

NOTED SPEAKERS TO MAKE TALKS BEFORE CLASSES

Duggan, Hope, Lederer, and Landis Will Lead Classroom Seminar Discussions Tomorrow.

PUBLIC FREE TO ATTEND

Over seven classes will hear seminar speakers tomorrow, according to a schedule announced yesterday by J. D. Winslow, head of the Human Relations Institute seminar committee.

Beginning at 11 a. m., Professor Frazer's class in Government 21 meeting in 213 Saunders will hear Dr. Stephen P. Duggan of the Institute of International Education.

Public Invited

All classroom discussions throughout the week will be open to visitors from outside the membership of the class, according to Winslow.

Also at 11 o'clock, Dr. John Hope, president of Atlanta University, will conduct the seminar for Professor Crittenden's History 48 class meeting in 314 Saunders.

Dr. Emil Lederer, dean of the graduate faculty of the New School for Social Research, has been selected to lead a discussion at a joint meeting to be held in 103 Bingham for 12 o'clock classes in Economics and Government 143 and 158.

Landis to Speak

At 3 p. m. James M. Landis, United States securities and exchange commissioner, will lecture to the classes in Economics 197 and the University's administrative law courses in 103 Bingham.

Winslow indicated that the whole class periods would be turned over to the visiting speakers.

The committee for arranging the seminar program is composed of Billy Harrison, Harold Bennett, Simmons Patterson, and Winslow.

Special seminar speakers who are not listed on the public address program include Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, educational director of the Phelps-Stokes fund; Dr. J. F. Rippey, professor of history and government at Duke University; Dr. N. C. Newbold, director of the department of Negro education in North Carolina; and Julian Harris, advertising director of the Atlanta Constitution.

Officials Limit Thomas Dinner Tickets To 100

Tickets for the Norman Thomas banquet next Friday evening in Graham Memorial have been limited to 100, it was announced yesterday. They are being sold for 60 cents.

There has been a heavy demand for admissions to the affair and officials of the Carolina Political Union, which is sponsoring the dinner, urge that reservations be made immediately at the office of the Y. M. C. A., with Robert Smithwick at Everett dormitory, or with Phil Hammer at the DAILY TAR HEEL office.

Thomas will speak on some phase of politics, probably Tammany Hall and other New York political machines. There will be ample opportunity for asking the speaker questions pertinent to this or other subjects.

INSTITUTE LEADERS

Pictured above are some of the outstanding authorities who will speak at the third quadrennial Human Relations Institute which opens here today.

SOULE TO CLOSE SESSIONS

James M. Landis, United States Securities and Exchange Commissioner, and Dr. Emil Lederer, dean of the graduate faculty at the New School for Social Research, will make the two public platform addresses tomorrow, continuing the Human Relations Institute program which will last until Saturday.

Landis will discuss "The Significance of Federal Regulation of Securities" at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow morning in Memorial hall.

Says Business Week of Landis: "The vast extent of his knowledge fools a lot of people who cannot believe that one man could know as much as he does about so many things, and then have spare brain cells for something else."

Lederer Talks at Night

Dr. Lederer, who will make the evening lecture tomorrow at 8 o'clock, will talk on "The Background of European Dictatorships."

A world-renowned authority on economics, Lederer will also conduct several seminars during the week. Traveler and writer, he has held professorships in three foreign universities and has traveled and lectured in China, Europe, and throughout other parts of the world. He was a member of the Socialism commission and at one time editor of "Archiv fur Sozialwissenschaft und Sozialpolitik."

The Foreign Policy League will entertain Dr. Stephen Duggan at a special banquet at 6 p. m. tomorrow before Lederer's evening address.

In order to allow students to attend the morning addresses, the University administration has arranged for all 9:30 classes to end at 10:08 o'clock. The morning lecture throughout the week will begin at 10:15 o'clock and will continue till 11:08 o'clock. The regular 11 o'clock classes will assemble at 11:15 o'clock.

PUPPETS PERFORM IN DRAMA TONIGHT

Playmakers to Present Health Play at 7 p. m.; Performance Completes State Tour.

