

JAFSIE TESTIFIES HAUPTMANN SLEW LINDBERGH CHILD

Condon Swears German Stole
And Murdered Baby and Then Took Ransom.

DEFENSE COUNSEL FIGHTS

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 9.—(UP)—John F. "Jafsie" Condon pinned the red badge of guilt on Bruno Hauptmann today when he accused the German of kidnaping and then murdering the Lindbergh baby before taking the $50,000 ransom at a Bronx cemetery.

Other witnesses have identified Hauptmann's voice, face, and handwriting, but Condon swore that Hauptmann climbed the ladder into the Lindbergh home and stole the baby from the crib.

Condon Sure

Condon said he was sure of this, because, in a conversation he claims to have had with Hauptmann at Woodlawn cemetery, he showed the prisoner two safety pins, and asked him if he knew what they were. "Jafsie" said that Hauptmann told him that they were the pins that fastened down the covers in the Lindbergh baby's crib.

The defense counsel fought desperately to implant in the minds of the jury that Condon, himself, was involved in the kidnap conspiracy.

Received Ransom

Condon then testified that Hauptmann was the one to whom he passed the $50,000 ransom at St. Raymond's cemetery. Condon will take the stand again tomorrow for further cross-examination.

The defense moved to have the court declare a mistrial today, but was overruled. They took the action on the contention that Attorney-General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey, who is prosecutor-in-chief, had made

Versatile Frantz Is Accorded Praise As Instrumentalist And Interpreter

Young Pianist, Scheduled to Play Here January 23, Has More Than Technical Skill.

Dalies Frantz, distinguished young American pianist, who will be heard here January 23, is noted both as instrumentalist and interpreter. A musician of versatile resource, he is equally at home in the brilliant virtuoso style and in music of poetic depth.

His playing of the E flat concerto of Liszt brought from a Detroit reviewer: "Mr. Frantz startled an enthusiastic audience with his lightning technique." In Boston it was said of the artist: "He has not only dazzling technique, he has masterful strength at the keyboard."

Inspired Playing

As a master of deep poetic import, he receives such terms of commendation as these given in New York: "The playing of the inspired slow movement spoke generously of the young artist's poetic feeling and his imagination," and again, "strongly felt but intelligently controlled emotion."

The willingness to sacrifice personal glory and merge his own identity with that of the composer in an inspired work marks the character of this young musician. Frantz's independent spirit, coupled with his love and appreciation of fine music, led him to play the Beethoven C major concerto, a work which for many years other artists had ignored or had not risked playing. The Beethoven had been passed by in favor of concertos deemed sure to bring

Duke Professor Talks
On Mental Telepathy

Dr. J. B. Rhine of Duke University lectured informally to the members of Alpha Psi Delta, University psychology fraternity, here last night on "Experiments in Extra-Sensory Perception."

Dr. Rhine, who has made a study of this subject over a period of three years, has just recently published a book, "Extra-Sensory Perception," which has attracted considerable interest and was mentioned in an issue of Time, the news weekly, not long ago.

The Duke professor centered his talk around the results of demonstrations conducted by him in clairvoyance and mental telepathy. With the aid of cards, marked on which are simple symbols such as stars, rectangles, and circles, Dr. Rhine has been able to show that "good" subjects average better than chance in designating the correct symbols in tests of clairvoyance and mental telepathy.

GRAIL TO BRING LECTURER HERE

Order Will Financially Sponsor
Speaker for Spring Human Relations Institute.

The Order of the Grail announced yesterday that it would financially sponsor a speaker of national prominence on the program of the quadrennial Institute of Human Relations to be held here this spring.

The speaker, whose part in the program will be included with those of many other famous personalities, will be chosen by the order and will be negotiated with by the arrangements committee of the institute. Charles Poe is chairman of this committee.

Interest Manifest

The action of the Grail came as a result of intense interest which has been manifest on the campus in anticipation of the spring institution. Other campus groups have co-operated financially and personally in preparing the program for the five-day institute.

Announcement of other speakers who have been obtained by the institute committee for places in the program will be made soon. Thus far several definite invitations have been accepted by prominent authorities in the fields of social, theological, and economic science.

Harry Comer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., said yesterday that it was the sponsorships by various organizations which contributed heavily to the array of great speakers who appeared on the program of the famous institute which was held here in the spring of 1931.
