

'Y' GROUP HEARS ROBSON DISCUSS U. S. ARMS POLICY

Government Department Professor Denounces Armed Intervention in Talk to Cabinet.

NO LAW ENFORCEMENT

"There are three questions which arise when we consider armed intervention," said Dr. C. B. Robson of the University government department speaking last night to the members of the junior-senior cabinet of the Y.M.C.A. on the subject "Should the United States Give Up Her Policy of Armed Intervention?"

These three questions are: What is armed intervention? Does the United States have a policy of armed intervention? If the United States does have a policy, what is it and how should we go about abandoning it?

International Law
Discussing the first question, Dr. Robson stated that "although there are international laws, there is no agency to enforce them." As a result the nations of the world resort to other methods of self-help and protection.

One of these methods is armed intervention, and often such intervention becomes involved and results in a war.

"I believe that such interventions as the interventions of the nations in the Boxer Rebellion, and that of the United States in Cuba, both for the protection of life and property, will continue

MARTIN TO LEAD BAND AT VIRGINIA

Substitution of Drum Major Is First Step in Preparing Four Men for Next Year.

Planning for next year's University band season, Director Earl A. Slocum announced yesterday that C. C. Martin, Charlotte boy, would perform the twirling feats as Carolina's drum major for Thursday's football game with Virginia.

Clarence Courtney, veteran drum major, will accompany the band on the trip, playing in the saxophone section. Courtney measures over six feet four inches and has been drum major here for the past two years. He received his band training in the Lenoir high school band at Lenoir.

Business Manager
Martin has played with the band for several years and now holds the office of business manager. Schedule conflicts this season have prevented his working in the new role before now.

Plans are being made for Carolina to have a drum major corps of four or five fast spinners next year to march at the head of the band. Martin's appearance Thursday will be the beginning of this new arrangement. Other drum majors are in training and are scheduled to appear next fall.

BAGBY SPEAKS

Dr. English Bagby of the University psychology department addressed the Current Events Club of Rocky Mount yesterday.

This club is one of the oldest organizations in the state. Dr. Bagby's subject was "Psychology Personalities."

Caldwell Starts Drive To End Sale Of Football Cards Here

City Manager Starts Action to Find Violators of North Carolina Law.

By STUART RABB
When City Manager J. L. Caldwell stated that, "The sale of football cards is the promotion of gambling, which is in violation of the North Carolina law," his remarks were based on fact.

Manager Caldwell stated yesterday that the clean-up drive had already begun. "The search for evidence," he said, "is now in progress, and when evidence is found, the actual clean-up will follow."

N. C. Law

In "The 1933 code of North Carolina Law," under the caption of "lotteries" may be found: "If any person shall open, set on foot, carry on, promote, make, or draw, publicly or privately, a lottery . . . he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not in excess of $2,000 and imprisoned not more than six months."

Also, the assistants in the schemes may be involved by the statement in the same code: "Any person who shall have in his possession any ticket, certificates, or orders used in the operation of any lottery shall be held liable under this section and such tickets shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this law."

Definition Given

And to clinch the case that the state might have against any alleged violation of this statute, Ballentine's "Law Dictionary" defines a lottery as "all schemes for the distribution of prizes by chance."

The elements necessary for conviction are "consideration," which may be defined as corresponding to the price for a football ticket; "prize," which might be any reward; and "chance," of which there is no lack in the card racket.

DI WILL DISCUSS DIVORCE TONIGHT

Senators Russell and Eagles Will Give Business Reports.

The Dialectic Senate will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in New West for its next to the last regular session of the quarter. Bills on the calendar for discussion at this meeting are as follows: Resolved, That divorce is a social asset; Resolved, That the policies of Huey Long are a menace to American democracy, and Resolved, That the 19th amendment be repealed.

Reports will be made by Senator Russell on finance and Senator Eagles on the Di-Phi dance of the past week-end.

Try-outs for the Mary D. Wright debate, scheduled for December 4, will be held tonight.

ENGINEERS' PUBLICATION TO APPEAR TOMORROW

The Carolina Engineer, official publication of the engineering department, will be distributed tomorrow during chapel period at Phillips and Venable halls, it was announced yesterday.

On the cover is a picture of the Yadkin river bridge near Salisbury. The frontispiece is a picture of Memorial hall.