A special showing of the Playmakers' puppet health drama will be presented tonight at 7 o'clock in the Playmakers Theatre.

The performance is being sponsored to give drama students and friends in Chapel Hill and Raleigh an opportunity of seeing the play that has been touring the state. There will be no admission charge.

Sponsors of Play

Puppeteers Louise McQuire and William Long of the Playmakers, will have charge of the production of the show that they have carried to school children in 29 counties under the sponsorship of the state dental department and the National Good Tooth Council.

Tonight's performance will be presented, according to Long, for Dr. Ernest Branch, head of the state division of dental hygiene.

The drama which the Playmakers sent out reached 49,000 children in 80 performances, announced Long. Tonight's showing will complete the tour which began here several weeks before the holidays and included points over the state from the mountains to the sea.

Solely an educational production, the performance is not intended to conflict with any previously arranged church programs nor with the address of the Human Relations Institute guest, Dean Robert Russell Wicks of Princeton, in Memorial hall at 8 o'clock.

Banquet for Duggan

Foreign Policy League to Sponsor Dinner Tomorrow Night.

Dr. Stephen Duggan of the Institute of International Education will explain the Moscow summer school session for American students at a banquet in his honor at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening in Graham Memorial.

Dr. Duggan, who will appear on the Human Relations Institute program Tuesday morning, speaking on "The Present Situation in Europe," will also discuss the part American students can play in expressing themselves to their government on current public problems.

Tickets for the affair, which is being sponsored by the Foreign Policy League, are on sale in the Y. M. C. A.

DEAN R. R. WICKS TO TALK TONIGHT AT MASS MEETING

Opening of Institute Exhibit Will Take Place at 2 p. m. Today In Memorial Hall.

SPEECHES OPEN TO PUBLIC

Four Chapel Hill pulpits will be filled by Human Relations Institute speakers this morning, and the series of public platform addresses will be inaugurated tonight at a general mass meeting in Memorial hall at 8 o'clock.

At 11 a. m., Dr. Carl C. Taylor, regional director of the Land Policy of the AAA, will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist church. Dr. Taylor will speak on "The People and Our National Resources."

Miller at Methodist

At the Methodist church Julian Miller of the editorial staff of the Charlotte Observer, will talk on "How Much Better is a Man Than a Gasket?"

Dr. McNeill Poteat, pastor of Pullen Memorial church in Raleigh, will fill the Presbyterian pulpit. Dr. Poteat has announced that he will speak on "The Emancipation of the Spirit."

Discussing "The Sociological Background of Our Contemporary Conflicts," Dr. Howard E. Jensen, professor of sociology at Duke University, will appear at the Episcopal church.

Opening of Exhibit

The initial opening of the Institute exhibit in Memorial hall will be at 2 p. m. In the lobby there has been set up a complete display of hundreds of the best books and periodicals on the subject matter of the Institute. The exhibit will remain open till 10:30 and during the week from 9 a. m. till 10:30 p. m.

More than 32 national organizations and publishers furnished materials for the exhibit which has been arranged by Joe Sugarman, Dr. Harold D. Meyer, Phil Hammer, and Don McKee.

Wicks Talks at 8 p. m.

Dean of Chapel at Princeton University, Robert Russell Wicks will address the first of the Institute's public mass meetings in Memorial hall at 8 p. m. Wicks is to discuss "The College Student in a Sacred World." Author, theologian, speaker, World War Y. M. C. A. service worker, Dr. Wicks has been dean of chapel at Princeton since 1929.

Fifty-two-year-old Dr. Wicks is a graduate of Hamilton College and Union Theological Seminary and has three times been given the degree of doctor of divinity, from Hamilton, Williams, and Yale.

During the World War he performed "Y" services for over six months and since that time he has had an outstanding career as lecturer, preacher, and writer.

Dean Wick's topic for tonight's address, "The College Student in a Sacred World," will serve to prepare a background for the Institute's study for the week.

According to Charles A. Poe, chairman of the Institute committee, the three major fields for study are: international relations and government, human relations in business and industry, and interracial and class relations.
