

ROOTERS STREAM FROM PEP RALLY TO PARADE TOWN

Ostrow's Cheerleaders Sweep Street Following Session In Memorial Hall.

CHEER TENNESSEE MEN

Hundreds of enthusiastic Tar Heel rooters almost turned a big University club cheer rally into a "cheer riot" last night when they swung into an unexpected parade through the streets of Chapel Hill following the pep celebration in Memorial hall.

Cheer Visitors

Led by Lester Ostrow, head cheerleader and his assistants, the mob swept on to the Carolina Inn and gave three rousing cheers for Coach Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers who were resting there before the big game today with Carl Snavelly's Tar Heels.

At Memorial hall, Dick Dashiell and Jim Hutchins, stellar sophomore backfielders, gave short talks to the group, and Seth Robinson was elected "Master of the Ram" by the students. But the real fireworks did not begin until after the organized meeting.

Are Confident

Feeling was prevalent the campus over last night that Carolina would come through in today's encounter. "Vault the Vols and Take the South" became the motto for loyal Tar Heel rooters.

A peppy telegram was read as a special feature of the Memorial hall gathering, from Claiborn "Benny" Carr, one of the University club founders and former editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL. Carr, who is now attending Harvard business school, wired that he was sure Carolina would take Tennessee over.

LAWYERS HOLD DANCE IN GRAHAM MEMORIAL

The Law association entertained around 150 members of the law school with dancing and bridge from 8:00 to 11:00 o'clock last night in Graham Memorial.

Campus Statue Is Not Grant Or Davie, But N.C. Confederate

Military Figure Standing Before Graham Memorial Represents University Men Who Fought with Lee; of a Thousand Who Answered State's Call, Only Handful Returned.

Of the thousands of students who daily pass the monument on the north campus, there are few indeed who grasp its significance. Some people believe it to be Grant after the fall of Richmond. Others think it is a tribute to the paternal devotion of the fathers in rural sections of the state. Another interpretation is that it is General Davie looking for his horse.

In reality, however, the venerable pile, which was dedicated at the Commencement of 1912, is a memorial to the men of Carolina who fought under the Stars and Bars in the 'sixties. The University, during five years, sent more than a thousand men, students and faculty, to the colors. Of these, only a mere handful returned.

Significance

The commencement issue of the DAILY TAR HEEL for 1912 printed the following explanation of the significance of the monument:

These latter cause 30 guards to be on duty along the wire fences surrounding the stadium.

Stating that it was foolish for southern senators to support legislation for building war materials, Mrs. Barnes said that "of the $129,000,000 of public works funds spent on the navy during the last fiscal year, not one cent went to southern workers."

Blames Munition Men

The speaker for the League for Peace told how representatives of United States armament firms were sent to disrupt disarmament conferences, spoke of their influence in preventing peace during the World War, and their work in causing war scares today.

"The south should lead the country in peace legislation because this region is not controlled by armament firms and the press," the speaker said.

Mrs. Barnes stated that the United States had increased her appropriations for armaments since 1915 more than any other country in the world.

Stating that wars are always fought for enomic gain, the peace representative said that Student President Commends Spirit Shown But Condemns Paper Throwing at Rally.

SPEAKERS WANT CHEERING

Virgil Weathers, president of the student body, spoke to freshmen on the subject of sportsmanship yesterday in assembly.

Jack Pool, introducing the speaker, said that Weathers would talk not as president of the student body but as one member of it speaking to other members.

"The pep meeting last Friday night was fine," said Weathers, "except for the paper throwing, which was really a poor way to show sportsmanship and which left the campus in a very unattractive condition for the game on Saturday."

Scores Paper Throwing

"I hope we shall have a good rally tonight, without the paper. I should like for the freshman class to accept the responsibility of seeing that no paper is thrown."

He said that it is better not to yell when the opposing team is being penalized, but to watch the cheerleaders and yell when they say to.

"Ignore the bad plays of the other team, but don't let up on cheering our good plays."

"Personally, I believe we shall beat Tennessee, although she has a strong team. Our team de-
