

KINGFISH'S COURT RULES CRESCENT CITY IS BANKRUPT

Court Appoints Receiver for City and Draws Municipal Purse Strings.

STANDARD OIL "PUNISHED"

New Orleans, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Huey "The Kingfish" Long spread his fins tonight in a farewell gesture and, with the aid of his friendly state supreme court, virtually threw the city of New Orleans into receivership.

He defied the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana and dared that corporation to withdraw from the state to escape his "spite" tax. He ignored a mass meeting of angry refinery employees who were faced with the loss of their jobs, and prepared to leave for Washington where he hopes to become a member of the new congress.

Supreme Court Acts

The state supreme court backed Long's decree by a vote of four to three, and named Judge A. L. Ponder of Amite as the would-be receiver for the city which refused to bow to Long's dictatorship and now is face to face with the "tyrant's penalty."

The order issued by the court prohibits the city from paying money to any person, firm, or corporation, until the proceedings are given a hearing on January 15.

"If the Standard Oil Company will buy all its crude oil from Louisiana," the Kingfish apparently reasoned, "We'll rebate the tax, or we'll rebate the tax on that part that is purchased from Louisiana oil fields."

LINDY HOUSEHOLD AIDED KIDNAPING, DEFENSE CLAIMS

Hauptmann's Lawyers Work Frantically to Combat Testimony Given by Flyer.

WEEK'S PLANS OUTLINED

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 5.—(UP)—With their backs to the wall, Bruno Hauptmann's legal defense staff declared today that a gang of criminals, aided consciously or unwittingly by members of the Lindbergh household, kidnaped and murdered the "flying colonel's" young son.

The German carpenter's battery of lawyers are working frantically this week-end to find means of combatting the startling testimony given the court yesterday by Colonel Lindbergh.

Ransom Extortioner

This testimony placed their client definitely in the role of ransom extortioner. The defense lawyers outlined to the United Press an equally amazing theory which will be offered next week.

They will attempt to show that Dr. J. F. Condon was a visitor to the scene of the crime before it was committed. They will crack down with vehemence on the story to be offered by Betty Gow.

With these two points emphasized, the defense intends to attempt to establish the theory that the crime was plotted in professional criminal circles, and that some of the major characters in the melodramatic prosecution actually became tools of the plotters.

Person Hall Will Open Soon As Campus Fine Arts Center

ATHLETIC PASSBOOKS

All students who have not received their athletic passbooks for the winter quarter may obtain them tomorrow or Tuesday, it was announced yesterday.

No passbooks will be distributed after Tuesday.

The tickets will be given out from the cashier's window in the University business office, first floor of South building.

'Y' WILL DISCUSS CRIME PROBLEMS

Tentative Program Schedule Will Be Presented at First Meeting of This Quarter.

A tentative schedule of programs for the Y. M. C. A. cabinets was submitted to officers of the groups yesterday and will be discussed at the regular cabinet meetings tomorrow night in the Y. M. C. A. building.

The subject upon which the programs have been organized is "Social Disorganization" and will embrace the various phases of the crime problem.

Meeting Tomorrow

The meetings tomorrow night will be given over to a discussion and planning of the quarter's work and to a re-organization of the internal procedure of the several cabinets.

Tentative programs include discussions on "What is Crime?", "Who is the Criminal?", "Punishments for Crime," "Prisons," "Juvenile Delinquency," "Pros and Cons of Capital Punishment," and "Modern Methods of Combating Crime." Professor Harold D. Meyer assisted in the formulation of the study.

Other programs will include talks by prison wardens, criminal investigators, ex-criminals, and crime experts.

Student Fees

Students whose names begin with F through J may pay their student fees at the cashier's window tomorrow.

The schedule for other students is as follows:

Tuesday: Students with names beginning with K through M.

Wednesday: Students with names beginning with N through P.

Thursday: Students with names beginning with Q through S.

Friday: Students with names beginning with T through V.

Saturday: Students with names beginning with W through Z.

WOLF TO MAKE TALK

The January meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, 714 E. Franklin street, Miss Cornelia Love announced yesterday.

Professor H. D. Wolf, who will address the club, has taken for his subject "Unemployment Insurance."

