

GARBER TO PLAY FOR LAST SERIES OF DANCES HERE

Jan Garber of Radio Fame to Come Here for German Club's Commencement Set.

FIRST APPEARANCE HERE

Jan Garber and his popular radio, recording and dance orchestra, now playing at the Trianon ballroom in Chicago, have been signed to furnish the music for the final commencement dances of the German club. The annual series of dances will be given this year in the Tin Can Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, June 7-9.

This will be the first appearance of the orchestra on this campus, but to radio listeners it is already well-known. Garber has been a regular broadcaster over the NBC network for some time and may be heard several nights each week and on Sunday afternoons over WJZ and associated stations. The orchestra has also made many popular phonograph records for the Columbia company.

Start Last Exam Day

Contrary to the usual custom of holding the finals set after commencement, there will be no interval of waiting after the final quarter ends until the series begins. The first dance has been scheduled for the day of the final examination for this quarter, Thursday, June 7.

Garber, the short, dark-haired violinist-leader, offers something

PLAYERS TO GIVE 'TOPAZE' TONIGHT

Hairston Will Play Part of Conscientious Professor; Creech Directs Performance.

With Peter Hairston playing the principal role and Walter Creech directing the performance, the French club will temporarily take over the Playmakers theatre tonight at 8:00 o'clock to offer the campus a one-act adaptation of Marcel Pagnol's "Topaze."

"Topaze" is the story of a very conscientious young professor who fed his pupils daily on old-fashioned maxims of honesty until, his scruples having caused him to lose his job, he abandoned the teaching profession for one less honorable but more remunerative.

Cast Of Play

The cast is as follows: Professor Topaze, Peter Hairston; Mlle. Ernestine, Mary Byrd Perrow; Madame la Baronne Pitart-Vergnolles, Margaret Bullitt; Mlle. Suzy Courtois, Jeanne Holt; M. le Principal, Alfred Barrett; Professeur Tamise, George Adams; Professeur Panicault, Raymond Reeves.

Among Professeur Hairston's class of "enfants terribles" are numbered the following: Bob Coker, Emerson Waller, Charles Lloyd, Robert Lewis, Abol Sasl Potuhi, Archie Henderson, Edwin Raspberry, John Edwards, Nelson Hairston, Joe Crawford, and J. I. Mizelle.

The setting of the play, a French school room, will be faithfully reproduced by Director Creech, who was an English teacher in a French school for several years before returning to the University this fall.

New Director

Harper Barnes, president of the student body, has recently been elected director of the Student Union for a two-year term by the board of directors of Graham Memorial. He will replace Wayne Albright in August.

GUILFORD CHOIR TO GIVE CONCERT HERE TOMORROW

Will Present Program at 4:00 O'clock in Hill Music Hall.

The Guilford College A Capella will give a concert here tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in Hill Music hall under the direction of Max Noah.

The choir, which sings without accompaniment, is made up of college students who have gone through a special course of preparation before being allowed to appear with the group in concert.

Making its initial appearance in 1929, the organization introduced a new feature into the musical life of the south. This will be the second appearance that it has made here, the first being last year.

The group has drawn favorable comment wherever it has sung. While on its northern tour recently, the Washington Star called its performance the "finest choral-singing heard from any visiting organization." The same paper also praised the singers for their accuracy of pitch and the sureness with which they developed the intricate harmonies.

Officials in the University music department consider Max Noah's success with the group of students to be practically a miracle, because the members of the choir before they began their training under Noah for the most part were untrained.

Two FERA Divisions On Campus Released

By an order issued by Edwin S. Lanier, self-help secretary at the University, yesterday all FERA work in the buildings department and the athletic association was discontinued. The work will be renewed at once, however.

The move was in the nature of an effort at general re-organization in these sections of the work. As a result of the order no student is eligible for further work in either of these departments until re-assigned.

Most of the positions were redistributed at a meeting of those affected in Gerrard hall yesterday afternoon. Attendance at the meeting was required if the student wanted to continue to work. The remainder of the positions will be filled immediately.

Only former workers in these departments are affected.

EDUCATORS MAP VOCATIONAL PLAN

Delegates Meeting in Groups Adopt Recommendations to Present to Conference.

