Varsity Basketball

lina's lone defeat to date came at the hands of this same Cadet bunch, 29-19.

Lack of Reserves

Carolina's main weakness seems to be in the lack of capable reserve material. The White Phantoms will start a speedy, good-guarding five in Captain Snooks Aitken, Melvin Nelson, Jason Glace, Jim McCachren, and Paul Kaveny. But if any of these boys should tire or be forced out, Coach Bo Shepard will have no one who has shown any real stuff to send in the fray with the exception of Buck Harris.

Duke, on the other hand, can hardly boast quite as good a first string as the Tar Heels but has ten men of almost equal ability ready for action. Coach Eddie Cameron has even had some trouble deciding on his best five men.

So far this season Jim McCachren, all-Southern Conference guard, has been the big shot on the Tar Heel club with his great guarding and floor game. The rest of the boys have flashed fine form at times but not as consistently as the Charlotte ace.

Polack, also a guard, is probably the outstanding man on the Blue Devil five. Besides doing some fine defensive work, Polack has also been the leading light in the Duke attacking force.

A. I. E. E. to Convene

E. W. Winkler of the electrical engineering department will present a comparison of various sources of power at an A. I. E. E. meeting this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Phillips hall.

John Hershey, vice-president of the local branch, will talk on "Sodium Vapor Highway Illumination." His talk will be illustrated with lantern slides.

MAGAZINE MEETING

Nelson Lansdale has called a meeting of all freshmen writing for, or intending to write for, the Carolina Magazine at 3 o'clock today in 209 Graham Memorial. All interested may attend the meeting, but attendance is expected of: Mack Smith, Bill Hudson, Nick Read, Robert Nahikian, Morris Hecht, Lytt Gardner, Herbert Goldberg, Jack Atwood, Frank B. Rogers, Jr., Robert Mullen, Burr Leach, Lee Turk, and Morton Feldman.

Co-ed Tea

The co-eds at Spencer hall will entertain at their regular weekly tea this afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock. All women students are invited to come and bring their friends.

Frosh Basketball

worked with precision and outplayed its opponents throughout most of the game. In the opening half the Tar Babies seemed jinxed on the basket as shot after shot rolled heart-breakingly off the rim.

Pete Mullis, particularly, found trouble with the hoop as he outstepped Scott and broke clear under the basket only to miss on four occasions during the first half.

Ramsay Potts also played a fine game, holding his man away from the basket and being brilliant on the offense as he travelled all over the court.

Edwards Opens Scoring

The game opened with Edwards tallying twice on that remarkable shot. After Grubb scored from the side, Edwards repeated again to send Duke into a 6-2 lead.

Meroney managed to bottle Edwards for the remainder of the half, and the frosh rallied from an 11-6 deficit to roll in 7 points while holding their opponents scoreless. During this rally Ruth and Grubb contributed two pointers, and Mullis and Meroney scored on fouls, bringing the score to 13-11 at the half.

The second half opened as a repetition of the first, when Edwards went on another individual scoring spree. Within one minute he converted on a foul toss and then flung two more one-handers cleanly through the hoop, to send Duke into a 16-13 lead.

Potts and Ruth brought the Tar Heels back into the fight and then the lead commenced to see-saw from one five to the other. With but 7 minutes to play, Edwards put the Baby Imps into a lead at 24-25 that they seemed unwilling to relinquish. Scott sank a foul, and a substitute forward, Griffith, made the count 29-25 with but three and a half minutes remaining.

Then came the Carolina splurge that snapped the Duke undefeated string. Ruth tossed in a long one. Meroney dropped in a foul. Ruth scored from directly under. Boone scored on a difficult try, and then Ruth settled matters with a beautiful one-handed toss from the sideline as he charged toward the hoop.

This defeat ended Duke's eight-game streak and sent State, Duke and Carolina into a triple knot in the fight for Baby Five honors. The Tar Babies have a busy week-end, opening tomorrow with the strong Asheville High team and then taking on Darlington Prep Friday evening.