There will be a meeting of the Carolina Engineer editorial staff at Phillips hall tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock.

UNIVERSITY CLUB RESEARCH GRANT

Storage Cell Study Made Possible Here by United States Naval Research Laboratory.

The United States Naval Research Laboratory of the Navy department at Washington has made available to the chemistry department a grant of money to carry on fundamental research on the thermodynamics of the lead-sulphuric acid storage cell.

The work will be under the direction of H. D. Crockford, associate professor of physical chemistry. He will be assisted in the experimental work by W. G. Sink, who holds a fellowship made possible by these funds. Sink, a graduate of Catawba College, has been a teaching assistant in the chemistry department.

Thesis Material

The results of this research will be used by the holder of the fellowship for thesis material towards an advanced degree.

At the present time the Navy department is maintaining three research fellowships: one at Columbia University, one at the University of Illinois, and one here.

A fellowship was also maintained at the University during 1932-33. This fellowship was held by D. J. Brawley, now with Merck and Company, Rahway, N. J.

Dr. Crockford has been employed by the United States Naval Research Laboratory at Washington for the past five years in connection with storage battery research.

Huse Will Lecture At Bookshop Today

Dr. H. R. Huse of the University romance language department will lead the discussion of "Anatole France" at the Bull's Head program this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Huse will consider "Anatole France and the American Scene," discussing the French writer's radical social theories. He will attempt to show how they have anticipated and influenced contemporary life and letters.

Dr. Huse will study France as a social critic, comparing his work to that of H. L. Mencken, former editor of The American Mercury and a noted iconoclast in contemporary writing.

Material for the lecture has been gathered by Huse for a forthcoming book on the Frenchman.

Finjan Copy Due Today

The deadline for all editorial copy for the last Finjan is due this evening at 6 o'clock. If there is no one in the Graham Memorial office, the copy is to be slipped under the door.

Four Injured as Cars Crash Near Here

None from Chapel Hill in Durham Road Collision Yesterday.

Four persons suffered minor cuts and bruises in an auto collision five miles out from Chapel Hill on the Durham road yesterday. None of the four were students or residents of Chapel Hill.

The injured were: Miss Lucille Davis, who sustained the more serious injuries of the group, and who is still confined to Watts hospital in Durham; Otis Matthews, Mrs. Louise Jones, and Mrs. Gladys Greenhill.

The last trio were released from the hospital soon after their arrival when their injuries were diagnosed as not serious.

The injured were en route to Chapel Hill from Durham in a Ford V-8 sedan. The crash occurred when their car came into violent contact with an Essex coach.

HOUSE CONTINUES ASSEMBLY TALKS

Administrative Dean Discusses Aspects of College Courses and Reviews.

Dean R. B. House continued his series of talks on the "Intellectual Life" at freshman assembly yesterday by discussing the permanent and immediate aspects of college courses.

Concerning the time aspects of courses, Dean House stated that some subjects which are not intended for study later must be looked on as "immediate." He then added, "The immediate task that lies before you now is the successful completion of the fall quarter's work."

Purpose of Review

Describing review as "stimulating the mind as to what has gone before," Dean House suggested that the student get alone and think over the intellectual content of his subjects.

"Begin your review in your mind," he said, "Then take your notes and your text book and continue the review."

The Reverend Watt Cooper, assistant pastor of the Presbyterian church, conducted the devotionals. Dean Bradshaw presided over the program.

Tuberculosis Seals

Part of every dollar spent for Tuberculosis Seals in the coming drive here will go to the national organization to help prevent tuberculosis in large centers of population.

Recent surveys have shown that from 50 to 100 per cent of the people living in cities show signs of having or having had this disease at some time or another.

"People who live in the less crowded areas," states Mrs. A. M. Jordan of the sales' publicity committee, "show a much smaller percentage of infection, but let them move to the cities and they are much more likely to become infected than are those who have always been city dwellers."

The local seal drive will begin December 10, and the goal is $400.

Taff Pledges

Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity has pledged D. T. Taff, the dean of students announced yesterday.

FRESHMEN WILL HEAR UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB

The University Glee Club will make its first appearance to the student body in freshman assembly this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The program will consist of popular and entertaining songs. Seventy-six members of the organization will be present.

The Glee Club will also present a program tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Hill Music hall.

