

CAROLINA'S NEW POLITICAL UNION HEARS McMULLAN

Permanent Controlling Committee Is Elected; Will Name Executive Chairman.

COMMITTEE MEETS TODAY

The Carolina Political Union met in first session last night in Gerrard hall and heard Harry McMullan, chairman of the state industrial committee, deliver an address on "Taxation." McMullan laid special emphasis on the current developments in Raleigh regarding the sales tax.

A permanent committee was elected from the group last night. This committee will elect a chairman who will serve as executive chairman of the Union. It will also have other important functions, such as presenting the issues for discussion, providing factional floor representation, and deciding other points of organization.

The Committee:

Members of the committee elected are Robert Smithwick, Nick Read, Betty Durham, Francis Fairley, and Phil Kind. Phil Hammer, who has acted as temporary chairman, will serve as ex-officio member.

The Union will foster liberal, conservative, and radical divisions for the purpose of debate. These groups will gather together their arguments at meetings held outside of the Union and it is expected will turn eventually into regular factional organizations.

The new committee will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Graham Memorial to discuss plans for the next session, and to elect the Union chairman.

AUTHOR TO TALK AT BULL'S HEAD

Phillips Russell Speaks Today on "Preventive Writing."

Professor Phillips Russell, outstanding American author, will lead the regular Bull's Head discussion this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the bookshop in the Y. M. C. A.

According to an announcement from Elizabeth Johnson, director of the bookshop, Russell will address the Bull's Head audience on "Preventive Writing."

The speaker is the teacher of a course in creative writing at the University. The class meets for a two-hour session each Thursday night in the Bull's Head where today's lecture will take place.

Russell's appearance will be the third Bull's Head lecture program for the winter quarter. Today's discussion follows a reading by Mrs. Urban T. Holmes and a series of book reviews by members of the library school.

'Y' CABINET MEN PLAN NEXT TERM

After Business Session, Combined Cabinets Discuss Capital Punishment Problem.

Considering the problem of "Capital Punishment," and discussing plans for the coming quarter, the sophomore and junior-senior Y. M. C. A. cabinets met jointly last night in the last formal session of the winter term.

President J. D. Winslow distributed mimeographed leaflets setting forth plans for the rest of the year, and this program of activities was discussed.

McKee Leads Discussion

Following the business session, a discussion on the social worth of capital punishment was led by Don McKee of the sophomore cabinet.

The cabinets postponed the proposed trip to the state prison in Raleigh until a later date.

It was decided that the meeting of the organization next Monday would take the form of a smoker in Graham Memorial. The session will be informal, and a visiting speaker will lead a discussion of the race question.

President Winslow appointed T. P. Yeatman for infirmary visitation and elaborated plans to co-operate with Dean Bradshaw's program of vocational guidance.

Leading Faculty Men And Students Question Nye At Dinner Conference

Senator Cites Case of Pressure to Keep Movies Revealing Racket of Munitions Makers from Screen; Says Solution Must Be Effected in Country, Not by International Agreement.

By MAC SMITH

The repast finished, fresh after-dinner cigarette smoke beginning to fill the air, 30 Carolina campus leaders leaned back in their chairs in a special Carolina Inn dining room Sunday evening to listen to a young-looking, black-haired Congressman give his authoritative opinion on the matter of munitions and munition profiteering.

North Dakota's Senator Gerald P. Nye, answered the questions of this group of 30, which included faculty members and students, for one hour Sunday night before he appeared at the mass meeting of the student body in Memorial hall at 8 o'clock.

With a low voice that filled the little dining room, the Senator answered the questions asked by members of the group between slow draws on his cigarette. Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University, sat on Nye's right, his head resting on his hand, one finger moving through a design on the table cloth, drinking in the words of the North Dakotan. Once he

SENATE TO PROBE ALLEGED PROFITS OF PROCESS MEN

Congress Receives First Veto of Year; Committee Favors Old Age Pension Exemptions.

MAY TABLE NAVAL BILL

Washington, Feb. 25.—(UP)—The Senate authorized an investigation today of the charges by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, (D., Mont.), that food processors grew rich during the depression at the expense of the farmers and consumers.

The Senate received a formal notice of the contest by Dennis Chavez, Democrat, New Mexico, for the seat held by Senator Bronson Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, charging that fraud and illegal balloting seated Cutting.

"Marine Organisms"

Congress received its first veto of this year from Roosevelt when the bill appropriating $500,000 for a study of a control for marine organisms returned unsigned.

The House naval committee favored tabling the bill authorizing $38,000,000 for naval improvements.

The House ways and means committee voted to exempt 7,000,000 farm laborers, domestic servants, and transient workers from the contributory old age pension section of the economic security bill.

Di Senate

Three bills, headed by the resolution, That the North Carolina sales tax be retained, will come before the Di Senate at its meeting in New West tonight at 7:15 o'clock.

The other two bills are: Resolved, That continued relief appropriations are injurious to the morale of the working classes, and, Resolved, That the quarter system be retained at the University of North Carolina.

Enthusiastic Audience Applauds As Nye Condemns Arms Makers

ORIGINALS OFFER TRYOUTS TODAY

Forty Roles Will Be Filled in Seven Experimental Dramas To Be Staged March 7.