Feature Board to Meet

The DAILY TAR HEEL feature board will convene tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in 209 Graham Memorial.

Dr. Graham and Miss Leila Melchin Tell Raleigh Audience of Plans for Museum Here.

After having been in a state of reconstruction for almost a year, and the worst eyesore on the campus, Person hall will soon be completely restored and converted into an art museum. Plans for the development of the edifice as a center for the fine arts were disclosed by President F. P. Graham and Miss Leila Melchin, an officer of the American Federation of Arts, at the meeting of the North Carolina Art Society recently in Raleigh.

Begun in Savannah and spread to Chapel Hill and Charlottesville, the Southern Art Projects is concerned with establishing not only a depository for art treasures here, but a school of creative art as well. It has been pointed out that this school, if established, would match the departments of drama and music in fostering the study and appreciation of the fine arts.

Mrs. Katherine P. Arrington, president of the state art society and a generous contributor toward rebuilding Person hall, expressed the hope that in the future every community in North Carolina may have an art center.

Named after Person

Person hall, one of the oldest buildings on the campus, was

ALUMNI PREPARE PLANS FOR YEAR

University Speakers Emphasize Financial Condition of University at Local Meetings.

With the convening of the state assembly near at hand and the General Alumni Association business meeting scheduled for January 25, local alumni associations throughout the state are holding annual or semi-annual meetings to elect officers and to plan activities for the coming year.

As this is a legislative year, special emphasis is being laid by speakers from the University at these meetings on the financial situation of the University; and alumni are making plans for contacting legislators from their counties and acquainting them with the needs of the state educational institutions.

Work of Committees

Committees are also being appointed at these meetings to deal with prospective Carolina students from the state high schools and prep schools and to make plans for the co-operation of alumni groups with the director of the alumni loyalty fund.

During the month of December Wilkes county alumni were addressed in North Wilkesboro by Felix A. Grisette, director of the alumni loyalty fund; Dean of Students Francis Bradshaw and Alumni Association Secretary Mayron Saunders spoke at Rockingham in Richmond county; and Dean E. L. Cloyd of State College addressed alumni of the three institutions now included in the consolidated University gathered at Lenoir in Caldwell county.

Other Sessions Held

Other meetings were held in Lincolnton, Shelby, and Sylva. Coach Carl Snavely and Secretary Saunders will speak Thursday at a meeting in Greenville, S. C., to alumni of upper South Carolina, including former Carolina men from Spartanburg, Anderson, and Gaffney.

Coach Snavely will talk to Lee county alumni in Sanford, January 17; and he and Coach Robert Fetzer will make addresses in Concord before Cabarrus county alumni February 1.

Other meetings are expected to be held soon in Wilmington, Oxford, Charlotte, Mount Airy, and in Johnston and Pitt counties.

SCOUTS WILL CONVENE

There will be an important meeting of the Boy Scout committees of the Cherokee Council and others interested in scouting tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in 215 Graham Memorial, John F. Kenfield, chairman of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro council, announced yesterday.

Greyhound Officials Present Plan For Local Bus Schedule

EDITORIAL STAFF FIRED

Pending final authority from the editor, who is absent, Phil Hammer, chairman of the editorial board, announced yesterday that every member of the editorial board has been dropped from the staff.

Tryouts for the board will be conducted beginning tomorrow every afternoon the coming week from 2 until 4 o'clock.

FAMOUS CHEMIST WILL TALK HERE

Dr. H. C. Urey, Nobel Prize Winner, Will Be Guest of Local Sigma Xi Society.

Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel Prize winner in chemistry for 1934, will address the North Carolina Chapter of the Society of Sigma Xi here next Saturday night.

The Duke Chapter of Sigma Xi will be the guest of the local organization. The arrangements for the lecture are being made by Dr. E. K. Plyler, president, and Dr. H. D. Crookford, secretary of the North Carolina Chapter of the Society of Sigma Xi.

Dr. Urey is the third American chemist in the history of the Nobel Prize awards to receive the chemistry award. The prize was made for Dr. Urey's work on the discovery of deuterium, the heavy isotope of hydrogen.

