

Student Co-operative Members To Elect Directors Wednesday

Members May Name Additional Nominees

Harry Williamson, Jack Pool, Nat Townsend and Jimmy Rogers Are Candidates.

POSITION NOT SALARIED

The election of two new members to the board of directors of the Student Co-op association will be conducted Wednesday in the Co-op clothing store, Harper Barnes, chairman of the nominating committee, announced yesterday.

All student members of either the Co-op cleaners or the clothing store will be eligible to vote. A member of both groups may vote twice.

Nominees

The nominating committee composed of Barnes, Haywood Weeks, and Irvin Boyle, the present members of the board of directors, has nominated the following: Harry Williamson, Jack Pool, Nat Townsend and Jimmy Rogers. Any member may also nominate a candidate by turning in his choice at the clothing store.

The Co-op Cleaners first opened their doors here on January 3, 1934. The clothing store followed suit by opening for business here this fall.

Control Organization

These two concerns are operated under the supervision of a student board of directors composed of five members who determine the policies of both stores. All business must pass through the student auditor in Graham Memorial.

In connection with the current rumor that membership to the board of directors is a salaried position, Student Auditor Sherrill said: "To this time, no director has received one financial reward either from the cleaners or the clothing store. I have suggested, as an auditor, that the position be allotted a salary, but it has not been done."

"All the monthly reports of business are available to the public at all times," said the auditor, "and a public statement will be published at the end of the fiscal year on December 31."

Wanted: Country Boy Who Can Play Guitar, Cry Campus Players

Playmakers Need Star for Paul Green's "Southern Cross."

Though he might even be a freshman, a rollicking, romantic, guitar-playing young "country boy" would be an answer to the Carolina Playmakers' prayer, says Director Frederick H. Koch of the Playmakers.

Koch is looking for such a person to play the lead in the Playmakers' production of Paul Green's "Southern Cross," scheduled for December 6, 7, 8.

Rehearsals Tuesday

Rehearsals start Tuesday and the producing staff meets this morning to attempt to solve the problem.

Any student who thinks that he can fill the bill should "git his git-tar and git right over to Prof's office" in 113 Murphey, Koch said. "Out of 3,000 students, certainly one such individual can be found," he added.

The Playmakers are waiting until they secure this "country boy" before they decide definitely to stage "Southern Cross." The remainder of the large cast will be chosen at the regular try-outs next week.

CHEMISTRY 1 LAB PERIODS CHANGED

One 3-Hour Lab Replaces Two 2-Hour Labs per Week.

The laboratory in Chemistry I has been changed this quarter from two 2-hour periods per week to one period of three hours. It is possible with this arrangement to limit the sections so that no instructor has more than 20 students at a time.

In addition to the previous practice of requiring all work to be written up in the laboratory, this quarter all books are checked and corrected in the presence of the student before he leaves.

It has been found that practically as much work can be done in one uninterrupted three-hour period as can be accomplished in two separated 2-hour periods.

BERRYHILL URGES HEALTH CAUTIONS

Doctors Plan Series of Talks on Hygiene to Freshmen.

Addressing freshman assembly on the problem of the common cold yesterday, Dr. W. R. Berryhill estimated that on an average each person in the United States has two colds a year, lasting from three to five days each.

"If each cold causes the losing of one day's work," he said, "approximately two hundred and fifty million work days are lost per year."

Giving several examples, he showed how contagious a cold is, and said that it is a person's duty to avoid others as far as possible, when he has a cold.

Dr. Berryhill and Dr. Hedgpath are planning to discuss various hygienic measures at freshman assemblies. The talk for next Friday will deal with the cures for colds, continuing the discussion begun yesterday.

GERMANY FEARS SAAR OCCUPATION

To Remove Possible Excuse for French Aggression, Hitler Avoids Show of Force.

Berlin, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—A summary decree was issued tonight prohibiting all storm troops from appearing in uniforms along the Saar border between January 10 and February 10 as the German government prepared to fight French threats to send troops into the basin to preserve order during the January 13 plebiscite.

Meanwhile uneasiness prevails in both nations and in the basin itself as French and German citizens are busy denouncing the intentions of each other in connection with the territory.

Saar to Choose

Two months from now the people of the disputed province will take part in a plebiscite to determine whether they shall remain under the League of Nations, become a part of France, or return to Germany.

Reminding France that the international definition of the aggressor is one whose troops invade foreign soil, Hitler declared that the reported intention of the French to enter the Saar basin if called upon by the governing body of the League is an indication that France is contemplating the seizure of the region.

Hitler's action in forbidding his troops to wear uniforms on the border of the region is taken as an evasion of former agreements and an attempt to counteract the French without making any show of force at the same time.

