Gaskins Will Present Latest Effort in Valentine Cover; to Feature Pages 12, 27.

Editor Patrick Gaskins' latest effort to fill up 28 pages of slick paper will appear tonight under the usual "Finjan" heading, said he yesterday.

Lovey Dovey Cover

Under a blanket of red and white frills, presenting Bill Grimes' valentine ideal, the new Finjan makes its appearance. Gaskins pointed with pride to the work of the Charlotte freshman who prepared the cover for the current issue.

Phil Link, another freshman, came through with a number of Finjanish cartoons, according to Gaskins. Black ink was used throughout, with page 27 in bold-face.

The scandal column of the Valentine issue will be found on page 12 and must be taken with a grain of Morton's.

Tom Collins' column appears as usual, according to the editor, who sighed with relief when he confessed last night that only three more issues of the humor publication remain on his deflated chest.

COURT WILL CITE STUDENT DRIVERS WITH WARRANTS

Out-of-State Drivers Must Buy North Carolina Licenses Within Short Time.

RESIDENCE NOT INVOLVED

Warrants will be issued against those students who have been cited to court for failure to buy local tags and have not appeared during the last two sessions, it was announced yesterday by Prosecuting Attorney Roy W. McGinnis.

The warrants will demand appearance at a recorder's court next Tuesday for violation of the town ordinance. Yesterday a student was found guilty of speeding through the intersection of Columbia and Franklin streets during hours in which school children have to pass. A fine of costs was placed on him.

Residence

"After a thorough investigation," McGinnis said yesterday, "I found that the point of residence was not involved. The law concerning the local tags hinges upon the operation of an automobile consistently in the city limits while pursuing some course of employment or in pursuit of some useful and necessary work."

McGinnis implied by this that persons operating cars in the town limits are subjected to the statute whether they live on the campus or not.

Warning out of state students operating cars he said, "It will be a matter of short time until people, not necessarily students alone, who continuously operate automobiles within Chapel Hill will be required to buy North Carolina state tags even though they wear 1935 tags from other states."

"Through comity, the North Carolina law allows automobiles bearing out-of-state tags to be operated within the state for a period of two months before having to buy North Carolina license plates."

Granville Says Little Theatres Are Narrow And Amateurish

Noted English Actor Says That Whether a Student Is to Become Bond Salesman, Doctor, Engineer, or Business Man, He Needs Dramatic Experience; Deplores Lack of Interest.

"Little theatres, as a rule, are too amateurish," said V. L. Granville, distinguished English actor who recently presented impersonations of the principal characters from the drama of all time.

"I think the little theatre movement should be established on a broader basis," went on the actor as he arranged wigs and sorted out beards and moustaches. "At present, the movement is too insular, but if little theatres should develop into semi-professional organizations employing professional actors with supporting amateur casts, then the movement may become the renaissance of the future theatre."

"But do not many professional actors come from the little theatres?" the Englishman was asked. "Yes, that is just the trouble," replied Granville in his genial manner. "You can't blame them for going where they can earn a living, but if a few polished actors were well paid for their work in the little theatres the whole tone of the

Boxers' Fates Undecided In Long Council Session

Hauptmann Trapped As Grave Testifies

Resurrect Past from Life of Fisch, Dead Partner.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Isidor Fisch spoke from the grave today and told a tale that trapped and tangled Bruno Hauptmann into admitting that he had spent the last three years passing from one shabby lie to another.

They raked up from everywhere all there was to know about Isidor: Where and how he lived; how much money he had; when and where he died; what he and Hauptmann did in the years when they set out to try to earn twenty per cent returns on a fur business and then beat the stock market on the profits.

Then Attorney General Wilentz asked Hauptmann to explain a score of contradictions. Hauptmann lifted his hands helplessly and muttered "I don't know what I said."

DI HEARS NEGRO TALK; ASSEMBLY ELECTS SPEAKER

Ellis to Lead Phi Discussions Next Quarter; Society Opposes Action on Boxers.

PHI FAVORS WORLD COURT

The regular procedure was dispensed with in the Di Senate last night to give free rein to a discussion on the race problem and the future of the Negro, led by Robert Griffin, a North Carolina Negro, graduate of Lincoln College in Pennsylvania, and now engaged in research with Guy B. Johnson, professor of sociology here.

Griffin declared that the real emancipation of the Negro can come only through his gradual education and the education of the white man to the proper attitude toward him. He stated that the solution does not lie in the assimilation of the Negro by the white man; that could never be anything but one-sided.

The Senate was informed that the Negro in North Carolina cannot, according to the state constitution, attend the white schools and colleges. The constitution states that there shall be equality of education but that the Negro and the white man shall gain their equal educations in separate institutions.

Phi Elects Ellis

Albert Ellis was unanimously elected speaker of the Phi for the spring quarter at the assembly meeting last night.

By a three to one majority, the assembly voted "yea" on the bill, Resolved: That the action of the administration officials in withdrawing two Carolina boxers from the Virginia meet was unjust.

The assembly also favored by a large majority the bill that the United States enter the World Court.

The bill, Resolved: That the lecture system is preferable to other systems of teaching, was defeated by a vote of 13-10.

The date for the assembly's trip to Raleigh to observe the legislature in action has been set for Monday night at 6:45 p. m.

At 1:30 This Morning Councilmen Still Discussing Problem.

Convene 10:00 Last Night; No Decision As Paper Goes To Press.

COUNCIL HAS FREE HAND

At ten minutes before two this morning, as the Daily Tar Heel's forms were about to close with the story that the two boxers' fates had been undecided during a protracted session of the Student Council word was received that O'Flaherty was placed on Student Council probation and Medynski was absolved completely.

The news came too late for any alteration of the front page, other than this bold face news flash.

At the time the DAILY TAR HEEL went to press last night the Student Council, still in session, had come to no decision in the cases of Jules Medynski and Tom O'Flaherty, Carolina boxers.

The council convened at 10 o'clock for the purpose of coming to a definite decision in the matter, but at 1:30 was still engaged in debate.

Do definite information was obtainable about the proceedings up to the time the paper went to press.

The case came up last Friday when the residence status of Jules Medynski, Tom O'Flaherty and Max Novich was questioned.

Since that time efforts have been made to straighten the matter out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

SENATE DEFEATS COURT PROPOSAL

R. F. C. Program Extended Two Years as House Votes; Bill Must Return to Senate.

Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—American isolationists won a smashing victory in the Senate tonight when a resolution calling for the nation's adherence to the World Court was defeated by a vote of 52 to 36, seven less than the necessary two-thirds.

Twenty Democrats, fourteen Republicans, one Farmer-Laborite, and one Progressive voted against the Court measure. Forty-three Democrats and nine Republicans voted in favor of it.

Question Foreclosed

Majority Leader Joe T. Robinson who has directed the administration's fight during the three weeks of bitter debate said that the vote "foreclosed the question from further consideration at least for an indefinite period."

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican, California, said, "I am delighted. Not a man we counted on went back on us."

Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—The House tonight passed a bill extending the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation two more years and liberalizing the number of loan features of the R.F.C. act.

There was no opposition to the bill. A similar proposal had been passed by the Senate, but because of the number of changes made in the House, the bill must return to the upper body for final action.
