

SOLONS PRESENT EIGHT-POINT PLAN FOR NEW BANKS

Monetary Reformists Outline
Program for Government-Owned Agency.

WANT PAYMENT OF BONUS

Washington, Jan. 16.—(UP)—Monetary reformists led by Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, and Father Charles Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, united their forces tonight on a program for the creation of a government-owned central bank, with the value of the dollar cut loose from any fixed relationship to gold.

The group formulated an eight-point program calling for the conversion of the 12 federal reserve banks into one central bank, government owned and operated, with complete control over issuing currency.

Other Plans

The reformists also advocated the remonetization of silver, detachment of the dollar from fixed relationship to gold, cash payment of the soldiers bonus, and control of the dollar value through the operations of an equalization fund.

The program also calls for a congressional investigation to discover who held the outstanding governmental obligations on January 1, 1935. If names of the holders of these bonds and other securities are made public, it will reveal the veritable location of the nation's credit.

The group's plans also call for the issuance, by the central bank already described, of non-interest bearing notes of legal tender to replace the present issuing of tax-exempt, interest bearing bonds.

COUCH AND COKER TO SPEAK ABROAD

University Botanists Are Asked
To Read Papers at International Convention.

Dr. W. C. Coker and Dr. John Couch of the University botany department have recently received invitations to read papers before the Sixth International Botanical Congress, which meets in Amsterdam, Holland, September 9-14, 1935.

Dr. Coker will speak on "Water Molds," scientifically termed "Saprolegniaceae," about which he has written a book that was published by the University Press in 1923.

New Discoveries

Considerable research is being carried on in this field by Dr. Coker and by students here under his direction. In the last few years several new species of water molds have been discovered by him and his assistants.

The paper to be presented by Dr. Couch, who spoke before the last congress also, will deal with his specialty, Septobasidium. This is a fungus living parasitically on scale insects, remarkable because, although it is a parasite, it is beneficial to the insects, protecting them and prolonging their lives. Dr. Couch is a world authority on this subject.

NO FIRE!

The fire scheduled to have taken place in Venable hall last night was a false alarm. There was plenty of smoke but no fire.

Helen McGraw.

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Lamar Stringfield, and featuring Miss Helen McGraw as piano soloist, presented the first in the winter series of concerts Tuesday evening in Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh.

A program of balanced compositions from the pens of eminent contemporary composers as well as the works of the masters was presented. The entertainment was built chiefly, however, on the works of American composers, featuring such well-known names as Gershwin, Hadley, Gottschalk, Mason, and Stringfield.

Miss McGraw, a native of Washington, D. C., received an ovation for her artistic interpretation of George Gershwin's outstanding contribution to the literature of modern American music, "Rhapsody in Blue."

Stringfield also introduced three compositions which have not been given hearings in this part of the state before. They were the great Russian composer Moussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain," a fiery brilliant impressionistic work; the "Banjo," a composition by the first recognized American composer, Gottschalk; and "Susannah," a work for string orchestra, especially written by Dr. Daniel Gregory Mason for the North Carolina Symphony's recent festival in Winston-Salem.

Other compositions, more frequently heard in this section were the "Overture to Oberon," by Weber, the "Young Prince and the Princess" from "Schererazade" by Rimsky-Korsakov, the "Angelus" of Henry Hadley, Jean Sibelius' "Finlandia," and Stringfield's own "Cripple Creek," presented as an encore.

Pianist to Feature Classical and Modern Selections.

Dalies Frantz, young master of the keyboard, who will appear here next Wednesday evening at Memorial hall under the auspices of the Phi Mu Alpha musical fraternity, will present a program featuring modern as well as classical compositions.

The young artist, who has met such marked success with the better known symphonies in the larger forms of pianistic compositions, is equally at home in recital. He has been heralded as the greatest modern interpreter of Bach, and the music lovers of the community anticipate with interest Frantz's playing of three of the great German composer's finest works.

Three Groups

The program has been divided into three separate groups, opening with the "Gigue in G Major," the "Chorale in G Minor," and the "Organ Fugue" by Bach. Included also on this first group are the Brahms's "Intermezzo" and the "Rondo-Perpetual Motion" of Weber.

The artist's second group contains but one composition, the brilliant B Minor Sonata by Franz Liszt. It is in four movements, to be played without pause.

In the third group of selections, Frantz has arranged a number of lighter compositions which should appeal to the less serious-minded lovers of the art. These compositions embrace the works of Schubert, Petraro, Chopin, Prokovieff, and De Falla.

Tickets for the concert, which will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock, may be obtained at the office of the University music department, Hill Music hall.

ERWIN TO MAKE SPEECH TONIGHT IN GERRARD HALL

Government Official Will Speak
On "Curriculum Building in North Carolina."

TO START TALK AT 8 P. M.

Clyde A. Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction, will speak at 8 o'clock tonight in Gerrard hall on the subject, "Curriculum Building in North Carolina."

Superintendent Erwin, who was formerly in charge of the Rutherford county schools, was appointed to his present job by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus in October. He replaced the late A. T. Allen.

First Visit

The state school head comes to Chapel Hill for his first official visit at the invitation of the citizenship committee of the Chapel Hill Community Club. Mrs. G. B. Logan, Jr., is president and Mrs. C. E. McIntosh is chairman of the citizenship committee.

It is a little known fact that the head of all the schools in North Carolina attended college for only one year. His early life was one long struggle against poverty. After graduating from high school at 16, Erwin contrived, by dint of ceaseless hard work as a country school teacher, to save enough money to enter the University in 1915 as a self-help student.

But the needs at home were too great, and Erwin was obliged to return after only one year at Chapel Hill. He became the principal of a small school in South Carolina.

In 1918, however, the educator returned to North Carolina and by 1925 had been elected superintendent of the Rutherford county schools. He held this position until appointed to his present office last October.

PLAYERS TO GIVE 'THE YOUNG IDEA'

Davis Will Direct Noel Coward
Play; Three-Day Run Will Begin January 1.

"The Young Idea," Noel Coward's bright English comedy which will be the third production for the current season of the Carolina Playmakers, is set for a three night run at the theatre, January 31, February 1 and 2.

Following Carl Kapeck's sensational "R. U. R." and Paul Green's dream-play, "Shroud My Body Down," Coward's sophisticated drama will give the Playmakers' audiences a chance to breathe freely again.

Davis to Direct

"Hay Fever," another Coward play, was produced successfully last year by the Playmakers. Harry Davis who directed "Hay Fever" has been given the job of handling "The Young Idea."

Davis and his cast, which includes a number of veteran Playmakers, have begun rehearsals for the coming production. Ellen Deppe, one of the feminine leads, has caused considerable worry among the producers this week by remaining in the infirmary with an attack of influenza.

Rehearsals Continued

Philip Parker, David McCachren, and the remainder of the troupe are continuing rehearsals (Continued on page two)
