

PRESIDENT HEARS RECOVERY BOARD READY TO WORK

Administration to Proceed Cautiously in Future Industrial Affairs of Nation.

NRA PROGRAM TO STAY

Washington, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The new recovery board today informed President Roosevelt that it was organized and ready to begin work.

The first official act of the board was to retain Colonel George A. Lynch as administrative officer of the NRA.

After this act, came the assurance by Donald Richberg, the director of the new emergency committee, that the present NRA set-up would not be scrapped.

Richberg described the new recovery organization as a trial institution which will remain in force pending action by the 74th Congress.

DEFER EXECUTIVE ORDER

An indication that the administration will proceed cautiously in future industrial innovations came from the White House tonight.

Roosevelt suspended for two weeks the effective date of the executive order reducing the working week in the cotton garment industry from 40 to 36 hours.

At the same time, the President directed an impartial three man committee to study the working wage conditions of that industry.

FEATURES ADDED TO 1934 PROGRAM

Will Use More Action Photos; To Inaugurate "Hero of the Day" Page in This Issue.

The 1934 football programs published by the University Athletic association will be slightly different from those of last season, it was announced by Marion Alexander yesterday.

The covers will be more attractive and the appearance of the entire publication has been improved. The cover for the Wake Forest-Carolina issue portrays the contrast of a modern football player and a present-day football crowd with a player and a crowd of many years ago.

Many Photos

Appearing in this number are pictures of faculty members in the administrative spotlight; a bird's-eye view of Kenan stadium; a picture of "Coach Bob" Fetzer; football action snapshots; a layout of the new coaching staff; and last year's sports as portrayed by the Yackety Yack. Many more action pictures are being used this year.

A new feature inaugurated this year is the "Hero of the Day" page, on which tribute is paid to the University football player who stands out in the game. A committee of coaches and sportswriters will select one man for this honor in each program. Captain George Barclay is praised in the first issue.

Addresses Wanted

The complete addresses of students who did not give them at registration are wanted for the annual student directory at the Y. M. C. A. Students are requested to come by or telephone the "Y."

Oldest Structure In Chapel Hill Destroyed During Vacation Period

STADIUM SPIRIT

Students are reminded that copies of the Tar Heel battle songs and the Alma Mater will be on sale for ten cents apiece this afternoon at the Wake Forest game. University club men will have the songs on sale in the stands.

Ram Butts Rival For Horning In

Ram Fool Rolls in Dust Butt Wins $2.37.

Rameses III is a champion in his own right, a battle-scarred veteran who is just a little bit bored with this spirit thing down here because there's not enough bloodshed. You ought to see HIM when ill-winds blow him no ramn good.

A special report was brought into the office of this publication yesterday by a breathless messenger from Hogan's farm. A look of downright terror was spread over his (her) face. Her (his) hand shook visibly as she (he) handed the message to a blank DAILY TAR HEEL reporter.

Letter from Hogan

It was from Glenn Hogan, Rameses' fond owner. It was a note of fire and rammy ferocity telling of a tremendous combat in which Rameses III gained a bloody victory:

Here is the gory story (almost ad verbatim):

"It was Thursday evening at setting sun when that . . . ram met a rival in mortal combat and laid him low with a flying tackle. Rameses Jr. (ed. note: it should be Rameses IV) witnessed his illustrious old man roll his enemy in the dirt . . . His combat was the termination of a year old grudge. He got one of his enemy's horns last Thanksgiving." (Ed. note: it wouldn't blow very well so he gave it back magnanimously on the Fourth of July.)

As a post script to the note was Rameses' own word, the modest word of a real champion: "I rammed my way to a swell flying tackle. We rolled in the dirt and I won $2.37. Hope the Carolina team does likewise. All my love. Baaaaa!"

COMMITTEE HAS FIVE PROGRAMS

"Green Pastures" Is First on Entertainment Series.

Five events have been selected for the student entertainment series this year, Dr. J. P. Harland, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced yesterday. A sixth engagement will be made for the spring quarter.

The entertainment schedule as it now stands is as follows:

October 8, "Green Pastures;" December 6, Nini Theilade, Danish dancer, in conjunction with the Whitney string quartet; January 16, DeWolf Hopper in a Gilbert and Sullivan opera (either "The Mikado" or "Pinafore"); February 12, Russian Symphony Choir; and April 25, Zimbalist, the Russian violinist.

Students who do not pay the regular entertainment fee and others connected with the University may purchase season tickets for three dollars at Alfred Williams.

