewhere, serves as a check on those who would exploit the humble and disadvantaged. Such clinics also serve to encourage the humanitarian aspects of the law profession itself.

Bradway's specialty in legal aid work is closely allied with social work. In this connection he published in 1929 his book, "Law and Social Work."

In addition to his thorough knowledge of the law, Bradway is possessed with a personality and administrative gift which

Thirty-Two Offices, Departments Furnish Employment For Students

Athletic Association and Buildings Department Use Most Men With Geology Department, Main Library, Extension and Law Libraries Running Next in Number Employed.

The Athletic Association and the buildings department provide positions for the greatest number of students working under the federal educational relief aid grant tendered the University, according to a tabulation made recently by the self-help committee, showing the number of individuals working in each department and office on the campus.

The nature of the projects in each department is determined by the heads of the different departments. Scholars are at work in 32 different offices and departments.

Providing jobs for 13 people, the department of geology comes next to the athletic association and the buildings department in the number of individuals employed.

Work in the geology section consists of tabulating and labeling material which has accumulated over a period of years.

Eleven Library Workers

The main University library employs 11 individuals, giving positions to the greatest number of persons next to the geology department.

Students in the library are repairing old volumes, revising bibliographies and lists, and increasing counter service in the circulation department, the reserve room, and the commerce reading room.

Organizing and repairing leaflets and books as well as doing clerical work, nine women students work in the extension library.

Seven persons are employed in both the alumni office and the chemistry department. In the office of J. Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary, the records of all the University alumni are being revised and refiled. Students given employment under the chemistry head are assisting in laboratories and performing other clerical work in the various offices.

Five individuals are provided with jobs in the law library where work is going on similar to that in the main library, students being at work carrying out clerical work, repairing and revising books.

LOCAL CCC UNIT WILL BE MOVED

Delegates from Orange and Durham County Protest Removal of Conservation Workers; Dr. Coker Is Member of Group.

A delegation of men from Durham and Orange counties appeared before the directors of the state forestry service over the week-end to protest the contemplated removal of the Durham unit of the civilian conservation corps from Durham county to Scotland county.

Dr. W. C. Coker, head of the University botany department, was among those who made up the delegation. According to his statements this action would cause an immediate end to be brought to the CCC work that has been proceeding in and around Chapel Hill for the past six months.

Now Working At Lake

The conservation crews are at present engaged in constructing a trail around the University lake. A stretch of about four miles of the total nine-mile trail has already been completed.

During the winter the workers built two roads, chiefly for fire protection, through the woods south of Kenan stadium. If the Durham CCC unit is retained, it is expected that much more work will be done on the fire-trails and in Battle park in making paths and in moving unsightly objects, such as stumps and fallen trees.

Petition Not Successful

The results of the delegation's appearance in Raleigh were not satisfactory, as the state forest heads have stated a determination to carry out the plan of transferring the camp. Those fighting for the retention of the camp in Durham have decided to send a delegation to Washington to enlist the aid of Federal officials. Steps are also being taken to secure a conference with Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus.

The Durham camp has been doing work on public property such as the State College experimental forest near Quail Roost farm and the Duke forest. The camp consists at present of about 200 men. Thousands of dollars have been invested in establishing winter quarters, and from a viewpoint of equipment, the post has been regarded as permanent.

Campus Democrats To Consider Candidates For Campus Positions At Gathering Tonight

The political situation on the campus is expected to clear up somewhat when the Campus Democrats meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall to consider nominations for campus offices.

B. C. Proctor, chairman of the party, made the following statement yesterday:

"It appears that the party has a very good chance for coming through. It needs a number of men who are willing to work and get the democratic idea behind the party over to the campus."

"While nominations will not be official until tonight, it appears certain that several men are to come up for consideration. Some of the most important I might overlook, but I shall try to give several indications of the way the wind is blowing."

Activities Committee To Discuss Revision Of Student Government

Under Proposal, Supreme Governing Power Would Be Delegated to Student Council, Subject to Students' Veto.

GROUP WILL MEET AT 6:30

Suggestions Made for Changes in Membership of Several Boards Handling Work in Activities on Campus.

A plan to put the supreme governing power of student government into the hands of the Student council, subject to action by the student body, will be submitted tonight to the Student Activities for discussion by that group.

The committee will convene at its regular quarterly dinner meeting at 6:30 o'clock in the banquet hall of Graham Memorial.

Veto For Council

The most important phase of the proposal for a "restatement and revision of the present student government organization," which the committee will discuss, is the plan to put all student activity boards under the authority of the Student council, which may veto their acts, with the proviso that any decision of the council may be appealed to the student body as final authority.

Boards over which the council would have power revocation include: the Athletic council, the Publications Union board, the Student Entertainment committee, the Debate council, the Student Audit board, the Board of

SYMPHONIC BAND TO PLAY TONIGHT

Orchestra Under Direction of Slocum to Give First Concert of Year in Hill Music Hall at 8:30 O'clock.

The University Symphonic band, under the direction of Earl A. Slocum, will give its first concert of the year in Hill Music hall tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The program will open with the Cortège from "La Reine de Saba" of Gounod, which is a dignified and majestic work, calling for full mastery of the brass instruments. Then comes the overture to "Cinderella" by Rossini, which is not so well known in this country, but which has recently been arranged for Symphonic band by Victor Grabel.

Barnett to Solo

William Barnett, a senior in the voice department, will be heard in two vocal solos; a 17th century ballad by Purcell and Sylvia by Olèy Speaks. The band accompaniments to these numbers were arranged by the instrumentation class of the music school.

The Don Quixote Suite, which follows, has four parts: (1) A Spanish Village, (2) Sancho Panza, (3) Dulcinea, and (4) Don Quixote. This suite is founded on the story of the same name by Cervantes, and of the four parts, the first three are characteristic. The fourth is somewhat descriptive, introducing the Don's warlike but sad nature. The program will close with the ever popular Victor Herbert's Favorites.

The public is cordially invited to this concert, for which there will be no admission charge.