INSULL ATTEMPTS SPIRITED DEFENSE

Broken Utilities Czar Drops Tearful Pose, Snapping Replies to Examination.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Samuel Insull in contrast to his tearful recital yesterday snapped back peevishly today at the persistent cross-examination of Leslie Salter, special assistant to the attorney-general.

Cross-examination disclosed that in 1929 Insull had taken $481,000 in salaries from twelve public utility companies in his control.

The same sources were reported to have brought the former power czar a total of $474,413 in 1930 and $486,767 in 1932.

Fair Pay

Admitting that he received the sums which were quoted, Insull replied by saying that the "laborer is worthy of his hire."

As explanation for his flight to Europe after his resignation in June, 1932, as a receiver for the Middle West Utility company, the aged defendant stated that he had fled to escape political persecution and to find rest and quiet after the ordeal of the depression.

He did not know, Insull said, that a prosecution was contemplated until he read of his indictment in a Chicago paper while he was in Paris.

Although the defendant appeared stronger in his denials of the charges against him and at times spoke with pride of his accomplishments, it was quite evident that he was tired when the court recess was called tonight.

Bells Not Out of Order; Just Being Tested

New Yorkers to Hear Duke Game and Chimes by Phone.

Contrary to the consensus of opinion, the chimes in the Patterson-Morehead memorial tower were not out of order when they played the quarter-hour melody for ten minutes straight yesterday.

On the other hand, they were merely being tested preparatory to be relayed by wire to an alumni banquet which will be given in New York on the day of the Duke-Carolina game.

While the carillonneur was wearing blisters on his hands pounding out the familiar notes which usually announce nothing more exciting than the fact that another 15 minutes have passed, the workmen for the telephone company were experimenting to find a point from which the recital that follows the game can best be picked up.

Due to the fact that Southern Conference games are not being broadcast this year, the alumni group in New York will have to part with a considerable sum in order to hear the play-by-play account of the game with Duke and the bell recital afterwards.

FEDERALS PROBE DILLINGER ESCAPE

Reported Confession Says Gangster Paid $3,900 for Freedom.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Investigation of Dillinger's so-called wooden gun escape from the Crown Point, Indiana, jail was in the hands of the Federal authorities tonight.

Department of Justice agents reputedly obtained a confession from the Chicago man who involved a Chicago lawyer, an Indiana police official, and a Crown Point man as having assisted in the escape.

The confession stated that Dillinger paid $3,900 for his escape and that the wooden gun was sent from Chicago instead of being made by Dillinger.

Comforts of Home

Students confined in the University infirmary will henceforth be offered a new "service" program sponsored by a Y. M. C. A. committee headed by Paul McKee.

McKee and his cohorts plan to give the sick students attention in the little details beyond the scope of the regular infirmary attendants. They will return or take out library books, run errands, bring the mail, etc. for the patients. McKee's work will tend to make life in the infirmary more attractive.

Bagby to Speak

Dr. English Bagby, professor of psychology, will speak, November 6, in Baltimore to the Baltimore Kindergarten Primary Club on "The Integrated Personality."

DEATH FOLLOWS LENGTHY ILLNESS

Father of University President Was One of North Carolina's Leading Educators.

FIRST ADVOCATED CO-EDS

Dr. Alexander Graham, 90-year-old father of President Frank Graham, died of a heart attack yesterday morning at his home in Charlotte.

Dr. Graham had been in failing health for several years, although he was well enough on September 12 to celebrate his 90th birthday with his son, the president, who went to Charlotte to see him.

A number of Chapel Hill people, including Dr. and Mrs. W. deB. MacNider and Dr. M. C. S. Noble, will go to Charlotte for the funeral services. The time of the funeral could not be learned last night.

Leading Educator

Alexander Graham, called the "father of Charlotte's schools," has been, like his son, a leading educator in North Carolina. The Alexander Graham school now stands in Fayetteville as a memorial to the man who served as the superintendent of Fayetteville's schools from 1878 to 1888.

Dr. Graham was for 25 years acting superintendent of the Charlotte city schools. In 1913 these duties became too heavy and he took the position of assistant superintendent. He was made superintendent emeritus in 1929.

Sons and daughters of former pupils of Dr. Graham now attend classes in a Charlotte junior high school bearing his name.

In Civil War

After the Civil war, in which 20-year-old Alexander Graham, transferring his activities from the classroom to the battlefield, fought one battle before being captured, Dr. Graham went to the University of North Carolina to complete his education. While here, he was captain of the baseball team and a member of Zeta Psi.

Dr. Graham was the first man to ask that the University accept girls as students.

He was the son of Archibald and Anne McLean Graham. Among his survivors are seven children and his widow, who was Katherine Bryan Sloan. Mrs. Shipp Sanders is one of his daughters. All his other children except one son, a surgeon, are prominent in education in North Carolina.
