PARAGRAPHS

Dean Bradshaw's theme song: Seven days without a certain freshman makes one weak.

We saw a drummer at the Grail dance last night who was nothing more than a Fuller brush man.

Rivers might have won the Cake Race, but still Waters ran fourth.

University On Parade

Starting through the initiative of a few students as a simple tribute to the harmony that should exist on this campus between faculty and students, student-faculty day has now assumed the proportions of a great undertaking. The student committee responsible for the idea met last Thursday with the Welfare board and presented a program for this day, which, if approved by the faculty in meeting, will mean a unique presentation in University history. The conception behind this program is that the University itself is the common bond between students and faculty; therefore, student-faculty day should be made into an exhibit of the University and the work that it is doing. To make student-faculty day a show-place and a carnival-time for the University—that has become the new purpose of the observance if it goes into effect.

The DAILY TAR HEEL wants to see it inaugurated this year as a permanent part of the traditions of the University. To make the initial effort a success, however, requires extensive preparation, and our only hope is that it will not be entered into by either students or faculty half-heartedly or with the idea that half-made plans, on the part of either of them, will suffice for the occasion. Like a snowball rolling downhill, already plans for student-faculty day have gathered immense proportions. They will continue to do so, what with the careful working out of detail that will be necessary before the program has acquired its final polish.

The Students Have a Voice

The student council has under consideration a revision of the present honor pledge. Whereas the present honor pledge reads, "I have neither given nor received any aid on this quiz" (or examination, as the case may be), the amendment that the council is thinking over will make it run, "On my honor I have neither given nor received any aid on this quiz and have not seen any violation of the honor system."

No action has been taken as yet on the matter and for the sake of the student body's right to make its voice heard in this proposed amendment, we hope none will be taken until it has been thoroughly publicized and discussed in every corner of the campus. The DAILY TAR HEEL will do all that it can to see that the question is viewed from every possible angle.

In these columns, however, where it has the freedom of its own opinion for what seems to be a thoughtful move by the council, the student paper wishes to endorse the measure—after, however, it has explained in full what is truth-ful conviction.

Public Service

With the November issue, "Popular Government," heretofore a quarterly, becomes a monthly magazine, taking its place, as it states, as "a clearing house of governmental information for officials, citizens, students, and teachers throughout this state."

Here is represented the most progressive movement embracing the careful study of governmental administration ever carried out in this state. The magazine is the mouthpiece for an organization created in December, 1931, by representatives of the rank and file of public officers, private citizens, and the schools of the people of this state. This organization is known as the Institute of Government and is directed by Albert Coates, professor of law at the University.

What are its objects? They embrace study of governmental conditions in this state in order to effect more efficient administration, study of school conditions in order to co-ordinate the theory of books with the practicality of state government, study of governmental requirements so that proper training can be given to future officials.

Problems of law enforcement, tax administration, administration of justice, and accounting methods and practices are being carefully scrutinized for methods of improvement to do away with overlapping of power, mal-training, inefficiency in administration, and needless expenditure of the people's money. The purchasing agencies for governmental units, street and highway safety, and other activities are being investigated for all possible sources of amelioration or increased efficiency.

Professor Coates and his helpers are doing the people of this state an invaluable service. Not only will their efforts, if maintained, result in public savings and in the increase of efficiency in their public servants, but it will also aid in training their children and increasing the adult population's knowledge of the government which administers for them.

See You in The Pictures

If Upton "Epic" Sinclair, Democratic nominee for governor of California, succeeds in chasing the moving picture industry out of that state as he threatens to do by exorbitant taxation, we understand that Chamber of Commerce secretaries in this fair state (where it never rains and very seldom freezes) are going to make a strenuous effort to make this state the new cinema center.

At least, Louis T. Moore, Wilmington Chamber of Commerce secretary, thinks it would be a grand idea. Acting under the assumption (we guess) that none of the other 47 avaricious states gave birth to a similar idea, Mr. Moore and W. C. Denmark, executive secretary of the Cape Fear progressives, is going to set forth his ideas for the approval of the secretaries at a conference in Raleigh on October 31.

This state, according to Mr. Moore, can offer "scenic, climatic, and other advantages" for such an industry. He probably had in the back of his active mind that there is a perfectly good University "somewhere up in the western hills" available for sets for the glamorous "college life" productions with which the various cinema corporations take such delight in flooding the country.

Surely, we have all the advantages of California with a few of South Carolina's thrown in. However, we can't see Upton Sinclair, Socialist or not, driving out an industry bringing thousands of people and millions of dollars a year to the fair shores of sunny California. It may be more logical if Mr. Moore, before he faces the secretaries, would talk it over thoroughly with Denmark.

Speaking The Campus Mind

(BRIEFLY AND LEGIBLY)

Ain't No Justice?

Editor, the DAILY TAR HEEL:

Is there justice on this campus? I was talking with a boy the other night who is now working at Swain hall and has previously been enrolled on the FERA force. Now, he does not see any hope of getting placed on the FERA until after Christmas, if then.

This boy worked here for the better part of last year and was promised work this fall. However, he was denied work, not because he didn't need it but because there came to the Y. M. C. A. self-help bureau a group of needy athletes and others who had to have work in order to stay in school. They got it!

On this campus there are a number of fraternity pledges who also are among the needy enrolled at the Y. M. C. A. self-help bureau. These would-be fraternity men trod the same worn steps that my friend has wearily climbed so many times. They, too, were in search of work "to keep them in school"—and they got it.