Bottle of "Old Nick," Found in Razing Building, Described As "Mighty Mellow."

The oldest building in Chapel Hill, probably older than the University itself, was razed during the summer. The history of the two-story frame building which stood next to the Standard filling station on Franklin street is a record of progress in Chapel Hill for nearly a century and a half.

Originally, the structure—which had neither name nor number—had a wide frame veranda across the front, approached from a broad flight of wooden steps. At the bottom of the steps were hitched the carts, carriages and saddle horses of the people who came into the store to buy and to exchange tidbits of village gossip.

Corn Whiskey Relic

A number of relics of the "good old days" were found when the building was torn down. One was a bottle of "Old Nick Corn Whiskey, made in Williamston, North Carolina in 1879, for family use only." A gold medal seal on the bottle testified that it was eight years old when released. The negro carpenter who drank it said that it was "mighty mellow."

Workmen also discovered several boxes of white, fingerless lady's gloves, elbow-length, and some of the old-fashioned high white collars, long straight stiff cuffs and white dress bow ties which were worn by gentlemen of quality in those days. There were about fifty law books, too, used by students who lived in the building from time to time.

Nobody knows exactly when or why it was built. The oldest native of Chapel Hill, Mr. Marjion Cheek, says that it was an old building when he was a boy, 75 years ago. R. A. Eubanks, now postmaster of Chapel Hill, said, "I don't know when it was built. I kept a store there for 44 years, and it must have been more than 100 years old when I moved in there."

When Mr. Eubanks opened his store it was the only place in Chapel Hill which sold cigars. The favorite brand then was Linc's, a brand which has long since passed off the market. The top shelf running all the way around the main room of the store was stacked the five feet to the ceiling with these cigar boxes. Our informant added that Mr. Eubanks smoked most of these himself.

Pegs Used for Nails

The massive beams which formed the skeleton of the building were ten inches square, and were fastened together with wooden pegs. The only nails used in the building—in the floor and the ceiling of solid ten-inch pine boards—were made by hand. It was built on a sturdy foundation of hand-picked square rocks which can still be seen.

When Franklin street was widened, the steps were sunk back into the porch, dividing the veranda in half. When the pavement was laid, the porch was torn down, and the steps were sunk back into the main building. In recent years the old building looked something like the adjoining structure which now serves as the local express office.

It has been used for almost

LAW ENROLLMENT HITS NEW RECORD

Over 50 Per Cent Have Degrees; Nine Students of 130 from Out of State.

The ninety-first year of the law school of the University opened this fall at the close of the registration period, with an aggregate total of 130 students, the largest enrollment so far as available records show in the history of the school.

There are fifty students in the first-year class; forty-six in the second year class; and thirty-four in the third-year class.

Many Have Degrees

Of the 130, 73 or 56 per cent have received college degrees. Of the senior class of 34, 29, or 85 per cent of the class have college degrees. This is the second largest senior class in the history of the school, the previous high mark having been reached by the class of 1929 with thirty-nine seniors.

All of the 130 students in the law school are residents of North Carolina except nine, of whom two are from Connecticut; one from the District of Columbia; one from Louisiana; one from New Jersey; one from South Carolina; two from Massachusetts; and one from Wisconsin.

Breckenridge on Leave

Just before the opening of school, Professor M. S. Breckenridge was given a leave of absence for the fall semester in order to enable him to become counsel for a sub-committee of the committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives in Washington which is investigating various aspects of the petroleum industry.

A part of Mr. Breckenridge's teaching duties have been taken over by Mr. Edwin M. Perkins of Brevard, a graduate of the law school in 1933, who has since been serving as an assistant in the Institute for Research in Social Science.

ALUMNI TO PLAN BUDGET FOR YEAR

Board of Directors to Convene October 6 Here.

The board of directors of the General Alumni association will hold their annual fall meeting in Chapel Hill October 6 to outline plans for the budget this year.

At this meeting the date for the annual alumni assembly which usually comes late in the fall, will be set. Plans will be made for University Day, October 12, and for Homecoming Day, October 20.

The board of directors includes officers of the association, who are: Dr. Hubert B. Haywood, Raleigh, president; Francis Winslow, Rocky Mount, first vice-president; Henry M. London, Raleigh, second vice-president; George Watts Hill, Durham, treasurer; and J. Maryon Saunders, Chapel Hill, permanent executive secretary.

Grail Dance

Freshmen will be admitted to the first Grail dance of the year which takes place this evening at 9:00 o'clock in the Tin Can. Johnny Long and his Duke Collegians will play for the affair.

