PLAYMAKER HEADS POSTPONE FOREST THEATRE FEATURE

Planned Production of "Hamlet" in May Is Called Off Because of Over-Crowded Schedule for Next Two Weeks.

WILL SUBSTITUTE COMEDY

The directors of the Carolina Playmakers have decided to postpone the Forest theatre production of "Hamlet," it was announced yesterday.

A cumulation of theatre activities has rendered it inadvisable to attempt so major a production of the play at present. With the Dramatic Festival and the Dogwood Festival, both of which consumed an unprecedented amount of Playmaker time, just over, with the production of the Junior Playmakers coming off Saturday, with studio productions scheduled, and with the Playmakers tour to the National Folk Festival in St. Louis taking some of the actors cast for "Hamlet" away from rehearsals for nearly two weeks, the directors feel that a production of "Hamlet" rushed through in two weeks time would be too prodigious an undertaking.

May Improve Theatre

In view of the fact the Forest theatre may, under the new set-up of the State Emergency Relief administration, be improved soon by lighting equipment and adequate seating arrangements, Professors Koch, Selden, and Davis believe that the production of "Hamlet" would be more appropriate anyway as a dedication performance for the remodeled amphitheatre.

Outdoor theatres are definitely suggested as projects under the new set-up, and the buildings and grounds committee of the University has approved plans for improvement of the Playmakers Forest theatre.

Plans for Project

Plans call for a boundary wall of native stone, stone seats following the natural slope of the theatre floor, a director's hut equipped with switchboard, permanent scientific wiring of the whole theatre, enlarged dressing rooms, and a stone colonade entrance to the theatre.

The improvement of the Forest theatre is a part of Dr. Coker's project for the improvement of Battle Park, making an appropriate entrance to the park. A path extending from the University arboretum to Battle Park would make the whole territory a large University Park.

In place of "Hamlet" the Carolina Playmakers will produce May 24, 25, and 26, in the Playmakers theatre, as the last number on their season bill the popular modern comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking," by John Emerson and Anita Loos.

To Preach Here

Dr. A. C. Reid of Wake Forest College will preach at the Baptist church here Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock.

Stamp Club To Meet

The Chapel Hill Stamp club will meet tonight in 112 New East at 7:30 o'clock.

ELECTIONS GET INTO FULL SWING

Above are two "action" pictures of the electioneering at Graham Memorial yesterday afternoon, snapped shortly after 2:00 o'clock, when the voting reached the peak of intensity. The scene at the left was taken from a window of the DAILY TAR HEEL office, and shows knots of workers looking for material on which to expend their energies. The other photo was made from the walk leading to the western entrance to the Union, and directly faces the battlefield.

Dr. George Norlin, president of the University of Colorado, delivers the first of the Weil lectures tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Gerrard hall on the subject "Nationalism in Relation to American Citizenship."

He will deliver a second and third lecture on the same subject tomorrow and Saturday. The Weil lectures are made each year on a subject relating to American citizenship.

Dr. Norlin, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Gamma Delta, and many learned and educational societies, is on the board of trustees of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching.

Author, Translator

He has translated into English and edited the works of Socrates, and is a contributor to popular and scientific publications. He is the author of "Integrity in Education and Other Papers."

Dr. Norlin received his A. B. degree at Hastings College, and since then has received a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and from Sorbonne, and an LL.D. from Colorado College and the University of Missouri.

He has been a professor of Greek in the University of Colorado since 1899, and was acting president of that university from 1918-19. He has been president since 1919.

Taft First Speaker

The University established an unendowed lectureship on American Citizenship in 1914-15. The first lecturer was the late President William Howard Taft who lectured on the subject: "The Presidency: Powers, Duties, Obligations, and Responsibilities."

Since that time this foundation, named the Weil lectures on American Citizenship, has been permanently established through the generosity of the families of Sol Weil and Henry Weil of Goldsboro.

SYMPHONIC BAND TO ENTER MUSIC FESTIVAL SUNDAY

Three Other College Bands Are Also to Participate.

The University Symphonic band, under the direction of Earl A. Slocum, of the University music department, will go to Raleigh Sunday afternoon to participate in an Eastern Carolina band festival at the Municipal auditorium.

The University band is one of four college organizations that have been invited to participate. The band will play a short program of its own and will then participate with the other bands in certain mass numbers.

The other participants, aside from the four college bands, will consist largely of the high school bands of the eastern part of the state. There will be about 20 organizations represented.

The Symphonic band now enjoys a large repertoire of standard literature that ranges from the classics to the modern. The band has been heard in one campus concert this year and during the month of May will play several lawn concerts.

Approximately 350 students from 34 high schools in all parts of the state will take part in the state high school mathematics contest tomorrow. Each school will select one paper to send to the University for final awards. Members of the mathematics faculty here will judge the papers.

SENATE DEBATES CURRICULUM PLAN

Di Stages Heated Discussion on Question of One Required Language and Alternatives for Freshman Mathematics.

The Di senate passed through one of the most heated sessions it has witnessed this year at its meeting Tuesday night in a two hour discussion of the bill, Resolved: That the curriculum of the college of liberal arts be revised so that students can take either Latin or Greek in the place of mathematics and so that only one language will be required. The bill was finally tabled for further discussion at the next meeting.

The senate from the very first resolved itself into two distinctly differing groups, the one defending the bill on the grounds that such a plan would enable the student to follow the line of study in which he felt the greatest interest and would permit him to pass more rapidly into the field in which he intends to major, the other attacking the query on the grounds that by such an action the college would be doing away with a part of the curriculum which is essential to any cultural education.

Bahnson Speaks

Before the senate entered its debate Agnew Bahnson, president of the University club, spoke on the topic, "Possible Ways of Co-operation Between the Di senate and the University club." He placed three proposals before the group which are as follows: (1) checking campus opinion on the projects of the club through discussion in the senate, (2) bringing projects up in the senate which the club can carry out, and (3) incorporating the senators as executives in the club.

At the next meeting of the group a plan of floor organization will be employed for the first time in the senate's experience. A list of the bills that will be placed before the society at this meeting will be published at an early date so that the senators may prepare speeches.
