

TALKS FROM ALL VIEWPOINTS END ANTI-WAR FORUM

Ericson Lays Problem Before Students; Blasts Their Lack of Idealism.

"FACE SHOCKING TRUTH"

The campus-wide anti-war conference came to a close late last night as a large crowd in Gerrard hall listened to speeches by Doctors Meno Spann and E. E. Ericson of the local faculty, Helen Clark, president of the Duke University League of Women Voters, Joseph Sugarman, editor of the Carolina Magazine, and Bill Levitt, member of the national executive committee of the national Student League.

Ericson, speaking on the topic of "Facism and War," brought the problem home to the college student by presenting the part he and this university play in the formation of attitudes toward war.

Liberalism in State

He expressed himself as discouraged by students in his classes who have no idealism. He disagreed with those who believe the people of North Carolina to be too ignorant to respond to intelligent arguments, and declared, "I have been surprised at the amount of liberal sentiment in North Carolina."

"The thing to do," he continued, "is to put the facts before the people, let them be shocked by them, and dare them to do the thing they think is not the truth."

Psychological Causes

Ericson was preceded on the program by Spann, who analyzed the psychological causes of war. He maintained that in the fundamental nature of man, there is a certain dullness and meanness which results in a hatred for other men whose ways of living are not the same as his own. Spann conceded that cultural and spiritual differences may grow out of racial differences, but he contended that international understanding could be brought about by eliminating man's innate meanness. This, he thought, could partially be attained through education.

Influence of Women

In line with Spann's talk was the one made by Miss Clark, who spoke on "Woman and War." She stressed the im-

Long Promises Starring Gridsters Titles

Players Outstanding Today Will Be Made Colonels.

New Orleans, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Huey Long informed Coach "Biff" Jones here today that he would make colonels of all the Louisiana State University footballers who distinguish themselves in tomorrow's game with George Washington.

This will place "Biff" in a unique position, because, after all his years of service to the army and football, he himself rates only a captain.

Now each of the coach's pupils who makes a touchdown tomorrow will outrank him.

Long also said that he would fix up special quarters for the adopted football team in the upper stories of the 35-story state capitol building.

Law Professor Will Aid In Oil Investigation

Breckenridge Is Appointed Attorney for House Probe.

The committee, headed by Representative W. P. Cole, Jr., of Maryland, will assemble in St. Louis tonight to leave for Oklahoma City for its first hearing. Other hearings will be held later in Texas and California. Breckenridge was associated with the House's interstate and foreign commerce committee in its recent oil and gas pipe line investigation.

The 75-piece organization, conducted by Earl A. Slocum, is one of the largest college bands in the state and is larger than other recent Carolina bands.

The trip to Davidson today will be the band's first opportunity this season to play away from Chapel Hill. Plans are being made to take the club to Charlottesville, Va., for the annual Thanksgiving football battle between Carolina and the University of Virginia.

All-American Alphabetic Aces Zoom And Zip Like Zestful Zebras

Football Followers Find Fairly Full Flock of Flashy Fellows Featuring Fastidious Fashions in Flamboyantly Fancy Families.

The annual selections popularly termed the all-American football teams are again beginning to flood the country. And as hard as we are pulling for Captain George Barclay to make that darn thing, it nearly broke our hearts when two such lists of selections came to our notice in the office yesterday and Barclay had been omitted from both. But after looking them over carefully, we think we have found the reason. It's all in his name!

It seems that out on the west coast "Uncle Jack" Oakie, has just completed a picture entitled "College Rhythm," which has a great deal to do with football. He got so enthused over the sport that he sat right down and picked an all-American to end all all-Americans.

Izzat Zo

His idea was that if "Z" is the last letter in the alphabet, then his team is the last word in football squads. Here it is: ends, Zarza (Michigan State) and Zornow (Rochester); tackles, Zucco (Colgate) and Zukas (Temple); guards, Zegolis (Wayne) and Zeigler (Dickinson); center, Zimmerman (V. M. I.); quarter, Ziegel (Michigan State); halfbacks, Zaleski (West Virginia) and Zayachek (St.

Dean A. W. Hobbs, Dr. G. C. Taylor, and Dr. N. B. Adams were elected to the faculty advisory committee. The election of these officers was accomplished only after three ballots had been taken.

The elections, together with the report of Secretary T. J. Wilson, Jr., University registrar, consumed the major portion of the two and one-half hour session.

Discuss Reorganization

No decision was reached by the faculty in the discussion of the plan presented by Dean Hobbs for the reorganization of the University curriculum with the addition of science courses.

There was a suggestion from the floor that the plan be deferred until the fall of 1936, when it would be put into effect with all the minor details worked out.

After desultory comment, questioning, and discussion, the plan was set aside for more discussion.

INFIRMARY HEAD CONTINUES TALKS
Berryhill Suggests Safeguards Against Common Cold in Second Address to Freshmen.
Dr. W. R. Berryhill of the University infirmary spoke again on the common cold at freshman chapel this morning in the second of a series of programs being given by the medical staff.

According to Dr. Berryhill, the purpose of the infirmary is to educate the students to a more intelligent understanding of and care of the body. He expressed the hope that by the time the class graduates it will have a good general idea of health problems.

Suggests Precautions
"In addition to the common methods of contact," Dr. Berryhill said, "cold virus may be carried by food. If the waiter has a cold, he may infect the eaters." After cautioning waiters in this respect, he told of cold virus conducting through clothes. The infirmary head urged the use of handkerchiefs in sneezing and coughing to diminish the possibility of infection.

"Castor oil will not cure a cold," Dr. Berryhill said as he exploded several popular cold theories. "A popular misuse of 'sweating out' a cold often increases its seriousness. Many boys after taking a gym workout go into the cold air to their dormitories, making the cold worse.

"No single medicine will cure a cold. Popular advertized cures may relieve the symptoms but can not cure the cold." Dean F. F. Bradshaw presided and Dr. O. T. Binkley, pastor of the First Baptist church, had charge of the devotionals. Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth will address the freshmen Friday.
