

Old Wagon Route Recalls Passage Of Famed General

The celebration at Yorktown this week of the 153rd anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis, brings to mind the legend that the famous British general passed within several miles of where Chapel Hill now stands. This is a fact little known now, but most of the older residents of this village recall the story that Cornwallis came close to crossing the site of the University.

Just on the other side of Carrboro, one can see the sunken wagon road which was cut through the wilderness by Cornwallis and his redcoats when the University was nothing more than an idea in the back of General Davie's head.

In Fear of Rebels

Cornwallis, making his memorable trip through the southern colonies, was on his way from the state capital at Hillsboro to the port of Wilmington. Legend has it that Cornwallis had to keep part of his men on guard constantly while the others hacked a way through the wilderness because of the ambushes of the rebel farmers. Several skirmishes occurred on this part of the road, and the British marched in terror of their unseen foes. The general and his men deviated from their route from time to time to pillage and plunder the farms along the way.

The old road lies to the west of the town of Chapel Hill on the other side of what is now the village of Carrboro. Now it is a washed-out, narrow wagon road, in use only by the farmers of the neighborhood.

Haunted

For many years after the Revolution, the old road was still in use as the only road from Pittsboro to the capital at Hillsboro. Now the farmers who use it for a wagon trail point it out to strangers with pride, referring to it as "Cornwallis' Road." The farms along the way are among the oldest in the state, and they have in many cases the descendants of colonists living on their ancestral farms.

in a way that seemed to inspire them to further shouting. Finally, they fell back in their seats exhausted.

After more preaching and reading from the "Holy Book," the preacher called on the congregation to give all the money they could. He appointed two of the brethren to come forward and change money for the givers, and he told the people to "rise from yo' seats so you can git to yo' pocketbooks." The congregation marched up one by one, and made their contributions with loud "clinks" that could be heard all over the church.

Six Cents

After he made a count, the preacher wanted "six cents more," and called on "our white frens to help us." The visiting students then went up from the back of the church, and made contributions amid a chorus of "May de Lord bless you!" "Praise to de Lord!", and "Amen!"

When the collections had been made, things seemed to be about over. The preacher got them all to promise to "git the baptism," and then the meeting closed with a fervent benediction, with the usual "Amen." As soon as the last words had been said, the crowd started pushing out, and with much talking and jostling, homeward bound, filled with "dat good old-time religion."

DECISION ON FETE GOES TO FACULTY

Student-Faculty Day Decision Is Referred to Faculty Meeting.

The faculty advisory committee, meeting in the office of Administrative Dean R. B. House Thursday night, decided to refer the matter of a Student-Faculty day to a regular faculty meeting for its consideration.

The faculty will consider the question at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, in Bingham hall.

Plans Unaltered

The committee did not alter the plans for the proposed jamboree as approved by the Student Welfare board. Faculty action on these plans will be final.

November 7 was selected by the welfare board as the only available date in the fall quarter for Student-Faculty day.

position, left halfback. Both Don Jackson, veteran passer, and Slippery Dick Dashiell, sophomore jackrabbitt, are in first class condition for the first time this season. Regardless of who gets the call to start, both will see plenty of action.

Odell Childers, famous as a sprinter, will replace Moore at right end in the first line. Childers played an excellent game against Georgia last week and has shown fine form in practice all this week.

Evenly Matched

According to past records the two contenders are as evenly matched as they can possibly be. Both were poor clubs last season but have come out strongly under new coaches this year.

Chet Wynne, former Auburn mentor, took over the football duties at Kentucky, while Carl Snavelly moved from Bucknell to Carolina. Their records so far are the same, two won and one lost.

The Wildcats' only setback came in the first contest of the year when they went down in the mud before Washington and Lee, 7-0, after a blocked punt. Since then the Colonels have turned in a couple of shutouts, running over Cincinnati, 27-0, and last week defeating Clemson, 7-0.

Both are excellent defensive outfits as shown by their scores. Coach Snavelly fears the Kentucky passing attack more than anything and has drilled his men all week for defense against this weapon. However, the Colonels also have some nice step-pers in "Man 'O War" Johnson, triple-threatener, Bo McMillian, and Bob Prichard.

Both clubs have all-star captains: Captain Joe Rupert, Wildcat end, making all-Southeastern last year, while Captain George Barclay, Carolina's jack-of-all-trades, was easy choice for all-Southern.

