

FACULTY OF LAW SCHOOL DEVISES NEW REGULATIONS

Two Rulings Affect Entrance Requirements and Extra-Curricular Activities.

GO INTO EFFECT IN 1935

Two new rulings affecting entrance requirements for law school and participation in extra curricular activities by law students have been drawn up by the faculty and administrative board of the law school, according to an announcement yesterday by Dean M. T. Van Hecke.

The first of the two regulations reads as follows: "Beginning in September, 1935, all regular applicants for admission to the law school must have received a grade of 'C' or better in at least 50 per cent of their undergraduate courses."

According to the second ruling, "Beginning at the same time, no law student shall be eligible to participate in major extra-curricular activities unless he maintains a 'B' average in his law school work."

Reasons for Rulings

In explaining the first regulation, Dean Van Hecke stated that there are three classes of students entering the law school: college graduates, candidates for combined degrees, those who have had as much as three years' work leading to an academic degree, and those entering under the old two-year requirement by virtue of the exception in the trustees' regulation."

The first two groups, Van Hecke said, are required by the

PLAYERS TO GIVE COWARD'S DRAMA

"Hay Fever" Will Be Presented By Playmakers in Memorial Hall May 24, 25, and 26.

"Hay Fever," Noel Coward's modern and fast-moving comedy, will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers May 24, 25, and 26 in Memorial hall. This will be the last production of this season's bill, and takes the place of the Forest theatre production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

The play concerns a week-end party of a temperamental and artistic English family. The father, is a novelist, the mother, a retired actress, the son, an artist, and the daughter has no profession. Each member of the family invites his opposite in character to their country home for the week-end, and the seemingly serious but amusing complications which result are farcically told by the playwright.

Coward was born in England in 1899. He was first recognized in theatre circles in 1924 with the production of "The Vortex." According to an article in Vanity Fair by Keith Winter, dramatist, "he was hailed as a heaven-sent star by the theatre, and as a nasty-minded playboy who was shaking the moral foundations of England by many conservative people. There is no one like Coward, and probably never will be. His success may be attributed mainly to the fact that he knows himself."

The playwright is known as a composer, actor, director, and producer.

Student Council Takes Jurisdiction Over After-Dance Conduct Offenses

Responsibility for the behavior of fraternity men after dances was assumed by the Student council at a meeting of fraternity presidents in Gerrard hall yesterday.

The announcement was made through an address read by Frank Abernethy, vice-president of the student body, in the absence of President Virgil Weathers.

"There has been the growing feeling that there should be one specific body to deal with the entire problem of after-dance conduct," stated Abernethy, "and the council has taken on that responsibility." The council will hear all complaints, he explained, before its weekly meetings, and at those meetings there will be an opportunity for any offender to present his defense.

"The policy of the council in the future," he said, "will be the firm supervision and regulation of the activities and conduct of fraternities, particularly on dance week-ends, in relation to the rules as set forth by the University Dance committee, the faculty committee on fraternities, the interfraternity council, or any other body whose activities are related to the conduct and activities of fraternities."

That the Student council has assumed responsibility for after-dance conduct in fraternities does not relieve them of the responsibility to better the conduct of their members, said Abernethy. Each fraternity president must impress upon his group the fact that there is a Student council regulation penalizing all disorderly conduct on the campus. The council means to enforce this regulation, he said, and it is up to the fraternities to see that their members comply with it.

SENIORS DISCUSS ORIENTATION PLAN

Advisory Committee Considers New Plan for Guidance of Incoming Freshmen.

Discussing an entirely new plan for the orientation of the first-year men, the freshman advisory committee recently appointed by Jack Pool from the membership of the rising senior class held its second meeting yesterday afternoon in Graham Memorial with Dean Bradshaw in attendance.

The new plan, which is a project of the fourth-year class, initiated by its recently elected president, has for its central idea the giving of more personal attention than has been done in the past to the members of the freshman class.

According to the measures which have already been agreed upon, the class of new men who enter next fall will be divided into groups of between 15 and 25 individuals under the personal supervision of a member of the committee.

Personal Guidance

Each group supervisor will be responsible for the members of his division throughout their first year in the University. After having taken them through orientation week, he will be consulted whenever any one of them is involved in any matter connected with loans, scholarships, illness or Student council action.

It has already been agreed that there will be three meetings of each division, two during orientation week and one sometime later in the year. These will be held at stated meeting places and will be announced beforehand.

The committee also decided yesterday that President Graham's annual reception for the incoming students will be given to smaller groups at scheduled times, and that there will be a special cheering practice sponsored by the University club in either Kenan or Emerson stadium.

For the purpose of receiving more training for its new task the advisory committee will meet several times more during the next few weeks. It will strive for a certain uniformity in the information which each member will give to his group of freshmen.

FOREIGN LEAGUE SECURES DANIELS TO SPEAK MAY 22

United States Ambassador to Mexico to Be First to Speak Under League's Auspices.

POSTPONE NEXT MEETING

It was announced yesterday by the executive committee of the Foreign Policy League that the Honorable Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico, will speak at the University next Tuesday, May 22.

The league, which was founded on the campus this quarter by a group of interested students and under whose auspices Daniels will appear, has as one of its purposes the securing of speakers prominent in world affairs to appear at the University. Mr. Daniels will be the first on the league's program to come here.

The regular meeting of the group slated to be held last night was not held due to the fact that all necessary arrangements for the Daniel's speech had been made, and the executive committee decided that no new topics should be discussed until after this event. It is hoped that a regular meeting will be held next Wednesday.

Daniels Accepts

A letter of acceptance was received from Daniels with regard to the invitation extended to him by Ralph Gardner, president of the league. Attempts are being made to hold the address at chapel period with compulsory attendance for the freshmen and with extension of half an hour of class time so that upperclassmen may feel free to attend without danger of missing regular classes.