This quarter my friend, through the advice of the dean of his school, is taking only two courses. He was promised FERA work this fall. Perhaps next quarter when he is taking four courses to make up for this deficiency he will be given work.

What is going on behind the doors of the self-help office to let such as this occur?

QUESTION MARK.

BE SURE YOUR SINS . . .

A gentleman was eating soup in a local restaurant when he discovered a fly in same. He called Jack, the black waiter, and asked for more soup. Jack took it out, and in a few minutes he returned and put a steaming touren down in front of our man, who asked him to wait a minute. He took his spoon and fished around in the bowl a few minutes, and finally dredged out what he wanted. There on the spoon, with some vegetables and some grease, was a shiny new penny. "I put that penny in the soup that had the fly in it, Jack," said the gentleman sternly.

"Yes-suah," answered Jack, repressing a hee-haw with difficulty. "Yo' all sho'ly is smart. Ah'se been doing dat for seben y'ars, and you all is de fust to kitch me."

A DELIGHTFUL TIME WAS HAD

From the Houlton Pioneer-Times, of Houlton, Maine, comes the following social note: "At the Baptist parsonage last Wednesday was solomized the wedding of Mr. Donald Atherton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Atherton, and Miss Dorothy Grant, daughter of Mrs. Mary Grant by the Reverend W. B. Chase."

WHO IS THIS

TAUCHNITZ, ANYWAY?

On page 237 of E. M. Delafield's "Gay Life" you will find the following statement: "And Chrissie Challoner had visited three libraries and bought eight Tauchnitz volumes, of which Morgan carried six, and Patrick four."

C'EST LA VIE

From New York City, "Metropolis of Mankind," as the National Geographic Magazine rather grandly puts it, comes the reminder that it is after all, tsk-tsk, a pretty small world: "Four of us went to the Manhattan Club and heard Hal Kemp. One of the boys with us knew one of the boys in the orchestra, from Raleigh, and during the intermission invited him over. When he started playing again, they gave an inimitable rendition of "Hark the Sound," followed by "Old Davidson." Naturally, we clapped madly, thinking we would be the only ones who would. But there was an uproar. A few minutes later, the brighter lights were turned on and we saw that the place was full of boys from Davidson who had come up for the West Point game! We knew some of them already and soon met the rest. From then on, it was some party!"

EDITORIAL WE

A very dignified gentleman strolled into the office of the DAILY TAR HEEL the other day, accompanied by a tiny black dog, of what denomination or gender we have been unable to determine. At any rate, the gentleman asked if he might see the editor. "I'm sorry, sir," said the reporter, "but he isn't here just now."

"Oh, that's all right," said the gentleman as he perched himself comfortably on the edge of a desk. "We'll wait."

PEACE ON EARTH

The advertisements in Bolivia, a magazine published by the Bolivian consulate in New York "to present information dealing with all phases of Bolivian life and to provide in handy form information which is desired alike by importers and exporters" strike us as indicative of the growing spirit of brotherhood in the world. On the inside cover is a picture of a Curtiss-Wright Osprey plane. In the little magazine are advertisements for Remington, Colt, the Federal Gas Munitions, and American Armament Corporation.

HONOR-BRIGHT

Our suggestion for a new pledge for the bottom of all quiz papers is that original statement of a freshman on a quiz recently: "I have neither give nor receive pledge."

PEP RALLY

The greater part of the student body turned out for the greatest cheering demonstration of the year last night.

A giant parade led off the festivities. It started in front of the post office, marched down Franklin st., and around the block to Emerson field.

Before a huge bonfire in the center of the field, Dean R. B. House, Jack Pool, Don Jackson, Charlie Shaffer, Captain George Barclay, and the Kentucky head cheerleader spoke to the large turnout of students and visitors.

Infirmary

The following students were confined to the infirmary yesterday: W. A. Hart, Stewart Melvin, J. E. Everette, Ernest Hancock, A. Shaeffer, George Stoney, Bill Moore, J. R. Raper, C. M. Ivey, and Charles Adams.

Ehringhaus Chief Speaker on Program

Coach Chet Wynne of the University of Kentucky and Coach Carl Snavelly of the University of North Carolina will each say a few words to the visitors.

After a few announcements have been made, the remainder of the hour will be turned over to the band.

At the dinner period, Homecoming visitors will attend various reunion luncheons about the campus.

At 2:00 o'clock blows the whistle for the kickoff in the Carolina-Kentucky football game.

Under the direction of Lester Ostrow, the University's organized cheerio section will make its first appearance. The card-flashers will have a reserved section in the center of the Carolina stands.

Between the halves of the game, the University band will put on a snappy parade with the colorful assistance of the specially chosen sponsors for the two universities and with the help of a guest drum major.

Escorts for the Kentucky sponsors at the game include: J. B. Croft, Jack Fontz, and Wm. Eversole of Kentucky and Agnew Bahnsen, representing Kentucky in the interests of the University club.

Virgil Weathers, president of the Carolina student body; Jack Pool, president of the senior class; and Frank Abernathy, Jason of the Golden Fleece, will escort the Carolina sponsors.

One of the sponsors representing the Carolina team will be Miss Barclay, sister of Captain George Barclay.

The flowers for the gala occasion will be furnished by Doyle, florists of Chapel Hill and Durham.

If I can CONVINCE YOU

That you can look for the same kind of gay and thrilling entertainment you found in "The Thin Man"—that, like "It Happened One Night," this new charm picture is one of the year's surprise hits and will capture the town, you will be the first to see it and thank us for the tip-off! You'll find "Hide-Out" the most exciting merriment you've found in a picture in months.
