EDUCATION'S AIM
IN ADDRESS HERE*President Exhorts Students to Seize Intellectual and Spiritual
Opportunities of Education.*DR. H. B. HAYWOOD SPEAKS

Delivering the Founder's Day address here yesterday, President Frank P. Graham called upon the students to interweave the basic things—mind, body and spirit—with the elements found here—faculty, curriculum and traditions of freedom and honor.

The exercises celebrating the 141st birthday of the first of America's state universities were marked with extreme simplicity and dignity.

The principal address by President Graham, a greeting from the alumni delivered by Dr. Hubert B. Haywood of Raleigh and a roll call of alumni who have died during the past year were features of the program.

Debt to Forefathers

"The new thunder of science and human experience is no less impressive than the ancient thunder communicated to us in the experience of the great Jewish race with a moral sovereignty which runs through the nature of man and the universe," President Graham declared.

"Mastery of body and mind is not enough," he said. "Moral stamina and courage for great human causes come from sources deeper than body and mind. Body and mind may miss the way of life because not lighted by the light that shines from within. The deeper the spiritual resource the higher the personal life."

College Opportunity

Running through his talk was the emphasis upon the opportunity of college men to develop "unified victorious personalities, spiritually radiant in the work and the adventures of mankind to make a freer and fairer world for all men."

He closed on the note of his Research Congress.

Dr. W. deB. MacNider, head of the Pharmacology department, left last night for Boston to attend a meeting of the International Anesthesia research congress, of which he is president. The congress will be in session October 15-19.

Members of the society are scientists interested in research on the physiology and pathology of substances that induce a state of anesthesia and the experimental and clinical use of such substances.

The meeting is held in Boston mainly to commemorate the work of Horace Wells and W. G. T. Morton, who did early work on the use of anesthetics on human beings.

The first person to use an anesthetic substance to bring about a condition of anesthesia was Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, in 1842.

The organization includes 15 representatives from foreign institutions.

Dr. Frank Porter Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina, and Francis D. Winston, alumnus and trustee, are shown chatting together in the picture (left) in front of South building just before the academic parade to Memorial hall began yesterday morning.

The other snapshot caught the professors as they marched up Cameron avenue in cap and gown. Directly behind Dr. Graham (X) is Dean R. B. House. The color-bearers leading the parade are Virgil Weathers, president of the student body, and Jack Pool, president of the senior class. Weathers is carrying the flag of the United States, and Pool that of North Carolina. To the right of the parade can be seen the bulletin board on which the alumni office posted telegrams of congratulations from alumni.

DEAN ADDRESSES
GRADUATE SCHOOL*Ruark, Zimmermann, and Taylor
Also Speak; 206 Graduates
Are Enrolled This Year.

Discussing this fall's enrollment figures of the University graduate school, Dr. William W. Pierson, dean of the graduate department here, addressed members of the school in Smith building last night.

Dr. Arthur E. Ruark, new dean of the University physics department, also made a brief speech following Dr. Pierson's talk.

Other speakers were Dr. E. W. Zimmermann, economics professor here, and Dr. George Coffin Taylor of the English department.

The total registration of graduate school this fall is 206, according to figures presented by Dr. Pierson. These 206 students received their master's degrees from 92 different institutions in the country.

Dr. Pierson said that 83 of the 206 had already received their master's degrees from 27 other institutions in the United States.

Among the graduates were representatives from 27 states and two foreign countries. There are 147 men enrolled and 59 women.

Following the talks a social hour was held among the students, and refreshments were served.

Drivers in Village.

The aldermen of Chapel Hill, at their last meeting Wednesday evening, made known their intention to put a stop to the reckless driving in this city. A special motorcycle police officer has been assigned by City Manager J. L. Caldwell to this duty.

"The law limits the speed of cars to 20 miles an hour in the business district and 30 miles an hour elsewhere," said Manager Caldwell.

GRAHAM STATES
NEED FOR FUNDS*Boston and Pittsburgh Alumni
Hear President Graham
Speak over Telephone.

In a Founder's Day address Thursday night by long-distance telephone to an alumni meeting in Boston, President Frank P. Graham stated the University's need for larger endowments and appropriations and a return to the old salary scale.

He emphasized the meaning of the University Day meetings such as the Boston meeting, to the University, coming as they do at the time when she is in need of the loyal support of all her sons and daughters.

Faculty Losses

President Graham spoke also on the significance of the loss this year of such faculty members as R. D. W. Connor, C. T. Murchison, and N. P. Bailey.

He reminded the Boston alumni of the coming of strong new men like Arthur E. Ruark, head of the physics department; Glen Haydon, music department head; J. E. Mulder of the law school; and Carl Snavely, head football coach.

Constructive Studies

The president told of studies made as a basis for intelligent consolidation and of the faculty's critical and constructive re-examination of the curriculum and its relation to University life.

