

ATTORNEY REILLY SAYS WITNESSES ARE INTIMIDATED

Ex-Convict and Bootlegger Testify for Hauptmann; Support Mrs. Hauptmann's Story.

HANDWRITING EXAMINED

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Defense Attorney Reilly said tonight that seven prospective defense witnesses have been intimidated by persons representing themselves as from the State of New Jersey.

He declined to make known the names of tomorrow's witnesses.

Today testified Lou Harding, ex-convict, who claimed he saw a ladder in the car of a gang who asked him where the Lindbergh house was. According to the witness, Hauptmann was not in the car.

Seen at Bakery

Louis Kiss, ex-bootlegger, said he saw Hauptmann in the Fredricksen bakery on the kidnaping night. August Von Henke also asserted that he saw Hauptmann near the bakery on the same date.

The defense late today began a cross-examination of Handwriting Expert J. M. Trendley of East St. Louis. He will resume the stand tomorrow.

The court was astounded yesterday when a blond-headed Swedish "surprise witness," Elbert Carlstrom, testified that upon his birthday, March 1, the night of the kidnaping, he saw Hauptmann in the New York bakery. Wilentz, prosecuting attorney, was unable to find a flaw in the testimony as the youthful carpenter countered a barrage of trapping questions with smiling answers.

University President Was Joined by 400 Citizens in Declaration Made Six Years Ago.

OUTLAWED CHILD LABOR

Pertinent to the present consideration of the ratification of the child labor amendment is the declaration of a modern bill of rights made by North Carolinians about a half dozen years ago.

In 1929 over four hundred citizens of North Carolina joined President Frank P. Graham, then a professor of history, in a simple statement in behalf of the freedom and rights of working people in common with all citizens to assemble, speak, and publish their views, organize in unions and bargain collectively.

Follows Strike

The statement followed upon the strike and turmoil which shook the state in those years. By some this statement was considered a sort of Communist manifesto. Now it would be considered the simple, social gospel of the new era.

The four hundred and more representatives of the religious, business, agricultural, civic, and educational life of the state in this statement also declared for the reduction of the long work week, the abolition of night work for women and minors, a stronger state child labor law, and provision for a more effective department of labor.

This statement has come to life many times since those bitter days of the last decade. Its principles were quoted by the president of the State Federation of Labor with the citation of the 400 names against the anti-syndicalist bills of the last two legislatures. It has come to life again now in that declaration of over 400 citizens, representing every section and group in the state, for a stronger state child labor law.

CHAIRMAN NAMED FOR SENIOR WEEK

Senior Executive Committee Puts Patterson in Charge.

In its regular weekly session, the senior executive committee last night appointed Simmons Patterson, outstanding senior, to head the committee in charge of senior week, according to President Jack Pool, who presided at the meeting.

The date for the special week was set for the same week during which the Junior-Senior dance will be held.

The executive group decided that the class should have some form of outing during senior week and also an exclusive entertainment program in Memorial hall.

The finance committee was asked to make a report at the next executive committee meeting, according to Pool, and its findings will then be presented to the class for approval.

Freshman Dance Group

The meeting of the freshman dance committee originally scheduled for last night has been postponed until this evening at 7 o'clock in 211 Everett. The postponement was necessitated by the failure of a quorum to attend last night.

SECOND SHOWING OF PLAY TONIGHT

Veteran Cast "Does Things up Right" in First Production of Coward Drama.

Following Carl Kapec's sensational "R. U. R." and native-born Paul Green's sentimental "Shroud My Body Down," the Carolina Playmakers turned sophisticated last night and Noel Coward's "The Young Idea" was the result.

Because of his success with Coward's "Hay Fever" last season, Harry Davis, veteran member of the Playmakers staff, was given the job of directing the new production, and among his chief assistants was Wilbur Dorsett, turning out "hot" Jacobean furniture from the Playmakers' scene shop, and Ora Mae Davis, costuming the Cowardette cast.