The Kentucky line will also feature two fine tackles in "Honus" Wagner, who outplayed Crawford, and "Big Bill" Jobe, 230-pounder. Besides Barclay, Jim Tatum and Eddie Kahn, seniors, are the biggest guns in the Carolina line.

his punts on a sloppy field.

The Carolina club performed brilliantly last week-end. Those stand-by stars: Captain Barclay, Jim Tatum, Ed Kahn, and Tom Evins. Two men came through in fine shape as reserves: Paul Pendergraft and Odell Childers. These men were instrumental in making such a fine stand against the Georgia Bulldogs on the one yard line.

Speaking of the Tar Heel defense. It was a surprise to the Georgia scouts. They were the men who went back home with the report: "Carolina has no defense—absolutely nil." The experts were Shivar and Smith, both all-American ends.

Now for the southern football games and the pickings: Carolina over Kentucky; Alabama over Tennessee; Maryland over V. P. I.; Tulane over Georgia; Vandy over Auburn; Dartmouth over Virginia; Rice over Creighton; Michigan over Georgia Tech; Princeton over W. & L.; Army over Sewanee; Furman over Mercer; L. S. U. over Arkansas; Duke over Davidson; Florida over N. C. State; Richmond over V. M. I.; and Mississippi A. & M. over Howard.

cult time in defeating Bill Harrison, but accomplished it in two hard sets, and will engage Sid Weinstein in the quarter final. Weinstein easily swept through Corwith and is expected to give the highly ranked Whitaker a great deal of competition when they match shots.

Archie Henderson was the other seeded upperclassman to advance, doing so at the expense of Charlie Poe and is now to combat Singer in another interesting contest.

Landow will meet Johnny Dowd and Byron Abels will engage the winner of the Stein-Gold match in the remaining two quarter final matches.

Freshman Division

The freshman contests went as expected with the four seeded men entering the round of eight with little difficulty. Eddie De Gray drove his way through Johnny Yeomans in two straight sets, and is now paired with Seymour Fast.

Ray Bartelman and Gene Robinson joined De Gray and Foreman with impressive victories over Hines and Outlaw respectively. Robinson, seeded second, turned in love sets in his victory, and is expected to defeat Elwell in his next appearance. Foreman encounters Stewart Parker, who has made a fine showing in the tourney with his three wins.

It appears that De Gray has had two serious obstacles removed from his path with the inability of Frankie Rericha and Ramsey Potts to compete. However, many a threat faces him and many are keeping their eyes on him to see if he can fulfill expectations. Abels will also have trouble in winning his division with many a skilled racqueteer gunning for his scalp.

All players are requested to play their matches this morning if possible. The results of yesterday's play:

Upperclassmen. First round: Stein over Kirsch 6-2, 6-3; Corwith over Frank by default. Second round: Landow over Fletcher 6-3, 8-10, 6-3; Whitaker over Harrison 6-3, 9-7; Henderson over Poe 6-4, 6-2; Singer over Clover 7-5, 6-3, 6-3; Weinstein over Corwith 6-1, 6-1; Dowd over Brown 6-2, 6-3.

Pool and Weathers
Will Speak at Duke

In continuation of the efforts of student leaders to promote good will and friendly co-operation between the student bodies of Carolina and Duke, Virgil Weathers and Jack Pool, presidents respectively of the student body and senior class, will address the Duke freshman assembly Saturday, October 27.

The visit by these representatives of Carolina is in reciprocation of a similar visit by Bill Burke, president of the student body at Duke, and Don McNeal, president of the senior class of that school.

Daniel, and another toss from Pool to Yandell accounted for the last trio of scores.

A long pass from Blanton to Spencer in the dying minutes of the game accounted for a 7-0 victory for A. T. O. over Sigma Chi. Blanton added the extra point on an end run. Both teams played fine defensive ball in the first half, with the victors finally making four first downs while holding their opponents to none.

S. A. E. uncorked a fine passing attack in its game with Chi Phi to come out on the long end of a 19-0 score, after being in the van 13-0 at half time. The winners gained four first downs and all the scores on passes from the hands of Harris and Allen, who also aided in the scoring with a touchdown and an extra point respectively. F. Bahnsen and Freeman went over for the other tallies.

With Phil Hammer pushing over a touchdown and Jennings being successful on a drop kick attempt for the extra point, St. Anthony came into its own to defeat Kappa Sigma in a well played contest. The winners out-gained the opposition four to three in first downs.