Professor Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, announced yesterday the seven plays written in the second half of his playwriting course, which will be presented on an experimental bill here March 7.

Try-outs for the experimental dramas will be conducted this afternoon at 4:30 in the theatre. All students interested will have an opportunity to become connected with Playmakers' activities, according to Koch.

The Seven Plays

Included in the seven plays that were chosen from a group of 12, are: "Goldie," a Negro comedy by Wilbur Dorsett; "Tslaga," a drama of the Cherokee Indians, by William Greet; "The Settin'-Up," a play of a country wake by Sara Seawell; "Tea Party," a children's play by Ellen Deppe; "While They Waited," the first act of a full length drama of a small-town family, by Kenneth Bartlett; a tragedy of family life by Anne Moore; and a mountain play by Mildred Moor.

According to Professor Koch there are 40 parts available for try-out candidates.

One bill of experimentals which included five original dramas written in the same playwriting course this quarter has already been presented by the Playmakers. The coming production will represent the work of the second half of the quarters' work.

Tobacco Growers Decide To Keep Prices Low

Wallace Shows High Prices Will Destroy Foreign Market.

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—(UP)—Tobacco growers in North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina, and Georgia decided here today that they would rather retain the nation's foreign tobacco trade than see prices for their product sky-rocket further above parity levels.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace explained to 5,000 persons that a small crop and the attendant high prices this year would almost certainly curb the foreign trade. He urged trying to keep tobacco down to a parity price so as to prevent over-production later.

"U. S. Must Clean Up Profiteers at Home"

"Take the Profiteering Out of War and You Will End War," Is Senator Nye's Plea.

GOVERNMENT IMPLICATED

For one hour and 45 minutes United States Senator Gerald P. Nye from North Dakota held a Carolina audience at the cheering point Sunday night when he addressed the capacity crowd on the subject of "Peace or Profit."

Nye, who headed the Senate munitions investigation committee in their active campaign last September, voiced his protest against the profiteering that arms makers are carrying on at the expense of world peace.

Our Own Back Yard

Considered the best authority in the world on the matter of munitions profiteering, Nye indelibly impressed the Carolina audience with the fact that America herself must take in hand the matter—a matter that the government so far has not only allowed to exist but has actually encouraged.

President of the Greater University Frank Porter Graham, introduced the "Progressive Senator" from North Dakota, who at present heads the minority in Congress.

Applause after applause interrupted Nye's stirring address that carried with it evidence to support his accusations and appeal to Americanism to "wake up."

According to the Senator, it is a question of profit or peace. "The next war will not be a war to make the world safe for democracy," he said, "but a war rather to make the world safe for Du Pontcracy."

Freshman "Y" Council Discusses Munitions

Projects for Rest of Year Are Given Members.

Since no regular program had been planned for last night's meeting, the members of the Freshman Friendship Council held a general discussion under the leadership of Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the "Y."

The major topic of the discussion concerned the facts given by Senator Gerald P. Nye in his address Sunday night.

A list of the Y. M. C. A. programs and projects for the remainder of the year was given to each Council member, and Comer urged all to study it and offer any suggestions that will help the program to a successful conclusion.

Seniors planning to take the examinations should report to departmental heads this week.

FRESHMEN ADOPT BOARD OF HONOR BY BIG MAJORITY

Tribunal to Consist of Representatives from the Five Schools of the University.

REHEARINGS PLANNED

The freshman class at assembly yesterday accepted their proposed Honor Council by a vote of 218 to 80.

The complete plans of the Council drawn up by the Honor Council committee appointed by "Pete" Mullis, president of the class, and submitted to the class by Nick Read, chairman, follow:

Representation

"The Honor Council will be composed of members from the freshman class, representing the five schools: Four from the liberal arts school; three from the school of commerce; two from the engineering school; one from the school of pharmacy; one from the school of applied science.

"In addition there will be one member of the student council sitting with the freshman Council as an adviser. He will have no voting power, however.

"The Council will serve in a dual capacity: first, it will foster and co-ordinate movements for strengthening the honor system in the freshman class, as well as spreading information about the system; secondly, it will try freshmen reported for cheating, but not for breaches of the campus code.

"The decisions reached by the freshman Council in trial will be submitted to the Student Council for action. Two or more members from the freshman Council will appear before the Student Council to submit each decision and to present the facts and findings of the case.

Appeal Possible

"The Student Council may call for a rehearing of the case if the facts and circumstances are vague or if the freshman on trial appeals for a rehearing. In such an event, two or more members from the freshman Honor Council will convene with the Student Council to present any facts or findings which were uncovered in the previous trial."

Before turning the meeting over to Mullis, Dean F. F. Bradshaw commended the class on the interest it is taking in the honor system, and said that he felt gratified that it is considering it.

There was some contention as to how the members of the honor council should be chosen, but the class finally decided to elect representatives according to schools.

Since the class is not organized by schools, President Mullis will have to appoint chairmen to preside during the meetings of the various schools. Dean Bradshaw said these meetings will probably be either Wednesday or Friday.

Sophomore Assembly

Pete Ivey will speak at the first sophomore convocation for 1935 tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock. His subject has not yet been announced.

Carroll to Make Talk

Dean D. D. Carroll of the school of commerce will address the Sanford Rotary Club today in Sanford.