President Graham spoke over long-distance telephone last night to a similar meeting of alumni in Pittsburgh. Interviewed before the speech by a DAILY TAR HEEL representative, he said that he would make an address with a different setting from that of the Boston speech but would emphasize many of the same points.

Infirmiry List

The following students were confined to the infirmiry yesterday: Gwendolyn McReynolds, Manny Kirschner, Peggy Ann Harris, Norwood Cox, J. R. Raper, D. C. Culbreth, William Garis, and William Ford.

STOLL INDICATES
RANSOM GRANTED
TO INTERMEDIARY*Family of Kidnaped Woman
Asks Police for Chance to Contact Kidnapers.*KENTUCKY POLICE READY

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—(UP)—Forty-eight hours after the abduction of Mrs. Alice Stoll developments indicated that the stage was set for the climax of one of the south's most daring and brutal crimes.

B. V. Stoll, husband of the kidnaped woman, indicated tonight that the $50,000 ransom demand has been placed in a predetermined spot or else in the hands of an intermediary. He also stated that all ransom requirements have been met.

Police Withdrawn

All city and federal officers have been withdrawn as a result of a plea on the part of the Stoll family that they be left in complete isolation, so that they might be free to contact the kidnapers.

Stoll has requested that there be wide publicity of the fact that ransom demands have been met and said that he has pledged immunity to the kidnaper if his wife is returned safely.

Police Ready

General Darnhardt, police authority, said that he had 50 members of the new Kentucky state police force ready to act at a moment's notice but that he is holding them back for the present.

Mrs. Stoll was taken from her home late Thursday by a man who entered her home on the pretense that he had come to fix the telephone.

Mrs. Woollet, who is a maid in the Stoll home, said that the man "looked and acted like a fiend."

PETITION SOLONS*Delegation Led by Taul Whites
Goes to Raleigh to Secure
Support of Senators.

Led by Mr. and Mrs. Taul White, townspeople of Chapel Hill went over to Raleigh yesterday to petition the two North Carolina Senators to support peace legislation.

Harry F. Comer, who was to lead the delegation, was called out of town yesterday and was unable to make the trip. It was reported yesterday that three other citizens who were to make the trip were unable to do so because of illness.

The Chapel Hill peace delegation petitioned the Senators to support the following measures: to urge the adoption by Congress of a permanent peace plan; to urge the reduction of armaments, in order to definitely end the race between the nations for military supremacy; to urge Congress to take steps to end the corrupting influences of munition manufacturers.

Plans for the delegation were made here following the address by Mrs. Sherman Barnes of the International Woman's League for Peace.

Alive" Loose Bear From State Fair

When it comes to bear-catching, animal-cager Frank Buck has no edge on Senior J. V. Woodward, Phi Delta Chi. For, together with some of his fraternity brothers, he succeeded in "bringing back alive" to Chapel Hill a half-grown native black bear.

Woodward, with J. D. "Sheriff" Mitchell and other Carolina boys were enjoying the State fair at Raleigh, Monday night. When, at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, the general exhibits building, a large frame structure, burst into flames, the local boys were still on hand.

Animals Wild

In the melee that followed, all the animals within the exhibit building were released. As the prize livestock of the state poured forth from the doors of the exhibit, the citizens present helped themselves to all they could carry.

DUKE PROFESSOR TO TALK MONDAY
IN GERRARD HALL*Dr. E. M. Carroll to Speak at Third "Y" Discussion on War and Peace.*IS AUTHORITY ON FRANCE

Dr. E. M. Carroll of the history and government department of Duke University will speak at the third of the series of Y. M. C. A. programs on war and international relations in Gerrard hall Monday night.

Students and faculty are invited to hear Dr. Carroll's address. The convocation will be a regular meeting of the joint "Y" cabinets.

Author on Subject

Considered one of the leading authorities on present conditions in Europe, Dr. Carroll has spent many years in Europe since the war and is the author of numerous books on international relations.

Dr. Carroll is the author of "French Public Opinion and Foreign Affairs," a publication dealing with trends in Europe, from 1870 until 1914. He has also written "The Origins of the Whig Party," a publication of the American historical association.

Studies in Europe

During 1927 and 1928, the Duke professor traveled in France, and later in 1931 and 1932 he went to Germany, France, and England. During the summers from 1922, 1925, 1926, and 1930, he spent studying and in travel in other countries.

The lecturer will soon publish a book, "Germany, and the Great Powers, 1866-1914."

The Monday meeting will follow two discussions which have already been held by the cabinets. Last Monday, Professors M. S. Heath and R. B. Vance led a discussion on capitalism and war, and the Monday before Dr. English Bagby of the psychology department spoke, discussing that which makes people take part in wars.

Through the faculty bulletin, all members of the University teaching staff have been invited to attend the Monday lecture, and officials of the Y. M. C. A. also invite all students.
