

CHINESE STUDENT SPEAKS TONIGHT TO POLICY GROUP

Tsu-Yuan Koo, Graduate Here, Will Voice His Views on Sino-Japanese Quarrel.

LEAGUE TO MEET AT 7:45

An informal address by Tsu-Yuan Koo, graduate student at Carolina from Pai Shih Chiao, China, will be the feature at the meeting of the Foreign Policy League tonight at 7:45 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

The Chinese was graduated from Soochow University, China, in 1923, and had been working for the Chinese government in various sections of his country until recently.

Studies Engineering

The Nanjing government sent Koo, with a Rockefeller Foundation scholarship, to study sanitary engineering at the University.

Koo will discuss the Sino-Japanese situation from the Chinese viewpoint with emphasis on: the economic dependency of China and Japan; reasons for Japanese expansion; the attitude of the Chinese people toward the Nanking government; the hope for Chinese freedom in Manchuria; further resistance to Japan.

The meeting, which will be very informal, is a continuation of the seminar on the Far East which was inaugurated by the League two weeks ago. All interested in the subject are invited to be present.

FROSH EXECUTIVES

Freshman Class President Clyde Mullis issued last night a notice for a call meeting of his executive committee to be held in room 214 of Graham Memorial at 10 o'clock this evening.

Photos Today

Both business and editorial staff members of the following publications will meet in the Yackety Yack office this afternoon to have group pictures made for the annual: Yackety Yack members at 2 o'clock; Finjan members at 2:15; and Carolina Magazine members at 2:30 o'clock.

The pictures were scheduled to be made yesterday but had to be postponed because of student-faculty day.

Editor Joe Sugarman has announced that only members who have contributed at least either one story or article, one poem or two book reviews during the year are eligible to be in the Magazine picture.

O'Hara To Teach Watercolor Art Here Next Month

Painter to Stay Three Weeks Under Auspices of Southern Art Projects.

Eliot O'Hara, who, under the auspices of the Southern Art Projects, will give a three weeks' course in watercoloring here in March, is expected to be in Chapel Hill today to confer with Russell M. Grumman, who is in charge of making arrangements for the course.

O'Hara, who was head of an enamel factory until 1928, when he secured a Guggenheim Fellowship and went to Europe for two and a half years of painting, will exhibit 30 of his own watercolors here during the period that he will spend teaching.

The watercoloring course which O'Hara will give will be one of the events on the North Carolina program of the Southern Art Projects, which has already brought to Chapel Hill an exhibition of oil paintings, one of etchings, and a lecture on architecture by Dean Everett Meeks of Yale University.

Exhibits Depict Carolina's History

Through exhibits consisting of charts, diagrams, demonstrations, and lectures, the 142 years' history of the oldest state university in America was told in a different way here today for the benefit of faculty, students, alumni, parents, and other friends of the University of North Carolina.

The displays made such a tremendously fine impression that University officials decided to hold the exhibits open tomorrow and Saturday, that people throughout the state may view them. Requests for time extension began to pour in last night.

Alumni Association

The alumni association had a big exhibit showing the service it renders its 17,135 living alumni, 12,000 of whom are in the state. The Alumni Loyalty Fund, showing private benefactions, pointed out all campus buildings prior to 1905 were private gifts. Last year private donations were 40 per cent of what the state appropriations were.

Numerous athletic trophies and photos of classes, teams, and other groups in Graham Memorial recalled the old days.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL SCHEDULED HERE FOR APRIL 25-28

Committee Prepares Tentative Program for Third Annual Dogwood Celebration.

GRUMMAN AGAIN DIRECTOR

April 25, 26, 27, 28 were set as dates and a tentative program was arranged for the third annual Dogwood Festival at a committee meeting here this week.

Russell M. Grumman, director of the University extension division, is to serve as president of the festival again this year, and Dr. Arthur P. Hudson is to serve as program chairman.

The program this year is to include exhibits featuring the arts and crafts of youth, CCC camps, and Veterans' hospitals, to be displayed in Graham Memorial and Hill Music hall; special art exhibits secured through the aid of the Southern Art Projects, to be displayed in Hill Music hall and the University library; and demonstrations in arts and crafts, to be held all day April 26 and 27, in Graham Memorial.