A program of vocational guidance for secondary schools, state departments of education, and colleges and universities in southern states was mapped out here yesterday as the first southern conference on vocational guidance and education neared the end of its labors and adjournment which is set for today.

As the result of round-table discussions which have been in progress all week three groups adopted a series of recommendations which are pretty certain to be adopted by the conference as a whole at its final session today.

Recommendations for secondary schools urged that vocational guidance be accepted as an integral part of public education, beginning with a study of individual differences in the early grades and continuing with objective, cumulative guidance records.

Staff Functions

The recommendations set forth the functions of the various staffs in carrying out such a program. It was suggested that every member of the instructional, supervisory, or administrative staffs should be responsible for particular guidance functions but that these functions should be delegated definitely to the principal, subject teacher, and class counselor.

It was urged that local and state teachers meetings, parental education groups, and service clubs give guidance prominent places in their programs.

Other recommendations for secondary schools included

LIBRARY FRIENDS TO MEET TONIGHT

Governor Ehringhaus and President Graham at Dinner for Friends of Library Here.

Invitations have been mailed for a dinner to be given by the Friends of the library of North Carolina tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

John Sprunt Hill, president of the organization, will preside. Governor J. A. Ehringhaus, President Frank Graham, and other distinguished guests have accepted invitations to speak.

Club Officers

Officers of the organization, formed at the University two years ago, are: president, John Sprunt Hill of Durham; vice-president, Dr. Fred M. Hanes of Durham; ex-officio secretary, Robert B. Powns, University librarian; executive secretary, Mrs. Lyman A. Cotten of Chapel Hill; and treasurer, Felix A. Grisette of Chapel Hill.

The library of the University has grown rapidly during the past twenty years and now ranks among the foremost in the south.

This dinner will bring together many North Carolinians who are vitally interested in the present and future welfare of the library. The officers of the association will speak briefly and informally of their plans, and suggestions and constructive criticisms are expected from the guests.

The purpose of the society is to bring together, in an informal group, a number of persons who have shown constant interest in the growth and development of the library to its present position. The society was organized in 1932 and membership in it is open to anyone interested in the objects of the association.

Elected President

Phil Hammer, rising junior, who was elected president of the University club for the ensuing year at the weekly meeting of that group Thursday night. He replaces Agnew Bahnsen and takes office this week.

PENN PROFESSOR WILL SPEAK HERE MONDAY EVENING

National Assistant Secretary of Commerce to Give Talk.

John Dickinson, professor of law in the University of Pennsylvania and national Assistant Secretary of Commerce, will speak informally on phases of the New Deal, at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening in Bingham hall. The lecture is sponsored by the University law and commerce schools.

The talk here will follow an address on "A Federal Program of Education" before the North Carolina Conference for Social Service in Raleigh Monday afternoon.

Dickinson has for a number of years been recognized as one of the leading authorities in the United States on administrative law. His most recent achievement in the public service is a plan for the government regulation of stock exchanges. The act for that purpose now before Congress is based largely upon his recommendations. For many years he has been engaged in the practice of law and as a consultant on questions falling in the border area between law and economics.

Dickinson's lecture Monday evening is open to the public. Interested students in law, commerce, economics and government are especially invited to be present.

A.A.U.W. to Have Tea, Bridge Party Today

The American Association of University Women will have a bridge tea this afternoon for the benefit of the graduate woman's loan fund. The tea will be at President Frank Graham's house.

The bridge will begin at 3:00 o'clock and tea will be served from 4:30 until 6:00 o'clock. There will be a charge of 50 cents for the bridge and 25 cents for the tea.

The Chapel Hill branch of the association was formed in 1923, largely through the efforts of Mrs. H. W. Chase. The A. A. U. W. stands for the betterment of women's collegiate education, demanding of the colleges on its accredited list high scholarship and equal treatment for men and women of equal faculty rank.

All reservations for tables should be made through Mrs. F. W. Hanft.

FIRST MAY FROLIC DANCES ATTENDED BY LARGE NUMBER

Sheik and Minotaur Societies Will Give Banquet Tonight At Carolina Inn.

