

ANDREWS SHOWS ATOMS IN MOTION BY MODEL FORMS

Johns Hopkins Professor Talks on Molecular Action, Sponsored by Sigma Xi.

AUDIENCE ENTHUSIASTIC

Dr. Donald H. Andrews, the noted Johns Hopkins professor of chemistry, delivered his somewhat technical lecture on "Molecular Models" to an enthusiastic and interested audience last night under the auspices of the North Carolina chapter of Sigma Xi.

As an introduction to the talk the professor gave a short history of the molecule from the early conception of the Greeks which bears striking similarity to the theory advanced by our modern scientists.

Demonstrates Structure

By mechanical constructions of various chemical compounds Dr. Andrews demonstrated the nature of the different forces between the atoms of a molecule and the structure of different chemical compounds.

With the aid of lantern slides of the motion and spectra of chemical compounds Dr. Andrews pointed out that the force of attraction between the atoms of molecules is proportional to the number of chemical bonds between atoms.

By using a demonstration machine the Johns Hopkins professor produced the actual motions that molecules undergo under the influence of forces of different frequencies. Pictures of the motions of atoms were more clearly shown by slides.

Dr. Andrews will deliver another lecture tonight at Duke University as the guest of Professor Paul Gross.

DIRECTORS NAME ORIGINALS' CASTS

Playmakers Will Present Seven New Plays Thursday on Second Bill of Quarter.

Casts for the seven new plays which will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers on their second bill for the quarter at 4 o'clock and at 7:30 o'clock Thursday were announced yesterday.

More than 45 character parts were filled at the tryouts last week for the plays, which were written this quarter in the University's playwrighting courses.

The Casts:

Included in the casts for the new dramas are: for "I Sing Forever," a tragedy of the Carolina mountains by Mildred Moore—Josephine Oettinger, Robert duFour, Katherine Threlkeld, and Dan Hamilton.

"The Settin'-Up," a country wake by Sarah Seawell—Dave Lewis, Dwight Brown, Mary Armbruster, Hester Barlow, David Richardson, Dan Hamilton, Annie Lee McCauley, Juanita Greene, Lawrence Cheek, William Wang, and Billy Robertson.

"Tsalagi," a historical drama of the Cherokee Indians by Billy Greet—Dwight Brown, Herbert Kane, Billy Robertson, Douglas Hume, Dancy Hawes, Donald Pope, A. C. Blalock, Lawrence Cheek, David Richardson, Mary Armbruster, Margaret Wallace, Gretchen Goris, and Hazel Beaucham.

Phi Assembly

In a farewell session for the winter quarter, the Phi Assembly will meet at 7:15 tonight in New East.

Bills will be:

1. Resolved, that the Phi favor the passage of the Hill liquor bill. Representative Smithwick will explain the Hill measure.

2. Resolved, that comprehensive examinations in the University should be abolished.

3. Resolved, that the Republican party is losing the status of a rival national party.

Treasurer Francis Fairley asks that members of the assembly who have not paid their dues make arrangement for immediate payment.

NEGRO OUTLINES HIS RACE'S WORK

Freshman Council Hears Talk by Professor Taylor of Durham College for Negroes.

As a preparation for the phase of the coming Human Relations Institute dealing with inter-racial and class relations, the members of the Freshman Friendship Council heard Professor J. T. Taylor of the North Carolina College for Negroes at Durham, who talked to them last night on "The Achievements of the Negro Race."

Professor Taylor later delivered the same address to the smoker of the sophomore and junior-senior "Y" cabinets in Graham Memorial.

"If you are really going in for a practical application of your idealism, you are picking a hard road to travel," said Professor Taylor preliminary to his main address. "You can get along very easily without worrying about our problem, but I can't conceive of anyone who could do this and still have complete happiness."

Negro's Achievements

The speaker cited some useful achievements of the colored race in Africa and later in other countries of the world. He dealt largely, however, with the work of the Negro in America, "their adopted country."

Discussing the cultural development and general improvement of the Negro race, Taylor gave some enlightening statistics pertinent to education and to the Negro's place in the United States. He offered the fact that 89 Negroes were listed in Who's Who and that 116 were Phi Beta Kappa initiates.

Professor Taylor mentioned many illustrious Negro musicians, novelists, and poets, reading several poems.