TECHNICIAN GIVES TALK ON ENGINES

Cities Service Representatives Here Monday.

A discussion on the combustion efficiency of internal combustion engines, particularly with reference to automobile engines, was conducted in Phillips hall last Monday afternoon.

Colonel Witherspoon, publicity director for the southern district of the Cities Service Company, and Mr. Foster, laboratory technician of the Cities Service Research Corporation conducted the program.

They demonstrated apparatus which checked the efficiency through analysis of the exhaust not only in its economical phases but also in its relation to health and driving efficiency.

Ademonstration of the use of a power prover in connection with an automobile in actual operation was also shown an audience of students and faculty members.

Stakes All In School Drama

May Robson and Alan Hale match repartee and skill at throwing dice, in RKO-Radio's new feature, "Grand Old Girl." Miss Robson is seen as the elderly principal of a small town high school who seeks to put Hale out of business, because he runs a place where her students drink and gamble. Mary Carlisle and Fred McMurray play the romantic leads in the picture, which is playing today at the Carolina theatre.

Tracksters

lotte on February 22 will afford the first chance for track followers to see how the 1935 Carolina team lines up. Possibly 10 or 15 men will see action in these Queen City games.

The men who will participate in this meet are undecided to date; and with considerable improvement several men who now seem out of the race will make the trip.

The second big event and the climax of Dixie indoor track is the gala SIC indoor carnival in the Tin Can on March 9. The Tar Heels will enter as defending champs, winners in 1934 over Virginia by one narrow point. This year Duke looms as the big rival, although Virginia and Maryland will present strong teams.

Mackie Continues Discussion

Ernest L. Mackie will continue his discussion of "An Application of Residues of Analytic Functions" at a mathematics department seminar this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The discussion will show how to evaluate infinite integrals by means of residues.

Economics Seminar

H. M. Douty will discuss "Labor and Industry in North Carolina, 1880-1900" at the economics seminar tonight at 7:30 o'clock in 202 Bingham hall.

Interested persons are cordially invited to attend and participate in the discussions.

year men.

The small crop of pugilists who have stuck with the squad since the practice sessions begun have progressed rapidly, and should be really fast-stoppers when the Duke meet comes around. Shores, O'Herron, Bass, Benton, and Shmurak have been the standouts to date, and Oliver and Leake, the recent additions to the squad, are vastly improved, though inexperienced.

INFIRMARY INMATES

The following students were confined in the infirmary yesterday: Stanley Levitt, R. W. Stewart, Mrs. Harry Moore, Junita Green, Alta Mae Sims, Bruce Smith, T. P. Matthews, J. D. Maxwell, E. M. Edens, Carl Anderson, R. D. Richardson, E. S. Simpson, R. B. Whiteside, Frances McCraw, Bill Calloway, E. T. Berry, Fred Scherer, Tom Hines, and Louis Conte.

Co-ed Basketball Practice

Freshman and senior co-ed basketball practice will be held in the gym tonight at 8 o'clock. All freshmen and senior girls who intend to come out for basketball are requested to come tonight.

English Majors to Meet

All students majoring in English who plan to take the comprehensive examination either this quarter or next are invited to meet with Professor W. F. Thrall at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow in 201 Murphey.

Statistician Here

Dr. Frank A. Ross of the Department of Statistics, Columbia University, arrived here yesterday, according to an announcement by Dr. T. J. Woofter.

Dr. Ross is here to study and aid the fine work being carried on by the Institute for Research in Social Science at the University. Because of previous plans he can only remain here a week.

Wrestling

Riley, 118; Sherard, 125; Witt, 135; Currence and Burgess, 175; and Farley, unlimited. Currence defeated both his State and Navy opponents by the fall route. Farley gained a time advantage over the Navy heavy-weight grappler.

Against this great array of talent, Coach Quinlan has a quartet of sophomores, two varsity junior reserves, and one senior. However, with the Tar Heels in their best physical shape of the year, there should be many exciting bouts Saturday.