Tickets for the dance are for sale at one dollar per couple at Pritchard-Lloyd's.

Plans Of Suicide Or Jailbreak By Lindy Suspect Are Broken

RUSHING SUSPENDED

Rushing will be suspended today until 7:00 o'clock tonight, according to a ruling passed yesterday by the Interfraternity council in special meeting. This rule prohibits any rushing during the Wake Forest-Carolina game.

Bob Fetzer Explains Passbook Regulations

Passbooks to Be Used Only by Persons to Whom Issued.

By "COACH BOB" FETZER

We are making a special appeal to students to comply with the regulations concerning the use of student passbooks to athletic contests.

It will be necessary to take up all passbooks which are presented by any person other than the student to whom they were issued.

We are compelled to enforce this rule rigidly if we are to have the support necessary to continue our present broad program of intramural and intercollegiate athletics.

Source of Revenue

Our revenue comes from two sources: student fees and outside ticket sales. The student fee has been held to a minimum price, approximately 25 per cent of the total cost of single admissions for outsiders to the same events.

A student who permits an outsider to use his passbook deprives the Athletic association of 3-4 of the price of the admission. At the same time he cheats himself and his fellow students by reducing the amount of money which can be put into the University's athletic program.

University Policies

The University has maintained its policy of large squads, generous provision for equipment, and attractive heavy home schedules even during the depression. We hope that you will help us with your co-operation in continuing these policies.

Students will continue to occupy the center section on the south side entering at gate 6. May we ask, as a courtesy to our visitors, that you come to the game early. We are proud of our student section and should like to have it filled before the kickoff. This would also avoid the congestion caused by a last-minute rush.

LECTURE SERIES BEGINS TUESDAY

H. K. Russell to Be First Bull's Head Speaker.

The new series of lectures to be given at the Bull's Head bookshop in the "Y" will open Tuesday at 4:30 o'clock, with Dr. H. K. Russell of the English department making the opening address.

The topic of Dr. Russell's discussion has not yet been announced, but it is understood that he plans to use as part of his material, Paul Engle's new book entitled "American Song."

Elizabeth Johnson, director of the Bull's Head, announces that a complete program for regular Tuesday afternoon lectures during the school year is being outlined.

Accused May Plead Insanity As Defense

Disappearance of One of Hauptmann's Meal Spoons Causes Suspicion; Found in Cell.

LOOK FOR ACCOMPLICES

New York, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Discovery of a broken and sharpened soup spoon in the cell of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, alleged kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby, today indicated that the accused was either planning to commit suicide or attempt a jailbreak.

The spoon disappeared after one of Hauptmann's meals. Jailers searched his cell today and found the spoon broken in four pieces and concealed in a drain pipe. Hereafter, only paper utensils will be served Hauptmann, and the guard at his cell door will be strengthened.

Witnesses Questioned

Meanwhile, a steady stream of witnesses flowed into District Attorney Samuel J. Foley's office for questioning on various phases of the case.

Department of justice agents, New York detectives, and New Jersey officials are co-ordinating their efforts in a swift drive to bring in every shred of possible evidence.

Reports persisted that the investigation is concentrating on searching for possible accomplices of Hauptmann.

James W. Fawcett, Hauptmann's attorney, said that a psychiatrist will examine his client tomorrow, thus indicating an insanity defense.

In New York state, Hauptmann is being tried only on extortion charges. In New Jersey, however, he faces the more serious charges of kidnaping and murder.

WARDLAW PLAYS ON CBS NETWORK

Alumnus Now Located on Steel Pier in Atlantic City; Has Seventeen Piece Band.

Jack Wardlaw and his Carolinians have been broadcasting during the past week over the Columbia network through WPG, Atlantic City, where the band has been playing in the Winter Garden on the Steel Pier. Freddie Rich and other Columbia broadcasting bands have recently preceded the Carolinians.

Jack is now carrying a band composed of 17 musicians and little Miss Mae Parrish, seven-year-old torch singer, formerly of Durham.

Affiliated with C. A. B.

Along with Isham Jones, Glen Grey's Casa Loma, and other well known bands, Wardlaw is now affiliated with Columbia Artists Bureau, a division of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Following this week in Atlantic City, Wardlaw will probably go into another spot under this firm's direction and broadcast regularly over the CBS chain.

Jack Wardlaw started in the band business six years ago here in the University where Hal Kemp and Kay Kyser first started. Since that time he has made rapid progress in the musical world. He and his orchestra have made several trips to Europe.
