

SORORITY SCORES HIGHEST GRADES HERE LAST YEAR

Chi Omega Leads All Fraternities in Scholastic Average; Sigma Delta Is Second.

S. A. E. WILL RECEIVE CUP

Chi Omega sorority, with a scholastic average of 2.41, led all the fraternities in scholarship for the year 1933-34, Dr. G. K. G. Henry, assistant University registrar, announced yesterday.

Sigma Delta placed second, with 2.62; but because the society is not a national fraternity, the men's fraternity scholarship cup was given to Sigma Alpha Epsilon, which scored 2.64, ranking third.

Basis of Rating

The scholastic averages were determined by counting grades on the basis of one point for a grade of "A," two for "B," three for "C," four for "D," five for "E," and six for "F."

Grades for 397 fraternity students were available in the fall quarter, 471 in the winter, and 547 in the spring.

The three leaders were followed in order by Chi Phi, Beta Theta Pi, Pi Beta Phi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The fraternity average was 3.03, as compared with the academic or general average of 3.12, the upperclassman average of 3.05, and the freshman average of 3.37.

1932-33 Scores

In 1932-33 Sigma Delta, scoring 2.16, led the list; Pi Beta Phi, with 2.46, was second; and Tau Epsilon Phi, leading the national fraternities with 2.66, won third place.

Figures for the spring quarter, released for the first time yesterday, showed Chi Omega scored 2.41, Sigma Delta 2.65, and S. A. E. 2.57.

This idea of a joint cabinet meeting of the Greater University is an outgrowth of President Graham's plan for the consolidation of the Greensboro, Raleigh and Chapel Hill units into the Greater University of North Carolina.

The new labor front will assist all members of both sides in the emergency and will help them to acquire real estate. Entertainment will also be provided in the free time labor front, considered a branch of the Nazi party.

Heath Stresses Need Of Knowing Economics

"The economist must understand thoroughly the tools of thought which are available for work in his field," Milton S. Heath said yesterday evening in addressing the economic seminar with a paper on the "Role of Economic History in Theory."

Heath stated that the burden upon economic theorists has increased tremendously during the last century as a result of the growth in complexity and scale of economic phenomena, and because of the weakening of reliance upon tradition and customary behaviors as guides to social actions.

"Though clarity is of greater importance than ever, simple systems that are easy to devise and teach are becoming of more doubtful value each day," the speaker said.

Ready, easy-going, uncritical reliance upon various methods, just because they have long been pursued, is inexcusable, Heath stated, pointing out that no contention is made that history has a value for social theory.

LEAGUE TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Foreign Policy Group Formed Last Year Will Assemble for First Meeting of Quarter.

The Student Foreign Policy league will hold its initial meeting for the 1934 fall quarter tonight at 7:15 o'clock in 215 Graham Memorial.

Student Expression

Opportunity will be given all students who attend these meetings to express their views in regard to the relations of the United States government with the governments of foreign nations.

The league does not aim at discussion alone, however. After discussion of the matter in question, the group will make a decision as to whether steps should be taken to press the views held by the organization upon those in authority.

Against Propaganda

Through debate and publication, the league attempts to combat the propaganda of interested groups, by seeking to bring to public notice the facts of the situation or problem in question.

One of the more important of the other aims of the group is the exchange of opinions and ideas with leagues and similar organizations in the state and nation.

League officers last year were: Ralph Gardner, president; Jack Pool, vice-president; and Robert Page, secretary.

'R. U. R.' TO OPEN CURRENT SEASON OF PLAYMAKERS

Comedy of Mechanical Men to Be Presented Tonight, Tomorrow, and Saturday.

SPECIAL SCENES ARRANGED

Karl Capek's "R. U. R." opens tonight at the Playmakers theatre at 8:30 o'clock.

The fantastic comedy of mechanical men will be the first production of the Carolina Playmakers for the current season. The show is billed for three nights: tonight, tomorrow and Saturday night.

Special Scenery

"R. U. R." is one of the most unusual plays the Playmakers have ever attempted, according to Frederick H. Koch, director. Wilbur Dorsett and Henry Pearson have succeeded in creating scenic effects that mark the play's modernistic effect. The twelve robots, spectacular in their futuristic settings, are machine-made men who act like humans.

The revolt of these mechanical men upon their inventors is hair-raising melodrama, and the story of man's probable annihilation and his fight to perpetuate human life is a convincing social satire.

Spann Plays Lead

Dr. Meno Spann, of the German department of the University, will play the male lead, Dormin. Helena Glory, daughter of the president of R. U. R., will be played by Ellen Deppe.

Officials of the company will be played by William Fletcher, Philip Parker, Pryor McFadden, Alan Waters, and Virgil Lee. Miss Sammie Ruth Bell plays Nana, Helena's maid.

The robots include Ann Norman, Ella Mae Daniel, Larry Anderson, David Lewis, A. L. Cheek, Harry Coble, Fred Howard, Don Pope, Guernsey Briggs, Phillips Russell, Joel Lasky, Richard Gabori.
