

SENATE CHOOSES SPRING OFFICERS IN FINAL SESSION

Phi Passes Motion to Reprimand Durfee for Tampering with Wording of Bills.

DECLARED "NOT IN ORDER"

The Di Senate wound up its winter quarter business last night in an hilarious executive session in which reports of outgoing officers were heard and spring quarter elections for all the offices except president, already filled by the earlier election of Charles Rawls, took place.

Senator Weaver was chosen president pro-tem without a dissenting vote. By a 13-12 vote, Senator McKee was elected critic over Mason Gibbs. In two other close elections the Di chose Senators Stein and Yeatman, clerk and sergeant-at-arms, respectively.

Lee Names Committee

Out-going President Virgil J. Lee appointed a membership committee composed of Senators Kind, chairman, Howard, and Kendrick.

The chairmen of the finance, entertainment, and ways and means committee gave the reports customary at the end of the quarter. The treasury of the organization is very low, and little entertainment is in sight.

The ways and means committee report was a resumé of all the business of the Senate during the quarter. Of the 12 bills introduced, three were tabled indefinitely and two until the spring quarter.

One of the most important meetings of the quarter was the one in which Robert Griffin, North Carolina Negro working here with the institute for research in social science, spoke on the race problem.

GRADUATES HAVE COURSE IN MUSIC

University Is One of Few Schools Offering Course Leading to Master of Arts Degree.

The graduate school of the University announced yesterday the establishment of a curriculum in musicology leading to the degree of master of arts in music.

A survey of catalogs indicates that this is the first institution in the south to inaugurate such a course, although within the last few years a number of leading universities in this country, following the long established practice of great European universities, have developed their graduate work in music in this direction. Harvard, Cornell, and Columbia are among institutions which have made respectable beginnings with such courses.

Scientific Music

Musicology, which has been described as the scientific knowledge of music, theory being the prime requisite for research, is said to be an intellectual activity which goes far beyond the needs of the actual composer or performer. There is no limit, it is said, to the scientific work which can be done in this field. Professional musicologists in Europe have won equal rank in Theilade's dances is entitled "Danish Porcelain," in which she represents a little statue in the gray blue colors of the famous Royal Copenhagen porcelain which comes to life. It will be done to the music of Debussy.

The second dance will be "Diana," also to the music of Debussy. The third dance will be in the classic style, showing the different moods of a very young girl.

Her first number after intermission will be "Angel at the Tomb," a dance especially created for her and first presented by her in Reinhardt's production of "Everyman" during the Salzburg Festival of 1932. Following this, she will give a portrayal

Last Year's Reserves Plus Fall And Winter Dues Make Additional Fees Unnecessary.

PLAN FOR SENIOR WEEK

No additional fees will be levied on the members of the senior class, according to the provisions of the budget drawn up by the senior class executive committee at its meeting last night.

Due to a reserve brought over from last year, the treasury holds ample funds, including the fall and winter quarter fees, to cover all activity expenses.

Senior Week Plans

Plans for Senior Week were drawn up by the committee and the date for the affair was set for the second week in May. Beginning on Tuesday with the class smoker and free show, the week will proceed through Wednesday's stunt night, Thursday's tapping for the Golden Fleece, and Friday and Saturday's junior-senior dance.

Plans are also under way for selecting the customary senior class regalia.

A special committee was appointed to investigate the matter of electing the senior class superlatives during Senior Week.

Billy Harrison, Ralph Gardner, and Dick Haynes were placed on the committee to arrange for the annual class gift to the University.

Billy Pitt, head of the trophy committee, informed the class that his committee had succeeded in contacting many members of the alumni and captains of former athletic teams to recover many of Carolina's trophies that have been lost during the past decade.
