

UNIVERSITY CLUB HEARS PROJECTS FOR NEW FROSH

Saunders Makes Suggestions for Attracting Students; Pool Talks on Orientation.

CLUB WILL GIVE SMOKER

J. Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary, and Jack Pool, president of the rising senior class, addressed the members of the University club at the meeting of the organization last night.

Phil Hammer, president of the group, outlined the plans for the part which the organization will play in the orientation of freshmen next fall. A place has been secured during the annual freshman week for an all-student smoker to be tendered to the class by the University club.

Practical Suggestions

Saunders, in his talk, gave practical suggestions for interesting prospective students and mentioned various points which should be stressed in speaking of the University.

"Tell them," he stated, "that the University, the oldest state institution in the country, is one of the 29 members of the American Association of Universities. It is divided into schools where it is possible to form contacts as close as those which can be made in a small college, and yet, there is the atmosphere and opportunities of a great university.

"The student body is one of the foremost in the United States, as shown by its work and position in the National Student Federation. Emphasize," he continued, "your own personal reactions to the atmosphere which exists here and which defies description."

Pool spoke on the pre-college freshman retreat, of which he is chairman, and on the plan for orienting the freshmen next fall in which the members of the club will co-operate.

"Give the incoming freshmen an insight into the spirit of the honor system at the University; fire them with the enthusiasm and instill in them the respect which we feel for the University; and help them to adjust themselves to the atmosphere of the University," he advised.

Room Secured

The president announced that a special room had been secured for the organization in the student Union. A committee, consisting of Irving Suss, chairman, Gale Rogers, Frank Pierce, Walter Pijanowski, and George Hux, was appointed to make arrangements for furnishing the room. George Hux was made the caretaker for the coming year.

The room will be decorated by a series of photographs and historical pieces depicting outstanding men and events connected with the University.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the smoker scheduled for the final evening of freshman week. This committee is made up of Frank Rogers, chairman, Bill Dixon, Francis Campbell, Robert Connolly, and Charles Ivey.

J. Shull of Charlotte was elected representative to the club from the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

The final meeting for the year will take place in the regular meeting room Thursday evening, when final plans will be made to start work for the coming year.

HILL ADDRESSES LOCAL PTA UNIT

Tells of Workings of Legislature; Stresses Need for Qualified Representatives.

Talks by John Sprunt Hill, University trustee, and George Howard featured the meeting of the Chapel Hill Parent Teacher association Tuesday afternoon.

Hill spoke on the workings of the legislature in regard to education, describing the fight in the last session of the assembly on public education.

"At least 40 per cent of members of the legislature are not interested in education," said Hill, pointing out the importance of getting the right people on the state education committee.

Support Needed

Howard presented a series of charts drawn up by a committee headed by Dr. M. R. Trabue. He pointed out that local initiative, constructive educational leadership, and more adequate support of schools were especially needed today.

"Progress in education is impossible under the present set-up which aims for cheap schools rather than efficient ones," stated Howard.

Mrs. A. M. Jordan spoke expressing the appreciation of the community for the work of Professor H. F. Munch, Chapel Hill high school principal during the past year.

Mrs. Paul Green reported on the work of the health committee, telling of the clinics conducted for children and the physical examinations given pupils.

Miss Celeste Penny, high school English teacher, reported results on a three year study of students in the English courses at the University. The report showed that pupils trained in Chapel Hill high school had on the average a higher record in English at the University than the average for out of state pupils and the average for state instructed schools.

J. B. Howard spoke on the importance of public health work in schools, and L. J. Phipps, candidate for the legislature, expressed his support for education and increased salaries for teachers.

PLAYERS TO END SEASON'S BILLS

"Hay Fever," Final Production of Playmakers for Season, To Be Given Tonight.

The Carolina Playmakers this evening will present Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" in Memorial hall at 8:30 o'clock. Another performance will be given tomorrow evening at the same time.

This last performance of the Playmaker season is directed by Harry Davis.

The North Carolina Symphony orchestra, this evening under the direction of Thor Martin Johnson, tomorrow evening under the direction of Lamar Stringfield, will furnish incidental music. Compositions by Brahms, Ippolitow-Ivanow, Beethoven, and Tschaiakowsky will be featured.

