

KOCH WILL PLAY HAMLET IN MAY

Playmakers Will Give Long Planned Presentation in Forest Theatre.

As an elaborate final production of the season, the Playmakers will present Hamlet in the Forest Theatre May 24 and 25, it was announced yesterday by Proff Koch, who will play the title role.

Preliminary tryouts for the principal parts will be conducted tomorrow in the Playmaker theatre by Sam Selden, director of the play and designer of the scenery. Tryouts for minor parts will be held later. All students are eligible, and everyone interested is urged to be present tomorrow.

Planned Last Year

A production of Hamlet was planned last year in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of the birth of Edwin Booth, the greatest Hamlet of all times, but was postponed because the Playmakers were requested at that time to present a bill of original plays at the National Folk Festival at St. Louis.

Earl Slocum will direct an orchestra in the playing of music composed by Sir George Henschel for a production of Hamlet at the Haymarket theatre in London, 1892; and Mrs. Phoebe Barr will have charge of the dances. Mrs. Ora Mae Davis will design an entirely new set of costumes.

Mention of the production of Hamlet in the Forest theatre will call to mind other Shakespearean plays presented there in recent years, including A Midsummer Night's Dream, The Taming of the Shrew, and Romeo and Juliet.

Carolina's big third inning started when Bullard reached first on Johnson's error. Voliva hit a nice single to left field and Bullard advanced to second. Crouch bunted and was safe at first on Ware's error. Bullard came home on a passed ball. Captain Vick reached first and Voliva and Crouch scored on Lambeth's error. Rand walked and Irwin got a two-base hit to score Vick and Rand.

The Tar Heels threatened to score again in the fifth inning when Rand singled and Irwin and Tatum got on bases after being hit by the State pitcher.

No State batsman was able to get more than one hit off Crouch; however, Rex and Johnson connected with a two-base knock apiece.

Irwin committed the only Tar Heel error of the afternoon when he allowed Farrar's grounder to slip past him in the fifth inning.

A Duke student artist made a crack about a Carolina freshman. Mrs. Watt M. Cooper was over there near O'Hara. He stopped his "drawing" a moment... A stir in the crowd... O'Hara was speaking dryly, "I oughta make a speech and sell some snake art—good opportunity for a salesman..." Back to his work, the crowd settled for the last few minutes before the approaching dark.

The 20 visitors and artists soon began to break up their party; they had been there since 2 o'clock. The spectators unfolded their arms, stopped standing on one foot and began employing both toward their original destinations, until then forgotten in the novel attraction.

ERICSON SPEAKS AT WAR PROTEST OF S. C. STUDENTS

Neighboring University Adopts Three Anti-War Resolutions.

The University English department's E. E. Ericson was the principal speaker at the anti-war demonstration of the students at the University of South Carolina in Columbia Friday.

Students brought from their classrooms heard Dr. Ericson and Dr. Josiah Morse of the South Carolina psychology department on the program sponsored by the Clarisophic Society, a campus organization.

At the outdoor meeting, Ericson pointed out the relations of Fascism to war. Countries weak in their economic aspect shield themselves by pumping up their war spirits, he declared. "Germany and Italy are bent on war," was his conclusion.

The South Carolina students adopted enthusiastically a three proposal plan which included statements that they will not support the government in any way to carry on a war; they will ask the federal government to adopt control of munitions; they will ask the government for a plebiscite declaration of war instead of one from Congress.

songs, the choir will sing the "Song of the Volga Boatman," "Lord Have Mery On Us," the famous "Credo of Grethanioff," and "Rachmaninoff's C Sharp Minor Prelude."

Same Personnel

The choir has kept its personnel intact for 15 years under the same leadership, and today represents a model of the perfect blending of voices.

It has also that quality so uncanny to the laymen, the gift of absolute pitch. Kibalchich has only to give the sign for the start, and each singer—though the music to be sung may be scored in as many as 15 parts—comes in on the perfectly keyed note.