Before concluding, Professor Taylor mentioned George Horton, a janitor at the University back in the '40's, who used to compose love lyrics for the students and finally decided to get an education as best he could.

This meeting marked the close of the Council's meetings for the winter quarter.

Tau Beta Pi

Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, will meet at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow in 214 Phillips hall.

Deals More Lightly With 30 Other Cases

Offenses Include 12 Breaches of Honor System and 12 Violations of Campus Code.

"DUTIES ARE CORRECTIVE"

Thirty-two cases were heard by the present Student Council from the time it assumed office in May, 1934, to February 1 of this year, according to a report rendered yesterday by Francis Fairley, secretary and junior representative.

Two cases carried the penalty of suspension unrevoked by subsequent action of the Council.

Of the 32 cases, four were reopened and re-heard, four were bad check cases, 12 concerned violation of the campus code, and 12 were trials for breaches of the honor system.

Six Cheating Cases

Six of the honor system cases were for cheating.

Cheating penalties were as follows: (1) grades withheld, indefinite suspension; (2) "F" on English 1 for plagiarism, general conduct probation; (3) general conduct probation for plagiarism; (4) credit for quarter's work denied, "F" on course; (5) suspension for cheating and lying to the Council; and (6) "F" on course, Student Council probation.

The Buccaneer was tried for disorderly conduct for lack of more specific terms by which to describe the offense of obscene publication that led to its abolition and the establishment of the Finjan.

List of Cases

The list of cases follows: Campus code violation: Nine for dormitory disturbance, six of which carried penalty of general conduct probation and three dormitory probation; three for disorderly conduct, which included one warning to a fraternity, one dormitory probation, and "one Buccaneer."

Honor system violation: Three for theft, dismissed for lack of evidence; three for lying, one of which carried Student Council probation and two acquittal; six for cheating.

Cases re-opened: In three of these the student was either re-admitted or given credit for a quarter's work previously denied him; the remaining case was granted re-admission but was put on general conduct probation.

Bad check cases: one, Student Council probation; one, denied credit for work; two, made to pay debts incurred.

The Council reviewed briefly in the report its work during freshman week when it sponsored lectures on the honor system. The report stated that it conceived of its duties as of a "corrective rather than punitive nature in so far as possible."

SENIOR EXECUTIVES

The last meeting of the senior executives for the winter quarter will be held in the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7 o'clock, Class President Jack Pool announced yesterday.

This formal session will be the most important of the year, Pool said. Plans pertaining to senior week and other class activities will be discussed. Pool urged all senior executives to attend.

University Club to Get Rooms for Visitors

Dorms and Fraternities Are Urged to Place Track Men.

The University Club is still campaigning to find places on the campus for all visiting track men who will be here this weekend for the annual Southern Conference indoor track meet.

Thus far, most of the visitors have been placed by the club members. However, more places are still needed.

The buildings department will put an extra bed in every dormitory room in which the occupants would like to take care of a visiting track man. Students wishing to help are asked to get in touch with Frank Willingham at the S. A. E. house or "Bo" Shepard in the athletic office as soon as possible.

The visitors will spend two nights here in most cases, Friday and Saturday. Meals, of course, will be furnished at the regular training tables by the University.

HOUSE CONCLUDES SERIES OF TALKS

Dean Speaks on "Desire" in Message to Freshmen.

Concluding his series of talks on the "Intellectual Life," Dean R. B. House talked to the freshman assembly yesterday on "Desire."

Before dealing with his last subject, Dean House gave a brief summary of his previous addresses. He reminded the freshmen of the value of building strong characters, the necessity of hard work, and the use of the imagination as a forerunner of constructive thought.

"Desire," stated Dean House, "is the one thing which dominates a man's life and gives him a sense of direction." Stressing the importance of understanding one's own desire, "one's philosophy of spirit," he recommended a study of the philosophies of other men, advising that it is not too early to start such a study.

"Your university career rests with you," concluded Dean House. "Always remember that anything of worth that has ever been done required conscientious effort."

Herr Metzenthin Bombards Students With Good-Natured Sarcastic Wit

Squeak, squeak, here comes the professor's brogans. Duck your cigarette or be greeted with "You, you sir, you smoke like a smoke stack!"