Native of Indiana

Dr. Urey is a native of Walkerton, Indiana. He is a graduate of the University of Montana, took his Ph.D. degree from the University of California. He was the American-Scandinavian fellow in Denmark during 1923-24, studying under Niels Bohr at Copenhagen. He has served as an associate in chemistry at Johns Hopkins and has been

Water Resources Unit Moved to Raleigh

Division Has Been Stationed Here for Last Ten Years.

The Division of Water Resources and Engineering of the State Department of Conservation and Development which has been stationed at the University for the last ten years has been moved to Raleigh.

The creation of the division was the result of the work of Professor Thorndike Saville when he was a member of the University faculty. He began his investigations into the water resources of the state in 1919.

In 1925 when the Department of Conservation and Development located the division in Chapel Hill, Professor Saville was placed in charge.

"The transplanting of the division," comments the Chapel Hill Weekly, "may have some relation to the argument, which has been in progress for the last two or three years, over the question of moving the University's Engineering School from here to Raleigh. What puzzles Chapel Hill," the Weekly continues, "is why the move was made without persons intimately concerned having any opportunity to express either approval or disapproval."

CAMPUS TO SIGN WRITTEN PETITION

Proposed Route Would Connect Greensboro, Raleigh, and Chapel Hill.

CHEAPER RATES EFFECTED

Officials of the Atlantic Greyhound Lines met with a special committee appointed by the administration yesterday morning and presented a plan for the inauguration of a bus line from Greensboro to Raleigh via Chapel Hill.

The Greyhound officials submitted written petitions which will be circulated on the campus and presented to the North Carolina Utilities Commission in an effort to get a certificate for the inauguration of the new line.

Students Endorse Plan

The student committee heartily endorsed the program and made arrangements to have the petitions signed by University students who wish the new service. Members of the group were: Harold Bennett, Phil Hammer, Haywood Weeks, J. D. Winslow, and Dewitt Carroll.

The bus line submitted a schedule stipulating four buses to Raleigh and Greensboro daily, at rates measurably lower than now obtainable and at a greatly reduced travelling time.

Petitions to Be Signed

The hearing before the utilities commission will be held January 22. It is planned to have petitions presented also from Chapel Hill townspeople and

YALE PROFESSOR WILL MAKE TALK TOMORROW NIGHT

Dr. Meeks to Speak on "Problems of Present Day Architecture" in Gerrard Hall.

TALK TO BE ILLUSTRATED

Dr. Everett V. Meeks, dean of the school of fine arts at Yale University, will lecture tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall on "Problems of Present Day Architecture."

The public lecture, under the auspices of the Southern Art Projects, will be illustrated by means of slide pictures.

Professor at Yale

Dr. Meeks is professor of architecture at Yale and director of the Yale art galleries. He is a fellow in the American Institute of Architects.

The Southern Art Projects is an organization formed this year through a small Carnegie Corporation grant. It includes three institutions in the south, this University, the University of Virginia, and the Telfair Academy of Arts and Sciences at Savannah, Ga. President F. P. Graham is chairman of the executive committee.

Part of the program sponsored by the Southern Art Projects in co-operation with the University of North Carolina, the University of Virginia, and the Telfair Academy of Arts and Sciences at Savannah, Ga., is an exhibition of oil paintings by contemporary American artists in Hill Music hall. The exhibit was opened yesterday and will remain open through January 15. These paintings are borrowed from the Grand Central Galleries of New York City.

"Mama, Who Is That Man?"

Ed Lanier is a married man! He no longer bunks in the Y. M. C. A. He has an apartment of his own in Chapel Hill. A man of property.

Tired from a day's heavy work in the self-help bureau, the man of property whisked across the campus toward his new home. The thick, darkening air penetrated his overcoat. Good to have a home!

Into the apartment rushed Lanier. . . . Straight for the mushy chair and the DAILY TAR

HEEL. . . . Cool smoke. . . . Warm hearth fire. . . .

"Mama, who is that man?" The frightened baby girl on the carpeted floor crawled toward her mother who had just come from the kitchen—It was not Mrs. Lanier!

The man of property let go his smoke, crushed his paper, and started up to face the woman. A thousand apologies. . . . He had entered the wrong apartment!