Boy Scout Jubilee

A Boy Scout Jubilee in recognition of the 25th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be held in conjunction with the Dogwood Festival and will bring to Chapel Hill more than 1,000 scouts from all over the state.

A convention of the Rock Garden Society of North Carolina and the annual meeting of the state division of the American Association of University Women are also to be held in conjunction with the festival.

National, state, and local council scout executives are to direct the scouts as they engage in numerous activities culminating in a mass program in Kenan stadium Saturday evening. Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, President Frank P. Graham, and National Chief Scout Executive James E. West are to deliver addresses.

depicted the welfare program; Koch's Playmakers showed stage models, scenery, programs and the like; the school of commerce displayed charts and graphs showing trends and cycles; the University Press, which is to bring out 40 volumes this year, displayed its favorites; the school of library science showed how book cataloging, selection, and reference are done most efficiently; the University news bureau displayed types of stories the papers are apt to print; and the freshman English department showed clever cartoons depicting spliced comas, pronouns looking for their antecedents, and coma shooters.

Library

The exhibit for the entire English department, a most impressive display, was shown in the library along with that institution's layout. Rare volumes, bindings, and prints dating back many centuries were presented here.

The science departments held exhibits in their own buildings. The medical school showed specimens of hearts, livers, and tumors; psychology showed the action of white mice and gave tests for reactions and color.

ENGINEERS STAGE DANCE TOMORROW

Public May Buy Bids Today in Phillips Hall for $1.50

Bids for the engineers' ball, which will be held tomorrow night, will go on sale this morning to the student body at $1.50 each.

Bids will be sold in the senior civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering rooms in Phillips hall.

Jack Wardlaw and his Carolina Pines orchestra will furnish the rhythm. Wardlaw's band originated at the University in 1927 and has since toured Europe and eastern America, playing at resorts, schools, colleges and clubs.

The band has been "on the air" consistently since last summer when it broadcast over the Columbia network from the Steel Pier in Atlantic City. At present the orchestra is playing out from the Hotel Patrick Henry in Roanoke, Va., on a schedule which includes various engagements throughout the south during February.

GRAIL WILL GIVE DANCE SATURDAY

Jack Wardlaw Will Furnish Music; Freshmen to Be Admitted to Affair.

The Order of the Grail will sponsor its third dance of the winter quarter Saturday night in Bynum gymnasium from 9 until 12 o'clock. Jack Wardlaw and his orchestra have been engaged to furnish the music.

According to Simmons Patterson, treasurer of the Grail, freshmen will be admitted to the dance.

Famous Band

Jack Wardlaw and his band are better known in the north than in this section of the country. He was featured at the Steel Pier at Atlantic City last summer, and since then has been playing in and around Roanoke, Va.

Tickets are priced at $1.00. They are now on sale at Pritchard-Lloyd's and will be on sale at the door.

Singers

Featured in the Wardlaw orchestra are the voices of Lucile Gregory, Bob Bland, and Roland McKellar. McKellar, sparkling tenor, was given a rating of 100 per cent by the Columbia audition when he sang over their network last summer.

Miss Gregory is one of the outstanding singers appearing with a southern orchestra and Bland has become famous for his "Scat" choruses.

Workers Convicted Of Dynamiting Mill Speak Here Tonight

Rev. Binkley Will Preside over Meeting in Gerrard Hall.

Four men convicted of dynamiting the E. M. Holt plaid mills in Burlington during the textile strike last September, will appear tonight in Gerrard hall at 8 o'clock to speak at a meeting which will be presided over by the Reverend O. T. Binkley, pastor of the Baptist church.

The prisoners are now out on bail pending an appeal which is being sponsored by interested parties.

Last Sunday the Reverend James Weaver of Burlington spoke in the Methodist church here in defense of the men.

Professors And Student Body Celebrate University Holiday With Gala Festivity Program

STAFF MEETS TODAY

There will be a meeting of all city editors and desk men of the DAILY TAR HEEL staff this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial. Failure to attend this meeting will mean suspension from the staff.

