Missing Freshman Here Returns Yesterday

James Idol Shows Up in Dean's Office After Trip Home.

James Idol, missing Carolina freshman, presented himself nonchalantly at the office of the dean of students yesterday.

Idol, who had been at his home in Kernersville since Sunday, appeared surprised that the Dean should have worried over his absence from the University. He had come back, he said, as soon as he heard that the University authorities were looking for him.

A detailed investigation to locate the boy had been begun late Wednesday by Dean Bradshaw, when efforts were made to communicate with young Idol's family.

The first alarm concerning the boy's disappearance was turned in by J. L. Crutchfield of Greensboro, Idol's roommate. He said that Idol had not been back to his room since 5:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when he had set out hitch-hiking to Durham.

Dean Bradshaw confirmed the fact that the boy was not here when his instructors reported that he had not attended classes this week.

HEER DISCUSSES DEPRESSION CURE

Dr. Heer Tells Economics Seminar of Use for Government Funds During Depression.

Dr. Clarence Heer addressed the meeting of the economic seminar Wednesday evening with a talk on the implications of popular economic theories on the fiscal operations of the government.

He said that the current writers on economic problems generally concede that we possess the requisite resources and technical skill to support everybody on the basis of a much higher standard of living than has ever been achieved. Yet in the midst of potential plenty, millions are now living in abject poverty.

Governmental Spending

One explanation of this paradox places the blame on the disparity between the rate of money savings and the rate of capital investment. Unless savings are actually spent on the production of new capital goods, purchasing power bogs down and a deflationary cycle is set in motion.

The deflationary effect of a decline in the production of new capital goods can and should be offset by a proportionate expansion of governmental spending. The government will get the necessary funds for this purpose, according to the proponents of the plan, by the use of its credit. The national income has declined by some forty billion dollars since the peak of the prosperity period.

As the price-pumping operations take effect and as the forty billion dollars of lost income is regained the need for further public spending will cease and the national income, restored to its prosperity level, will furnish the tax funds with which to retire the initially incurred indebtedness.

The new treasurer, who is from Charlotte, has held offices in the freshman and sophomore "Y" cabinets, and has been a member of the staff of the DAILY TAR HEEL.

Officials of the University club are planning tonight's meeting to be one of the greatest rallies this year and urge all students to turn out.

FEDERAL AGENTS GET KIDNAP CLUE

Abandoned Automobile and Five Dollar Bill Found.

Louisville, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Federal agents tonight had their first definite clue as to the direction taken by Thomas Robinson, Jr., who is sought as the kidnaper of Mrs. B. V. Stoll.

An automobile abandoned in Springfield, Ohio, was identified through finger prints as having been driven by Robinson. Also the serial number of a five dollar bill that he gave a rooming house keeper coincided with the numbers of the Stoll ransom money.

Fled East

Although Robinson fled east it is considered possible that he may have doubled back, perhaps heading toward Chicago.

Federal agents do not anticipate his immediate capture but regard it as inevitable.

A special session of the grand jury has been ordered for Saturday to consider evidence against Robinson's wife and father, who are charged with violation of the Lindbergh law.

The victim of the crime was feeling fine today and reported as doing well.

Father Arrested

Thomas Robinson, Sr., father of the kidnap suspect, was formally arrested in Nashville late today on charges of aiding and abetting the abduction. Through Attorney Montagu Ross he pleaded not guilty.

The elder Robinson's bond has been set at $25,000. He was released shortly afterward.

A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for October 26.

Make Complaints Today

George Underwood, DAILY TAR HEEL circulation manager, will be in his office on the second floor of Graham Memorial each day from 4:00 to 5:00 o'clock to receive subscriptions, complaints or changes of address.