"Guten Tag, meine Damen und Herren"—at least that is what it sounds like. A chorus of "Guten Tag, Herr Professor" echoes back. "Hey, you crazy fellow, march as fast as you can to your seat," commands Herr Doktor Pastor Professor Metzenthin.

Quietness prevails until some late straggler comes quietly into the door and pauses and greets the professor in a cordial but pathetic tone with the same words every time, "Good morning, Herr Professor. It gives me great pain to disturb"—in German, of course.

He's a Married Man

Deathlike silence reigns until the regular morning program begins with verbs. A girl responds before being called upon—explanation: Herr Spann's class last quarter. She is an-

BUS LINE HEARING POSTPONED AGAIN

Greyhound's Petition to Be Considered March 18 or 20.

The Atlantic Greyhound Lines' hearing before Public Utilities Commissioner Winburne, scheduled for today, has been postponed until March 18 or 20, according to a letter received yesterday by Phil Hammer, chairman of the student committee which has been co-operating with the bus company, from J. L. Gilmer, vice-president and general sales manager of the company.

This makes the second time that the hearing has been put off. It was first postponed from January 22 until today because of the illness of a member of the commission.

The reason for the latest delay is that one of the interested attorneys has a case in court which cannot be continued.

This will throw the hearing into the holiday period, so that the mass student attendance planned for the hearing by the University Club will be made harder of attainment. Despite this additional difficulty, however, the club will make an effort to have a number of students present.

"Y" TEAM RETURNS

The Y. M. C. A. deputation team composed of Lee Greer, Francis Fairley, Don McKee, and Harry F. Comer returned Sunday from a trip to Fayetteville.

They were accompanied by Harold Gavin, vocalist, and Budd Wetschiff, guitarist, instead of by James Dees' quartet, as previously scheduled.

Di Senate

In an executive session tonight the Di Senate will discuss no bills, but will elect officers for the spring quarter.

The Senate will convene at 7:15 in New East.

All officers but president will be named. Charles Rawls was elected to that office at the last meeting in the fall quarter.

Other business will include hearing committee reports.

VENIZELOS ARMY SUFFERS DEFEAT FROM LOYALISTS

Greek Government Announces Decisive Defeat of Rebels; Blows Up Cruiser.

VICTORY EXPECTED SOON

Athens, Greece, Feb. 4.—(UP)—Loyal government troops delivered a decisive defeat to the insurrectionists at Niritia, Macedonia, the Greek government officially announced today.

The majority of the rebels, the government said, threw down their arms and surrendered, while the others were dispersed and put to flight.

Bomb Rebel Warship

Meanwhile, it was learned that government aviators scored two direct hits with 230-pound bombs on the prow of the rebel cruiser Averoff Saturday, setting the warship afire and killing or wounding an undetermined number of the rebelling sailors.

The government made it clear that it expected an early victory for the loyal forces. The rebels have the support of the aged but fiery former Premier Venizelos who has long been opposed to the present Greek government.

SPEAKERS AWAIT STANFORD DEBATE

Oliver Cross, Harry McMullan To Defend New Deal Against Visitors Here Thursday.

Professor William Olsen, faculty adviser of the debate squad, announced yesterday that a debate team composed of Oliver Cross and Harry McMullan will meet a team from Stanford University at noon Thursday in Gerrard hall.

Cross and McMullan will support the affirmative of the query: Resolved, that this house favor the New Deal.

Squad Meets Tonight

Professor Olsen also urged all men who have participated in University debates or attended the debate squad meetings to be present tonight in 209 Graham Memorial at 8:30 o'clock for a discussion of trade unions, company unions, and current labor problems.

Announcements will be made concerning debate trips for the spring holidays. The Yackety Yack will take a picture of the entire debate squad at 10:30 tomorrow morning at Gerrard hall.

The Stanford University debate team is now on an extended tour of the south and other sections of the country.

ODUM COMPLETES TOUR

Dr. H. W. Odum of the institute for research in social science has just returned from a lecture tour to Furman University and the Greenville Woman's College of the University of South Carolina.

Dr. Odum addressed assemblies at Furman University and the Woman's College.

TAR HEEL APPLICATIONS

Applications for the position of managing editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL will be received by the P. U. Board tomorrow.

The time of the board's meeting will be announced in tomorrow's issue.