Two More Performances

Last night's opening performance began a three night run for the latest effort of the Playmakers, which will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

The veteran cast which "did things up right" for Coward's "The Young Idea" last night is headed by Philip Parker of "R. U. R." playing George Brent, Ellen Deppe of "R. U. R." playing Gerday, Charles Lloyd of "The House of Connelly" playing Sholto, David McCachren of "Shroud My Body Down," Roddy Masters; Alan Waters, Huddle; and Frances McGraw, Cicely Brent.

CONGRESS SAVES R. F. C. FROM SAW

Reconstruction Finance Corporation Will Be Continued.

Washington, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Congress put on an old fashioned melodrama today, acting just in the nick of time to save the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from death in Father Time's buzzsaw at midnight.

Both houses approved the conference committee report which ironed out differences between them and the measure was rushed to the White House where President Roosevelt signed it. The Senate then recessed until tomorrow.

The House meets tomorrow to vote on the treasury and post office appropriations bill. The munitions, finance, naval affairs, and ways and means committees, and the judiciary sub-committee will also convene tomorrow.

Chapel Hill Organizations Continue Charity Work; Add To FERA Funds

Although the charity work done by the FERA has been extensive, the local organizations here in Chapel Hill are still active. They lack, of course, the resources of the FERA, as well as the technical training of the latter, but even so, the local units have a personal knowledge of people and conditions here which the governmental employees do not have.

The local charities are headed by the Order of the King's Daughters, which has been functioning here for 48 years. For many years the organization operated throughout Orange County, but when George Lawrence became head of public welfare for the county 12 years ago, the King's Daughters limited their activities to Chapel Hill and Carrboro.

One of the main sources of revenue for the King's Daughters is the annual drive for funds which they put on. At present, this group is also aided by FERA grants, and by contributions from several local organizations, including the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club, and the Carolina theatre, through the Chapel Hill Movie Guild.

Movie Guild Funds

The money that the Chapel Hill Movie Guild receives is derived from a percentage of the profits made on Sunday movies by the Carolina theatre, according to R. A. Eubanks, chairman of the Guild. Mr. Eubanks stated that this was necessary in order for the theatre to comply with the North Carolina law which prohibits Sunday shows. He also stated that all the money the Guild receives goes to local charity and none to national organizations such as the Red Cross or the Salvation Army. Although he did not state what percentage the Guild receives from the Carolina theatre, he did say that the amount was small. E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina theatre, when asked what percentage of the theatre's Sunday profits are turned over to the Movie Guild, replied that the Guild received the entire Sunday profits.

According to Mr. Smith, it is not true that a theatre can operate on Sundays only if it gives a part of its profits to charity. Contrary to popular opinion, he says, there is no North Carolina law legislating specifically against the movies.

Distribution

The money received by the Guild is distributed at its discretion among the various organizations in charity work here. Among the groups receiving this money for distribution among the needy are: The Daughters of the American Revolution, the Daughters of the Confederacy, the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, and the Monogram Club. These organizations are allowed to use their own judgment in disposing of the money they receive from the Guild, and the Guild also gives money directly to needy students, according to Mr. Smith.

These local charity organizations form a supplement to the work being done by the governmental relief agencies. The FERA has no appropriations for

A letter was read which the club will send out to alumni, stressing co-operation in securing new students and athletic material, and in disseminating University publicity through a plan providing for the placing of 1935 Yackett Yacks in all state high schools and towns and in leading southern preparatory schools.

Members turned in money last night for club keys which will be given within the next few weeks.

FROSH TO DECIDE ON HONOR COURT

Discuss Possibility of Class Smoker with Invitations to Duke Freshmen.

The members of the freshman executive council voted last night to present the question of forming a new honor court to the class as a whole.

The previously appointed honor committee and Pete Mullis will confer with Dean Francis Bradshaw and the Student Council reporting later to the executive council before the presentation of the plan.

Plans for giving a freshman class smoker, with invitations to freshman class executives at Duke, in the near future were discussed.

Smoker Committee

In the absence of President Mullis, who was at freshman basketball practice, Chairman Jack Tate appointed the following committee to investigate the possibilities of such an entertainment: Crowell Little, Carl Peiffer, John Simpson, Billy Seawell, and David Meroney.

The dance committee will attempt today to get permission to give a freshman class dance.
