Eddie Doesn't Play Here Any More

Elmer Says Isham Jones Will Appear Here Minus Vocalist Stone.

We want to apologize to Elmer.

Who is Elmer?
We don't know.
Well, what has Elmer got to do with this story?

Elmer is the guy that wrote us a note yesterday in regard to the Isham Jones story in Sunday's paper.

Elmer says, if he may contradict our esteemed paper, that the lovers of unusual dance music may be interested in knowing that Eddie Stone will not be with Isham Jones when he appears here Friday and Saturday to play for the fall German club dances.

Eddie only left the band about two months ago and the DAILY TAR HEEL would not know about it at this time. According to Elmer a new addition to the outfit is trying very hard to take his place and is doing a pretty fair job, although it is a difficult task to replace such a vocalist as Stone.

However, says Elmer, we still have "Ish" and the smoothest dance music there is.

Thanks for the note, Elmer, and the correction. We might explain that the source from which we obtained our information was a publicity story sent us by the Columbia Broadcasting System. Apparently, they forgot that Eddie is no longer with the orchestra.

However, we agree with our unknown friend that the campus will have the opportunity to hear some of the smoothest dance music there is, regardless of the fact that Stone will be missing.

Write us again sometime, Elmer.

Exchange Made Between Duke University and Carolina.

The exchange of library card catalogues between the University library and Duke University library, which was made possible by a grant from the general educational board last spring, has been completed, R. B. Downs, University librarian, announced yesterday.

The duplication of cards was done by Remington Rand, Inc., who used the lexigraphing process, a photographic means of copying. This system was developed by Remington Rand while reproducing the card indices at the Library of Congress and at the Yale library.

The Duke library catalogue has been set up on the second floor of the University library in the west hall near the main reading room.

All books received currently by the two libraries are recorded in the catalogues, so that they may be kept up to date.

Receipts from Sale of Christmas Seals To Benefit Students

Money from Sales to Be Used for Tuberculosis Prevention.

Funds collected from the sale of Christmas seals among University students this year in the annual drive sponsored by the local finance committee of the tuberculosis association will be used for the fighting of tuberculosis on the campus.

Receipts from the sale of the stamps will be spent for tuberculosis preventative work and examinations among University students who can not possibly pay for treatment.

This new policy of the local finance committee of the tuberculosis association was announced yesterday by Mrs. A. M. Jordan, chairman of publicity of the group.

Need for such a fund to aid individuals in the University was indicated this year when Dr. W. R. Berryhill, University physician, asked the local committee to pay for X-ray examinations given to 15 students.

Officials of the committee expressed the hope yesterday that students will buy as generously as possible this year because of the new policy of disbursing the funds raised.

DUKE PROFESSOR DENOUNCES WAR

Dr. Russell Tells "Y" Cabinets To Prepare for Peace and Not for War.

"Some substitute must be found for those conditions from which wars grow," said Dean Elbert Russell, head of the department of religion at Duke, speaking on the subject "A Warless World" before a joint meeting of the "Y" last night.

"The principal system which shall restrain war is one that will adjust international relations and remove all of the elementary strife between nations."

Dean Russell denounced war as a method for solving international difficulties and stated that the entire world should be so united that none of this strife would exist.

Prepare with Peace

"In order to implement the peace agreements of nation," said Dean Russell, "there must be a system of gradual disarmament, because preparedness limits the chance of peace. In order to have peace we must prepare for peace."

Russell stated that if we are to have a warless world we must have a warless people. "As long as there is that quality in the peoples of the world which tends toward war, there will be war," he said. The economic situations of the various governments must be adjusted so that any trade trouble will be impossible.

In conclusion Dean Russell stated that "the Christian teaching of brotherhood is the only ultimate guarantee of a warless world."

The economic security committee, made up of four cabinet officers and Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, is working on a ten-point federal relief program which will be presented to the president before December 1.

Program of Committee

Unemployment insurance and old age pensions, the chief points in the program for social security, will probably come before the newly-elected Congress at its first session. Upon the effect of these two points will depend the fate of the other phases of the program.

STATE WILL TAX REYNOLDS' CHILD

Revenue Collector to Levy Inheritance Tax on $1,000,000 Left Anne Reynolds II.

Winston-Salem, Nov. 12.—(UP)—Judge P. A. McElroy of the Forsyth county superior court today set the hearing of the Reynolds case for next Friday, instead of November 28, as previously scheduled.

The state of North Carolina began its litigation today when McElroy signed an order allowing A. J. Maxwell, commissioner of revenue, to intervene to collect the inheritance tax which hasn't been paid from the estate of the deceased Zachary Smith Reynolds.

Millions Not Enough

In the meantime, the Cabarrus Bank and Trust Co., guardians for Anne Cannon Reynolds, II, will seek to have the million dollar trust fund which the state plans to tax set aside so that the child can share in the full estate of R. J. Reynolds, her grandfather.

The trust fund which is the bone of contention was set up by Smith Reynolds, deceased heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions, as a settlement on his first wife and their daughter, Anne II.