BARNES TO SPEAK AT PHI ASSEMBLY

Campus Leader Will Discuss Last Week's Action on Anti-War Conference

Harper Barnes will speak and answer questions in regard to the bill to be introduced at the Phi Assembly tonight for the repeal of the last week's action by the group in condemning work of the Anti-war Conference.

The representatives of the Phi voted 25 to 23 in favor of the bill: Resolved, That the Phi Assembly condemn the work of the Anti-war Conference.

Annual Pictures

Pictures for the Yackety Yack will be made at the meeting tonight, and Speaker Smithwick urges all members to attend. There will also be a report from the dance committee concerning the Di-Phi dance which was held last Friday evening.

Winthrop Durfee of the constitution committee announced that he will push action for the printing of the new constitution in the form of a small booklet, one of which may be given to each member.

Another bill for discussion tonight is: Resolved, That all laws prohibiting the spread of birth-control literature be repealed.

Drama Group In Again; Out Again

Touring Troupe Will Play at Campbell College Tonight.

The Carolina Playmakers' touring troupe rolled into town Sunday night by special bus and rolled out again yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, headed for the last lap of their current tour season.

They were scheduled to play at Flora McDonald College at Red Springs last night and at Campbell College, Buie's Creek, tonight.

Eat Dust

The troupe appearance Sunday night was marked by tired faces and sore throats. Professor Koch and his gang had just eaten all the dust from Kinston to Frederick, Md., and back again, sleeping, eating and rehearsing en route.

Their special bus, covered with trappings and set pieces, had pulled through the first half of the tour successfully and still showed signs of being able to finish the course.

The troupe will return after the holidays in time for the Playmakers' production of Paul Green's "Shroud My Body Down" scheduled to play at the Playmakers Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. None of the cast for "Shroud My Body Down" made the tour, remaining here for rehearsals under the direction of Samuel Selden.

GRAHAM, MANNING WILL GIVE TALKS ON DUKE PROGRAM

Celebration of Anniversary of Duke Endowment to Take Place December 11.

EHRINGHAUS WILL SPEAK

President Frank P. Graham will introduce Dr. W. A. Jessup of New York during the evening program at the celebration of the anniversary of the Duke Endowment December 11 in Raleigh.

Many leading educators and other notables of the two Carolinas will be present at this celebration. Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus will deliver the address of welcome.

Cocke to Talk

Speaking with Dr. Jessup during the evening program will be Norman A. Cocke of Charlotte, vice-chairman of the Duke Endowment Board of Trustees, who will deliver the principal address.

Invitations have been issued to all full professors at the University. The evening program will begin at 7:30 p. m., and will be presided over by Frank Page of Raleigh. Copies of the detailed program may be had by applying to Charlotte headquarters of the Duke Foundation.

At the meeting of the hospital group at 2:30 p. m. in the Sir Walter Raleigh hotel, Dr. I. H. Manning of Chapel Hill will speak. The theme at this meeting will be "Group Payment For Hospital Care."

CAST IS CHOSEN FOR GREEN'S PLAY

"Shroud My Body Down" Is Scheduled for Production December 6, 7, and 8.

The complete cast for "Shroud My Body Down," Paul Green's new play which is to be presented by the Playmakers December 6, 7, and 8, was announced yesterday.

Professor Sam Selden, who recently directed "R. U. R.," is in charge of the play, and together with Wilbur Dorsett, is planning and executing the sets.

The principal actors are: Harold Baumstone, Mary Fowler Spencer, Sammie Ruth Bell, Patsy McMullan, Alton Williams, Robert Natchman, Robert du Four, and David McCachren.

The Cast

Baumstone, who has previously been cast in one-act plays, will take the part of Tapley, the old soothsayer, in the new play.

Fowler Spencer, who will be seen as Lora, the child-like daughter of Farmer Graham, played the title role at the last performance of "Agatha."

Taking her second part in public productions as Lady Jane in "Shroud My Body Down," will be Sammie Ruth Bell.

Patsy McMullan, who took part in every Playmaker regular production of last season, plays the part of Julie, the silent wife of Graham.

The role of Farmer Graham in the new play will be handled by Alton Williams, who formerly served as a member of the St. Louis Tour Company.

Robert Natchman, who plays Colin in the December production, makes his first appearance