During the past week the president and secretary of the club have sent out letters to 36 of the leading colleges of the south stating the essence of the proposal drawn up by the organization in regard to the disarmament conference to be held in Geneva May 29. Answers have been received from some of the colleges to the effect that similar moves have been organized at their institutions.

Chapel Hill Residents Recall Visit Of President Before Bank Failures

Roosevelt, Then Governor of New York, Paid Visit to Chapel Hill In 1929 and Spent Most of His Time Telling Anecdotes of His College Days and Praising Carolina Athletes.

Chapel Hillians, like townfolk in every other town in the country, enjoy reflecting and recalling to mind visits paid to them by former lesser lights who have since become famous. It is with pride that residents of Chapel Hill look back at the visit once paid them by Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States and then Governor of New York.

In the fall of 1929 Governor Roosevelt visited Chapel Hill during a southern tour. After making several speeches at Raleigh and seeing the Carolina-Tech football game there on Saturday he came to see the place Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of Navy and now ambassador to Mexico, had spoken so much about while they were both in the Navy department during the presidency of Woodrow Wilson. In the party that accompanied Roosevelt were Daniels, Dixon, editor of the News and Observer, Governor Gardner and wife, and President Few of Duke, besides several other notables. They first stopped at Kenan stadium where the present President met Coaches Collins and Cerney and members of the championship football team, whom he had expressed a special desire to meet.

Discussed Athletics

Among those he was interested in meeting was the famous "Shorty" Branch, Tar Heel hero, and Captain Farris. Athletics was the chief topic of discussion between the Governor and the athletes and students who crowded for a glimpse of him. He spoke to the team and coaches, commending the fine play exhibited the week before at Raleigh. He declined an invitation to stay for the Carolina-Georgia game the following Saturday, but told the Tar Heels that if they con-

Perlzweig spoke on the best methods to train students in professions, telling of his own experiences in the professional education work.

UNIVERSITY MEN MAY PARTICIPATE IN TOKYO SESSION

American-Japan Student Conference Will Be Held in Tokyo July 19-26 This Summer.

EXPENSES IN JAPAN PAID

The University has been invited to send delegates to the American-Japan student conference which will be held in Tokyo, Japan, July 19 to 26 this summer, it was announced yesterday from the office of the dean of students.

Invitations to attend the session were sent Francis F. Bradshaw, dean of students, by Mamiji Itabashi, delegation chairman of the convocation who is touring the United States to interest students in the coming conference.

Expenses

Delegates to the session will have to pay their way to and from Japan, but while at the conference will have all their expenses paid by the Japan Student English association. A registration fee of $15 is the only additional expense besides the cost of transportation to and from the meeting.

Students or faculty interested in attending the conference this summer should make application in the office of the dean of students.

Delegates at the conference will study individual problems concerning both nations, and will discuss various solutions to the United States-Japan situation.

Lectures will be given at the conference by Japanese professors on oriental culture, and conference delegates will take a special trip July 28 through Japan and Manchukuo. Stops during the trip will be made at Tyoto, Osaka, Nara, Hiroshima, Keijo, Mukden, Hsinking, and other centers.

Special studies to be taken up at the conference are the economics, political, educational, international and religious problems between the nations.

Round trip rates from Seattle to Yokohama range from $195 to $465.

The University committee to choose local delegates will be probably composed of President Frank Porter Graham, Robert B. House, Professor Keener Frazer, and Dean Bradshaw.

The opportunity for American students to become acquainted with Japan as well as to study the present day problems in the Pacific should be a great interest to college individuals, according to Itabashi.

Series to Be Sponsored By University Club

Lonnie Dill and Bill Anderson to Give Talks; Bill Allsbrook's Orchestra to Play.

WILL CONTINUE IN FALL

The first in a series of radio programs sponsored by the University club will be presented this afternoon over WDNC, Durham, at 4:30 o'clock.

The program, which will last an hour, will feature the music of Bill Allsbrook and his Carolina Club orchestra; talks by Lonnie Dill, editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL and by Billy Anderson, sports editor.

Dill will speak on student opinions of current affairs and problems. Anderson will give "pre-dope" on the athletic offerings for the week which include the Southern Conference track and tennis tournaments and the Duke-Carolina crucial baseball series.

Only Spring Program

Although this will be the only program sponsored by the University club this spring, the series will be continued next fall. It is probable, also, that Allsbrook will be heard in a regular weekly program over the station throughout the remainder of this term.

Frank Willingham, director of the program, announced yesterday that it is fairly certain that a special line will be run to Chapel Hill next year so that regular campus programs can be featured over the Durham station.

STATE PROVIDES 25 SCHOLARSHIPS

Students in Social Work and Public Welfare Will Receive $100 Awards for Summer.

The North Carolina emergency relief administration has provided 25 scholarships of $100 each for training in social work and public welfare in the School of Public Administration of the University of North Carolina during the summer session this year, it was announced yesterday by Dean W. C. Jackson.

The plan under which the scholarships are to be awarded requires that the recipient shall pursue the full summer quarter of work. If the required standards of work are satisfactorily met he will then be given employment by the Relief Administration.

Further Study

It is expected that after three months of work the student will return to the University for another quarter of study (on salary), this procedure to continue until the student shall have completed three quarters of study at the University. It is hoped that a plan can be worked out whereby these students can continue to alternate at the University and in the field until they have secured a certificate in social work, the master's degree.

In addition to the 25 persons to be recruited through the award of scholarships—persons who are not now in the employ of the NCERA—the North Carolina Emergency Relief Administration expects to send to the summer session of the University school of public administration 50 of its present employees.