Over 400 dancers crowded the Tin Can yesterday afternoon as the May Frolic set was ushered in by a tea dance from 4:00 to 6:00 o'clock.

Noble Sissle and his orchestra, among the foremost Negro entertainers in the country, furnished the music for the opening of the annual series given by seven fraternities. Sissle's band, which numbered fifteen in its personnel, offered novelty features and two singers for the occasion.

The Tin Can was decorated in green and white, and the color scheme was carried out in alternating triangles around the sides.

Three Dances Today

An even larger crowd filled the floor last night when the second dance of the set got into full swing. Following this event, which lasted from 9:00 until 1:00 o'clock, will be the luncheon dance today from 12:00 to 2:00 o'clock at the Washington Duke hotel in Durham. The series will be concluded by another tea dance this afternoon from 4:00 to 6:00 o'clock and by a final dance from 9:00 to 12:00 o'clock tonight.

Other attractions of the weekend of May Frolics are the banquet

SOCIAL WORKERS MEET TOMORROW

Y. M. C. A. Delegation Will Attend State Conference at Raleigh Through May 1.

"The Child" will be the subject of discussion at the North Carolina Conference for Social Service which will meet in Raleigh beginning tomorrow noon and continuing through May 1.

This conference will be a gathering of all organizations for social service in the state.

A delegation is being sent from the local Y. M. C. A. headed by Harry Riggs. Any students wishing to attend and desirous of taking advantage of the offer of free lodging in Raleigh must turn their names in to the Y. M. C. A. office before noon today.

Mrs. Sanger to Speak

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, president of the National Committee on Federal Legislation for Birth Control, and a well known authority on the subject, will address the conference Tuesday afternoon. "The Child in Industry," will be the topic discussed by Major A. L. Fletcher, state commissioner of labor, on Tuesday morning.

E. R. Groves of the department of sociology, will speak to the students Sunday afternoon on "Family Life in the Modern World." A. A. Seawell, assistant Attorney General of North Carolina, will address the conference on "The Spirit of the Law" Monday morning.

The student division of the conference, of which John Acee is vice-president, will hold an open forum discussion on "An Adequate College Program on the Direction of Social Interest" Monday and Tuesday mornings.

Franklin Street Of Fifty Years Ago Presented Different Picture

Unpaved, Muddy Street of Bygone Era, with Its One-Story Wooden Buildings, Most of Them Residences, Would Be Unrecognizable to Present Carolina Students.

Franklin street. No movies, old wooden stores, and a large house where the Crescent cafeteria stands. Franklin street of about fifty years ago, unpaved and muddy.

Where the post office now stands, there was an old wooden house which served as home and office for Dr. William P. Mallett. Back of the house was a small wooden structure, the old Chapel Hill post office, where Dr. Mallett's daughter was postmistress for many years. Later the post office was moved to the building which until several weeks ago housed the Alfred William's store.

On the site where Graham Memorial now stands, once stood the Eagle hotel, built more than a hundred years ago. It was partially torn down about thirty-five years ago, and rebuilt into a more modern hotel, called the Pickard. Back of the hotel and near the street there was a two-story brick building, containing only four rooms, two downstairs and two upstairs. It was built especially for President Polk on the occasion of this great alumnus' return to the University at commencement time.

Long before Battle dormitory was built, N. G. L. Patterson erected a rival hotel on the site. Next to it was the Barbee store, owned by Seton Barbee, whose own home was where the Methodist church now stands.

On the site of the present Crescent cafeteria, was the home of the Tankersly family. It was a large house with box woods and trees on its reasonably good-sized lawn.

The Carolina theatre land once belonged to the Hargraves, and it was there that their house stood. A certain Miss Hargrave, who lived in this house, married a Mr. Kenan, and it was their son who gave the present stadium to the University.

Most of the buildings in Chapel Hill at that time were of wood, but Dr. A. A. Klutz, who came here forty-three years ago, proceeded to erect a block of brick stores which are still standing and known as the Klutz building. The bricks that were used were made down in the woods where Emerson stadium now is.

Mrs. A. A. Klutz vividly recalls the fire that destroyed an old wooden house on the south side of Franklin street. The inhabitants were fearful lest the