Comic Week-end

"Hay Fever" is the comic dramatization of incidents which happen over a week-end in a family of artistic inclinations. An actress, rebuked by her grown children for encouraging the infatuations of callow young men; her husband, a novelist, inviting a modern flapper, purely for observational purposes, to spend the week-end in his house; the son, daring to invite an elderly woman whom his mother accuses of using sex as a shrimping net; the daughter, abandoning her own guest for her mother's callow young man, are the four extraordinary individuals who play the leading roles.

Starring in the production are Marion Tatum of Raleigh who has recently been on the road with Madame Borgny Hammer's Ibsen troupe, and Aileen Ewart of Chapel Hill who has just returned from a period of dramatic study with Repertory Playhouse associates, New York.

Infirmiry List

The following students were confined to the University infirmary yesterday: Irvin Boyle, W. T. Chichester, W. M. Daniel, Jack Goldstein, Joe Gant, L. R. Hagood, A. K. McAnally, and John Physioc.

Janitor Quakes As Corpse Suddenly Rises From Death

"Ah Wa'n't A'sceered. Ah War Jus' Acol'd," Trembling Janitor Squeaks as Death Scare Is Revealed as Hoax; Many Admire Ingenuity of Artists in Perpetrating Fearful Trick.

By John Wiggins

"Lawd! Is dat man 'sleep or daid?" gasped Janitor Tom Croker as he opened the door of room 108 of Old West dormitory. Before him lay the results of what appeared to be a murder foully plotted and foully achieved—"Dere wuz Mistuh Dave Lewis stretched out in de bed, wid a towel wropped 'round his haid an' a bloody dagguh in his heart! His face detained de expression of death!"

"He war'n't breathin', cuz Ah looked to see, an' he wuz still like a stiff. Den Ah thought: 'S'pose if'n he is daid an' dey thinks Ah done kilt him!'" Tom shouted to his fellow-janitor. In mute and mutual awe they stared.

The Dream Talks

"What's the matter, boys?" the voice of "Mistuh Dave" came from behind them and inspired new terror into their hearts. There in the hall stood the man in the bed!

"You' not Mistuh Dave!" Tom, suddenly seized with violent ague, addressed in turn the hall and the bed.

"Don't be afraid," the hall comforted. "That's just a stiff in the bed. It's cold. Go up and touch it."

"Th-that's awright. Ah can tell it's cold from here," Tom assured them. Finally, when a number of other residents of the building had gathered and he was guaranteed full "protection," the body-finder was persuaded to touch his discovery. Praised for his bravery, "I did feel kinda 'jubilous' about it though," he confessed.

"Sho wuz de spittin' image of Mistuh Dave," laughed Tom afterwards. "Ah thought maybe

SENIORS OUTLINE ORIENTING PLANS FOR COMING YEAR

Incoming Freshmen to Be Divided Into Groups with Seniors and Assistant Leaders.

WILL ADVISE DURING YEAR

Specific ideas of orientation training to be given freshmen here next year were planned by the senior committee on freshman orientation, headed by Jack Pool, yesterday at a meeting in Graham Memorial.

The committee discussed the type of advice which will be given first-year men on the honor system, athletics, scholarship, extra-curricular activities, and financial affairs.

Each member of the committee will supervise the orientation training of a group of 15 or 20 first-year men throughout freshman week and also will give them personal attention throughout the whole of next year.

Personal Interviews

The group decided to present to freshmen in a clear and concise method the honor system on the campus and decided to arrange personal interviews with members of the committee with first-year men on the matter.

The group will contact the first-year men all through next year and will give general advice to them and will help them work out their problems.

The session yesterday took the form of a discussion in which all committeemen were free to participate, and Francis F. Bradshaw, dean of students, was present as adviser to the group.

The senior committee in charge of the orientation program is composed of 30 rising seniors who will be assisted by 30 rising juniors.

Printed letters setting forth suggestions for training freshmen will be sent to all members of the committee, according to Jack Pool, chairman of the group.

There will be at least three meetings of each freshman division next year. Two will be held during freshman week and another later on in the year. A smoker by the University club will be part of the freshman week program.

Each senior adviser of these divisions will give personal attention to each member of his division and will be consulted when any one of his group is involved in matters of loans, scholarships, illness, or Student council action.

The senior advisory committee will meet several times more this quarter to strive for uniformity in the information which will be given to freshmen.

The plan for a new type of orientation program giving personal advice to each freshman is the idea of Jack Pool, president of the senior class.

Nisbet Calls Meeting

The commencement committee will meet during chapel period this morning in the "Y" lobby, it was announced by Chairman Tom Nisbet yesterday.