BRADSHAW LEADS NATIONAL FORUM

Dean of Students Now at Conference in Atlantic City.

Dean of Students Francis F. Bradshaw left Tuesday for Atlantic City where he will preside over two sessions of the annual meeting of the American Council of Guidance and Personal Associations on the program of which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is included in the list of speakers.

Among others on the program are Arthur E. Morgan of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Commissioner of Education Studebaker, and Dr. M. R. Trabue, now on leave of absence from the University department of education.

Dr. Trabue will describe research in occupational classification now being conducted by him in the United States public employment service in co-operation with the department of labor.

Educational needs, mental hygiene problems, occupational difficulties of students in schools and colleges will be discussed at the sessions.

Membership of the council includes deans, personnel officers, guidance workers, and other administrative officers from secondary schools, colleges, universities, and industries all over the country.

Marshals And Ball Leaders To Be Photographed

Dance Leaders to Have Pictures Taken by Tomorrow.

Junior and senior dance leaders and commencement marshals have until tomorrow afternoon to have their pictures made at Wooten-Moulton's for the Yackety Yack. Tuxedos and white ties are required.

The following men are included in the list: Ernie Eutsler, Harry Montgomery, Johnny Bost, Claude Rankin, Bob Page, Charlie Edwards, Frank Rogers, Ben Willis, Hugh Primrose.

James Keel, Jack Clare, Frank Willingham, Henry Valk, Trip Rand, Charles Ivey, Jack Pool, Malcolm Bell, Frank Abernethy, Colin Stokes, Scott Blanton, John Hoggard, and Luther Cromartie.

Any others who have served as dance leaders during the year and have not had their pictures made are urged to attend to the matter immediately.

SENIOR EXECUTIVES

The executive committee of the senior class will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., it was announced yesterday by Jack Pool, president.

Class finances and especially the class gift, will be the topics for discussion. Plans will also be made for Senior Week which has been tentatively scheduled for the second week in May.

MORNING MEETING STARTS OFF DAY

K. D. Battle and President Graham Speak; Stunts, Skits, Music Close Exposition.

SNAVELY EXHIBITS SQUAD

Classes were forgotten yesterday as University professors joined with their pupils to celebrate the first student-faculty day in the history of the institution.

The holiday festivities opened in the morning with a general convocation, at which President Frank Porter Graham and Kemp D. Battle spoke.

Battle Wants Courage

Taking "Eels" as his subject, Battle, speaking for the University alumni, told how the slimy sea creatures exhibited bravery and courage, qualities needed today by human beings.

Discussing the University itself, Battle stated that the institution was "the fruit of one of the great dares of the human spirit."

The speaker called upon students to display faith and courage. "To one who views the world today with a discerning eye, there has never been presented perhaps a spectacle of such catastrophic dangers and magnificent possibilities," he declared.

Graham Makes Talk

President Graham spoke welcoming the parents, students, faculty, and former scholars of the institution.

Dr. Graham declared that the students and faculty possessed a common heritage—traditions of struggle, honor, and freedom.

Virgil Weathers spoke in behalf of the student body, and J. D. Winslow presided at the session.

Afternoon Program

A football game staged by Coach Carl Snavely's winter gridders was presented in the afternoon, and was followed by open house at the fraternity homes and the South Carolina basketball game at night in the Tin Can.

The holiday was closed with a gala stunt program in Memorial hall, featuring Dean of Administration House, who played the mouth organ, and Freddy Johnson's orchestra.

Take-offs, dances, skits, songs, impersonations, and other surprises were presented by faculty, students, and visitors.

At lunch every instructor and professor was entertained by a student or a group of students.

Throughout the day almost all the University departments exhibited the work of their administrative sections.

Seawell Talks Today

A. A. F. Seawell, state attorney-general, will address the Chapel Hill P. T. A. this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of the local high school building.

Professor Harold D. Meyer of the University sociology department and Mrs. U. T. Holmes are also scheduled to make addresses.

Demonstrations will be presented by the Boy Scouts and the third grade. The girls' Hi-Y club will conduct a nursery for the young children so that all parents may attend the session.
