Robinson will begin his duties at the end of this week and will continue as circulation manager until the end of this school year.

The final selection will be made at a special meeting of the following Monday, March 11.

FACULTY ACCEPTS NEW HONOR RULE

Instructors Are to Enter Rooms Occasionally During Progress of Exams or Quizzes.

The University faculty yesterday adopted a resolution, proposed by the Student Council and the faculty executive committee, to aid in promoting more ideal conditions for the functioning of the honor system.

The resolution follows:

"It is suggested that as a member of the college community each instructor has a positive responsibility with respect to the honor system. This responsibility involves appropriate interpretation of the honor system and the promotion of conditions favorable to effective work.

Prof's to Be on Hand

"On the occasion of a quiz or examination the instructor should be readily available to be of assistance and he should drop in from time to time so as to answer questions and insure the maintenance of order."

This resolution, which by its adoption by the faculty becomes a ruling, is not to be interpreted as any retreat from the high interpretation of the honor system now in general acceptance, according to Dr. T. J. Wilson, who serves as secretary of the faculty. It is intended to provide more ideal conditions both for concentration during tests and for full functioning of the honor system.

Review Relates UNC Anecdotes About Baseball

Dr. Mangum Tells of Bathing Suit Uniforms and Faculty Doubt of Curved Balls.

Believe it or not, a University of North Carolina baseball nine, gayly attired in blue and white striped bathing suits, once performed for dear old alma mater on the diamond.

It was way back in the gay 'nineties, and the boys were playing Virginia up in Richmond.

The whole story is told by Dr. Charles S. Mangum, dean of the University Medical School, writing in the current issue of The Alumni Review, which has just been mailed to subscribers.

First Interstate Contest

Carolina had begun intercollegiate baseball in 1891, and the contest with the University of Virginia team that spring was to mark the first interstate athletic contest for the Chapel Hill boys.

The Tar Heels had played their earlier season games against Trinity and Wake Forest in their "street clothes," uniforms not having become at that time a part of their baseball equipment. On reaching Richmond, the Carolinians discovered that Virginia would appear in natty uniforms for the contest.

State's Honor Involved

"Something had to be done to meet this emergency," writes Dr. Mangum in his article. "The honor of our state was involved. Who the genius was that had the idea is not a matter of record, but the team, in a body, repaired to a department store and purchased bathing suits in va-

PRESS RELEASES TWO NEW BOOKS

"In a Bengal Jungle" Recounts Missionary's Experiences.

W. T. Couch of the University Press, announced yesterday the release of two books, "In a Bengal Jungle" by John Symington and "Bob Taylor and the Agrarian Revolt in Tennessee" by Daniel M. Robinson.

Symington was a medical missionary in jungles of the Duars, at the base of the Himalayas for over 25 years. His book is a vigorous and vivid tale of the adventures which befell him while fighting malaria and other tropical diseases among the savages.

"Bob Taylor and the Agrarian Revolt in Tennessee" is a history of the activities of Tennessee's famous political character. Robinson shows how Taylor's rise to prominence was coincident with Tennessee's transition from an agricultural to an industrial state. He concludes with an estimate of Taylor's contributions to Tennessee politics.

The dance recital of Nini Theilade in Memorial hall next Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock will bring here a 19-year-old girl who not only has established an international reputation as a dancer, but also holds the record of being the youngest ballet artist in the world.

The recital is sponsored by the student entertainment series committee. During last summer Mlle. Theilade was in entire charge of the ballet at the out-of-door performances given at Regents Park in London. She not only danced herself and coached all of the members of the ballet, but also created many of the dances that were presented.

She topped this by coming to the United States in September as ballet artist for Max Reinhardt in his California production of "Midsummer Night's

Playmakers Will Give Performance Tonight

Dramatists Will Present New Plays in Three-Day Run.

The Playmakers will present their second public production of new Carolina plays for the winter quarter tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Playmakers' theatre.

The bill of three original dramas, written recently in the playwriting courses, is scheduled for a three-night run.

Philip Parker's "Ancient Heritage," Patsy McMullan's "Cottie Mourns," and Ella Mae Daniel's "Yours and Mine," are included on the bill of new plays.

Graduate Students Douglas Hume, Alton Williams and Ella Mae Daniel are directing the plays under the general supervision of Technical Director of the Playmakers Samuel Selden. Parker's play concerns New England aristocracy and McMullan's, the fisher-folk of Ocracoke Island off the sound in North Carolina.

Daniel's "Yours and Mine" was taken from actual observations made by the author of a young married couple and their marital misunderstandings.

McDonald States Stand Against Sales Tax

Divorcing the schools from the sales tax after their "shotgun wedding in 1933" was one of the prime purposes of the substitute revenue bill, Representative Ralph McDonald of Forsyth told the North Carolina Club last night.

Another purpose was to secure greater appropriations for the schools, said Dr. McDonald, who is a co-author of the revenue measure by which he is seeking to abolish the sales tax.

"There has been a shift of taxation from corporations to individuals," he declared, "and that argument has never been denied by anybody who has supported his denial with factual data. Furthermore, the incomes of corporations during the past few years have been sustained better than the incomes of individuals. And even if we were to levy the increases which I hope to see passed, the taxes for North Carolina corporations would still be lower than those in other states."

FRESHMEN NAME REPRESENTATIVES TO HONOR COURT

Students from Each School Elect Members to Serve on Newly Formed Council.

ELEVEN TO BE ON BOARD

Divided according to schools, the members of the freshman class yesterday elected the men who will form the Freshman Honor Court.

The liberal arts students, whose meeting was presided over by Joe Patterson, secretary of the freshman class, chose Jimmy Coan, Bill Hudson, Joe Patterson, and W. K. Davis to serve as their representatives.

Commerce Representatives

Clyde "Pete" Mullis, president of the class, was in charge of the meeting of the commerce students. Their representatives will be David "Red" Meroney, Bill Holland, and Ed O'Herron or Warren Haddaway.

Even after all the voting had ended, there still remained some doubt as to whether O'Herron or Haddaway had been elected. Mullis explained that this was due to a misunderstanding as to the method of the election procedure and confusion during the counting of the several ballots. As a result, a vote will be taken among the commerce students at freshman assembly tomorrow morning.

Two Engineers Named

The engineers selected Bobby Horton and Randell Byrd as their honor council members. Richard Heller acted as chairman of this group.

With Tod Cochrane presiding, the freshmen in the applied science school picked Henry Dillon for their councilman.

The pharmacy students did not elect a representative to the court yesterday, but will probably do so tomorrow.

HAMPTON SINGERS WILL COME HERE

Dr. Cooper, Charlotte Preacher, Will Lead Program Sponsored by Y. M. C. A.

Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., in the capacity of an examination hopes-builder, announced yesterday that the "Y" had scheduled an appearance in Memorial hall of the Hampton Negro Quartet on the night before winter-quarter exams.

Tuesday, March 12, at 7:30 p. m., according to Comer, the "old time" quartet will present a short minstrel program here accompanied by Dr. Cooper, preacher and artist from Charlotte, who will exhibit some of his art pieces.

Won First Prize

Cooper, a jolly, corpulent Negro "parson," won first prize in the Negro art division at the Century of Progress Exposition the year before last with one of his paintings.

Comer regretted the fact that the date would come at such an opportune time for study, but he indicated that the "Y" had no choice due to the fact that the popular singers were booked on every other possible date.
