

GRAIL PRESENTS DANCE SATURDAY

Bill Allsbrook Will Furnish Music for First Affair of Winter Quarter.

The first Grail dance of the winter quarter series of three affairs will be presented Saturday night in the gymnasium from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Bill Allsbrook, ex-Carolina ace maestro, will bring his popular Carolina Club orchestra back to the campus to play for the dance.

Plays in Greensboro

Allsbrook's band, one of the best known of many excellent musical orchestras produced in Chapel Hill, left the campus last year for the Tintilla Gardens, Richmond, and is now in Greensboro for an engagement.

Simmons Patterson, manager of the social affairs given by the Grail, announced yesterday that tickets, which may be purchased for one dollar apiece, will be on sale at Pritchard-Lloyd's and at the door.

"You're Headed For Hell," Huey Long Tells Senate

Washington, Jan. 7.—(UP)—"You're headed straight for hell," Huey Long told the dignified United States Senate today.

Continuing his blunt and illiterate bombardment of all phases of the New Deal that happened to occur to him, Long charged Roosevelt with innocently dealing with New Orleans figures who, through real estate transactions, were connected with vice operations.

FINJAN MEETING

There will be a meeting of the editorial staff of the Carolina Finjan in the office of the publication at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night. All members are asked to be present.

P. A. Seniors

All seniors in the school of public administration who expect to receive their degrees in June are requested to call at 108 Alumni building sometime this week to fill out an application for a degree.

Folk Dancers

There will be a meeting of the folk dancers in Peabody hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock it was announced yesterday.

GRAIL MEETS TONIGHT

The Order of the Grail will meet at 10 o'clock tonight on the second floor of Graham Memorial, George Moore announced last night.

E. R. A. WILL SOON THROW OPEN 43 TENNIS SURFACES

Asphalt, Clay, and Concrete Courts to Be Completed.

An announcement from the ERA division in Orange county reveals the encouraging news that 43 tennis courts will soon be thrown open to the student body.

The courts will be completed for the spring quarter and the complaint of congestion will be forever stilled. The entire tennis colony is divided into three sections; south, middle and north.

The southern section will have 13 asphalt and 6 clay playing surfaces. The middle will be composed of 6 asphalt, 2 concrete and 6 clay courts, most of these having been in use last quarter. The remaining northern division will be solely asphalt courts, 10 in all.

These 43 courts will be a great aid to the future tennis stars that were hampered by the lack of courts in their quest for fame.

WOLF SPEAKS TONIGHT

Professor H. D. Wolf will deliver an address on unemployment insurance at 8 o'clock tonight before the American Association of University Women here.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, 714 E. Franklin street.

SCIENCE SOCIETY ISSUES JOURNAL

Elisha Mitchell Society, Observing 50th Anniversary, Publishes Papers by Professors.

In commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society, a journal of scientific papers has been published, it was announced yesterday.

The journal was edited by a committee under Dr. W. C. Coker, and contains several documents by University faculty members. Among these is a paper by Dr. Archibald Henderson of the mathematics department which he presented at the anniversary celebration in Gerrard hall.

Lasley Collaborates

Dr. John Lasley, Jr., also of the mathematics department, collaborated with Dr. Henderson on another paper featured by the journal entitled "Mathematics Praetermissa."

According to Dr. E. T. Browne, an article "of great importance" is an index of papers presented by scientific men of the University from its founding in 1795 to the present day.

The journal does not deal exclusively with mathematical subjects, but follows all scientific fields embraced by the honorary society.

EVANS SPEAKS TONIGHT

The Philological Club will meet tonight in the lounge of the Graduate Club at 7:30 o'clock.

Wilfred Evans will speak on "African Dialects and Folk-Lore."

Evans was born in South Africa and is acquainted with many African dialects.

SYNCOPATED HUDDLE

CAROLINA BOXERS SHOW FINE FORM

(Continued from page three) volunteered to help when there was a shortage of available sparring partners, showed up surprisingly well against his more experienced opponent.

O'Flaherty was the aggressor in his two-rounder against McDonald, and swarmed all over the bigger man. McDonald did display some fine accurate jabbing.

Ernie Eutsler, last year's 119-pounder and now fighting featherweight, turned out for yesterday's practice and showed good form in his short workout. "Party Boy" Diehl, who has been ill recently, was around the ring yesterday taking it easy; there is a chance that the 119-pounder will be ready to shoot the works in his opening encounter Saturday.

Another victim of sickness, Bill Shores the slugging freshman, was in the Tin Can getting

It Could Be

Can it be the breeze? Or is it the thought of starting school again that caused more students to be confined in the infirmary yesterday than have been since the beginning of the fall quarter?

Those students confined yesterday were: R. J. Lovile, Melvin Gillie, Albert Share, J. H. Knight, M. D. Savin, C. E. Van Horn, Leon Goodrich, W. R. Weaver, Robert Puig, J. W. Mosier, Jean Cantrell, J. H. Raney, C. R. Fry, J. G. Klingerman, A. J. Zink, Tom Hines.

Walter Gordy, Mae Smith, E. G. Austin, Denmuth Spivey, Lester Ostrow, C. C. Bennett, Romaine Howard, David Spelt, C. G. Atwood, V. M. Bundy, Ed Kahn, J. B. Carne, G. W. Armfield, Henry Bartos, and Stewart Coffey.

back into shape, and he too should be physically fit when the bell rings for his setto.

MULLIS SELECTS PROGRAM BOARD

Martin Appointed Chairman of Freshman Committee to Plan Assembly Meetings.

A freshman class program committee has been appointed, it was announced yesterday by Clyde "Pete" Mullis, president of the first-year students.

The committee is headed by Drew Martin as chairman, and has the following members: Stuart Leake, Warren Haddaway, Crowell Little, and Paul Wolfe.

Assembly Programs

The group will determine freshman chapel programs and other feature programs for first-year men.

Any freshman who has suggestions for possible programs during the winter quarter is asked to get in touch with a member of the committee.

As the group wishes to furnish programs which will be enjoyable to all, it will be necessary for the class to co-operate in planning them, President Mullis asserted.

Scientific Society

The 357th meeting of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society will be held in Phillips hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Dr. John W. Lasley, Jr., of the mathematics department, will talk "On The Integration of Monge's Differential Equation." "The Structure of the Coastal Plane" will be discussed by W. F. Prouty of the geological department.