Turner to Take Ph.D. Oral

James Otho Turner will be given an oral examination for the degree of Ph.D. in chemistry at 7:30 o'clock tonight in 201 Venable.

Appointment Of Dr. Murchison Rests On Senate Confirmation

GRAHAM'S REPORT SENT TO ALUMNI

John Sprunt Hill Furnishes Money for Publication.

President Frank Porter Graham's report to the trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina January 31, 1934 was mailed from the University yesterday in pamphlet form to alumni and former students of the three divisions of the school. Approximately 40,000 issues of the report were mailed out through the generosity of John Sprunt Hill of Durham, University trustee.

Included in the publication is the inaugural address of Dr. Graham's delivered November 11, 1931 presented when he was inducted as the 11th president of the University.

FRENCH ELECTED TO NEW POSITION

Is Magazine Business Manager; P. U. Board Also Decides to Test U. P. Daily Service.

Butler French was selected as business manager for the Carolina Magazine at a meeting which the old Publications Union board held yesterday before turning its position over to the recently elected board.

In the meeting which the new members held immediately after the adjournment of the old board, Claude Rankin was elected president, James Morris was chosen as secretary, and Jim Daniels was made treasurer.

Six Others Apply

French, who is a member of the sophomore class, was picked as business manager over six other applicants. His remuneration was set at 20 per cent on the difference between the amount of advertising collected for and the amount which remains on the books.

The board also voted in favor of trying the United Press service for which Lonnie Dill made a request yesterday. This service will involve a 30 minute call daily between Chapel Hill and the Raleigh bureau, and will be given a trial next fall.

In regard to the DAILY TAR HEEL, it was further voted that the paper should be issued through Friday and that 300 extra copies of the last issue be given to the athletic association for mailing to a list of special students, as the association has requested.

Among the other matters to receive attention were a request by the former editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL for $20.15 to cover minor expenses incurred during the past year, and another request from a group of alumni for the permission to make certain changes in the format of the last issue in order to run off several hundred copies for mailing to alumni.

Both requests were approved, with the reservation that Lonnie Dill must be in agreement with the plans of the alumni group.

The magazine editor's salary was set at $19 an issue, and Dr. M. S. Heath, one of the faculty members of the board, was appointed as treasurer for the summer session.

There will be a special meeting for the new members Monday.

State Senators Support Roosevelt's Choice

President Appoints Murchison as Director of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

SENATE MEETS TO DECIDE

Dr. C. T. Murchison, director of research in the school of commerce, learned yesterday morning that President Roosevelt had appointed him to the position of director of foreign and domestic commerce in the department of commerce. The appointment went before the Senate yesterday for confirmation.

Dr. Murchison's appointment is supported by Senators Josiah Bailey and Robert Reynolds of this state. Senator Bailey, a member of the senatorial committee on commerce, stated, when it was first rumored that Murchison would be appointed, that there would be no trouble whatever about his confirmation if he was appointed. Dr. Murchison definitely declared himself a Democrat in the political sketch, "Who's Who in America."

To Succeed Dickinson

The position was originally held by Julius E. Klein. Dr. William L. Thorp succeeded him by a recess appointment made by Roosevelt, but the Senate refused to confirm his continuance in office because of his Republican status. Assistant Secretary of Commerce John Dickinson, who recently spoke here on the New Deal legislation, received the appointment. He will go out of office as soon as his

YMCA WILL HEAR GRAHAM SUNDAY

J. D. Winslow and Dean Bradshaw to Speak at Last Meeting of Cabinets This Year.

Dr. Frank Porter Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina, will be the chief speaker at the annual hillside meeting of the University Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in the Forest theatre.

"The Forward Look" will be the topic of a short talk by J. D. Winslow, newly-elected president of the organization.

Francis F. Bradshaw, dean of students, will make a brief address; and John Acee, retiring president of the "Y," will give a report of the activities of the association during the past year.

Songs by Parker

Jesse Parker will sing a solo and will lead group singing. Devotional services will be led by Jack Pool, outgoing "Y" treasurer, and Tom Nisbet, adviser of the Freshman Friendship council during the past year.

Reports by heads of the sophomore and freshman cabinets will not be included on the program this year.

Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the "Y," will close the session with a talk.

Students Invited

Every student who has been a member of either of the three cabinets during the past year is expected to be present, and faculty members and interested students are invited to attend.

The convocation will be the last session of the Y. M. C. A. cabinets this year.
